

Manson Will Tell it All--in Song

Charles Milles Manson, the long-haired hippie leader charged with masterminding the Tate and LaBianca murders, will tell his story to the world in song—not words—he said Friday in an exclusive interview with the Independent Press-Telegram.

"They (the courts) have got me mired with so much to do, I haven't had time to write anything down," Manson said in a telephone interview from the jail library.

He said he had read Susan Atkins' story, "The Killing of Sharon Tate" for which she and her co-authors reportedly received $200,000—but he declined to comment on the contents other than to say she "made a lot of money."

"Oh, I've been offered the same thing," he said. "They say for me not to talk to anyone else, because it depreciates the value of the book. Each time they come, they come with a little better offer."

But the short, one-time guru of some 150 flower children living at the Spahn Ranch in Chats-

"I've got them, they don't have me," says accused mass slayer Charles Manson of his "Establishment" captors in an article written by a fellow prisoner for the Sunday Independent Press-Telegram. worth, adds he "won't do it (sell his life story)—ever."

"Never . . . I'm not going to do it ever," he repeated. "I've lived without money . . . I've always lived without money. If you get caught up in something like that . . . it'll catch you up in it and keep you."

The court order restricting Manson from talking to the press apparently doesn't bother the free-thinking hippie.

"I'm not afraid to violate the court order," he said, "but when you write something down it's gone. What you write today is gone tomorrow—something takes its place, or you change . . ."

"A lot of people come to talk to me for five minutes, go out and say they know all about me and my personal views—that they had a personal interview with me, and all that."

"One guy even wrote a three-article story and got $100,000 for a 15-minute interview. Of course, it was everything he wanted to say and nothing that I said."

"But I always let other people do and feel the way they want—I feel that's the best way."

His way, he says, is music. And that's the way his version of the Tate and LaBianca murders, as well ACTION LINE is your service, solving your problems, getting your answers, cutting red tape and standing up for your rights. To get action, write ACTION LINE, Box 230, Long Beach, Calif. 90801, or dial 432-3451 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m., or 5 p.m. and 9 p.m., Monday through Friday. Questions to be answered are selected for their general interest and helpfulness.

District Director

Q. What is the residency requirement for a Long Beach city councilman? Must he live in his district? A. T., Long Beach.

A. Yes. According to Section 50 of the City Charter, a City Council candidate must have lived in his district for at least six months before filing a declaration of candidacy with the City Clerk. If elected, he must live within the district he represents for the duration of his term.

Cab Complaint

Q. Ever since the City of Long Beach granted the taxi company a rate increase, the taxi service seems to have decreased. What can be done about this? Is there a city office I should complain to? M. K. S., Long Beach.

GRAFFITI by Leary

A. "We are trying to get rid of the sore spots in the taxi service, and we urge people to register their complaints with us," said Lou Possner, director of the City Bureau of Franchises and Public Utilities. He added, however, that specific information, such as the cab number, the time of day the cab was called and the date, is needed in order to investigate the complaint. "There is just nothing we can do about generalized complaints about slow service or drivers' attitudes. With specific information, we can get to the source of the problem," Possner said. He suggested you send your complaints to him at the bureau, 115 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801.

Old Organ

Q. I have an old Estey pump organ which needs to be repaired, but I can't find anyone who can do this type of work. Can ACTION LINE help? R. L., Long Beach.

A. Roy Putney told ACTION LINE that he can repair your organ, but he is booked up until the middle of April. You can call Putney at 438-6984 and make an appointment. Since Estey parts are no longer available, replacement parts must be hand-made. Putney estimated the cost of repairing the organ at $175 to $250. Ed Schmidt of Lynwood and Richard MacDonough of Whittier both said that they might be able to repair the organ, but they would need more information before they could say for sure. You can call Schmidt at 639-3218 after 7:30 p.m. and MacDonough at 696-6338.

Slow Pay

Q. Last July, a tenant died in my apartment building. The apartment sustained some damage, and I filed a claim, as I was told with the public administrator who is handling the estate. I've heard nothing from him, despite three letters. D. D., Long Beach.

A. A spokesman for the county Public Administrator's office checked their records and found that the estate of the deceased still is open. All claim payments, except funeral costs, are held until after the estate is closed, she said. On the average, cases take about eight months to be settled. If you wish to write the deputy administrator in charge of this particular estate, write Jesse Pelayo, Public Administrator's office, 220 N. Broadway, Los Angeles, Calif.

REACTION

To elaborate on ACTION LINE's recent question on Western Union message delivery, I would like to mention that California is the only state in which messages are hand delivered without extra charge in cities where there is a Western Union office. All other states charge 75 cents for hand delivery, and we are trying to get this rate approved in this state, as well. F.M., Los Angeles.

Contract for F-15

ST. LOUIS (U) — Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seamans Jr., said Friday if McDonnell Douglas Corp. is found not to be in compliance with federal equal employment opportunity standards, the recently awarded contract for the F-15 fighter plane "will have to be canceled."

Seamans broke off a visit to Ramey Air Force Base in Puerto Rico to fly to St. Louis and confer with McDonnell Douglas officials.

He said he intended to find out "who or what group made the mistake" of not reviewing the firm's hiring practices prior to award of the contract, which could total $7.7 billion.

Earlier, the Pentagon announced that a pre-award review of employment practices, required under law, was not made.

The firm said of 33,007 employees, 2,507 were Negro.

James S. McDonnell, chairman of the firm, told newsmen he expected the review of hiring and personnel practices would be "thorough" and he had no doubts the firm's policies would be found acceptable.

A statement issued by the firm said:

"We believe we have been and are now in full compliance . . . by the Air Force. We submitted an updated affirmative action program to the office of contracts compliance, pledging continuing implementation of our policy of equal employment opportunity."

Talks Slated

MIAMI (UPI)—Some 3,300 ground workers struck National Airlines early today after contract negotiations in Washington, D.C. broke down.

Pickets began marching outside National's headquarters at Miami International Airport within 15 minutes after the strike was called at midnight Friday.

SEVERAL flights were canceled Friday night in advance of the walkout.

National's mediation board chairman Francis A. O'Neill Jr. said negotiations broke up about 10:30 p.m.

"We narrowed the gap," he reflected, "but we just didn't make it."

New talks were scheduled to begin at 10:30 a.m. today in Washington, according to federal mediator Joseph Smith.

Fire Levels Western Street

Associated Press

A raging fire at the Columbia movie studio ranch in Burbank destroyed or damaged movie and television sets Friday afternoon. No injuries were reported.

Preliminary reports put the damage at more than $2 million.

Included among destroyed sets was Western Street where many gun fights including that in "High Noon," were shot.

It was also on this set, a Columbia spokesman said, where the famous "Cat Ballou" scene with Lee Marvin astride the cross-legged horse was filmed.

The entire ranch was built around Western Street," he said.

Also destroyed was the exterior set for the television series "The Flying Nun." The set had been built in the late 1930s for the Ronald Colman movie "Lost Horizon."

A spokesman for Screen

Gems, which shoots "The Flying Nun," said the fire loss would not hold up production of scenes still to be shot.

"A lot of the area they use on the set is still intact," the spokesman said. "Anything else we need will be rebuilt."

Columbia also reported as destroyed Stage 32, the "Blondie" home, plus a lesser home next to it and some minor sets in storage.

The "Blondie" house was used in the movie series starring Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake and is now used frequently for other films.

Joan Blondell, Robert Brown and other "Here Come the Brides" cast members were at work when the fire broke out.

The main set for the television series was intact, but a spokesman said a newer, secondary set was destroyed.

The cause of the fire was being investigated by the Burbank Fire Department.

'Easier Money' Next Aim

WASHINGTON (U) — President Nixon Friday night pronounced his forthcoming $200.8-billion budget "a major blow in stopping the inflationary psychology," and forecast success in the effort to curb rising prices.

He blamed the past year's inflation on his Democratic predecessors, said his budget plans "will turn it around," and indicated a change is likely in the policies which pushed interest rates to record highs.

THE PRESIDENT also announced he has decided to seek a major expansion of the bitterly disputed Safeguard antiballistic missile system — to defend American cities as well as offensive missile sites.

He said this is needed to defend against possible "nuclear blackmail" by a nation like Red China.

The ABM announcement — with details to be disclosed within 30 days — is certain to stir another angry debate in the Senate, which battled for weeks before narrowly approving the first installment of the system.

Nixon declared irreversible his policy of supplanting American combat forces in Vietnam with South Vietnamese troops — but said if the Communists step up the conflict the U.S. will retaliate.

Southland College Seniors Face Bleak Job Prospects

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

Southland college graduates who expect to step out of the classroom into desirable, high-paying jobs this spring face disappointment, frustration and the tightest job market in years.

Unless they're accountants, industrial arts teachers or graduates with a few other much-needed special skills, they may find no jobs at all.

Even engineering graduates, who traditionally have been able to select from many attractive job opportunities, will find fewer choices with lower starting salaries.

That's the bleak picture painted by most Southland college placement officers, although others say things aren't quite so bad.

The Office of Career Planning and Placement at California State College at Long Beach is finding severe difficulty placing its January graduates. Things will probably get worse in June.

Young chap to friend: "He just doesn't plan for the future at all. He's getting married next month and hasn't even found her a job."

"This is the worst year we've had in almost every area," says Director Ed Babbush.

"And we find that many students have no idea what they're up against until the last minute."

Greatest problem, he said, is recent cutbacks in aerospace, electronics and defense contracts.

Although openings aren't as scarce for UCLA students looking for jobs in business, industry and government, there's not much call for teaching graduates.

"We have openings for teachers in Blythe and Needles," says UCLA's

GOP Hails Rogers-Hardin Wedding

Combined News Services

The Nixon Administration celebrates its first family wedding today when the son of Secretary of State William P. Rogers marries the daughter of Agriculture Secretary M. Clifford Hardin. President and Mrs. Nixon, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and his wife will feature a guest list of official Washington at the wedding ceremony — the biggest social event since Lynda Bird Johnson was married when her father was President.

The romance between Douglas Langston Rogers and Nancy Ann Hardin began when their fathers were sworn in as cabinet members at the White House a day after Nixon was inaugurated. Douglas, 23, turned to his parents and said, "We must see more of the Hardins." The nuptials will take place at 3 p.m. at the National Presbyterian Church with 800 Washington dignitaries and friends of both families attending.

The 21-year-old bride-to-be is a freshman at the University of Virginia's law school and after the wedding will attend Yale University's law school with her husband. The couple rehearsed the ceremony Friday evening with both fathers participating. Secretary Rogers was selected by his son to be best man.

The matron of honor will be Nancy Ann's married sister, Mrs. Cynthia Milligan. Mrs. Susan Wood of Iowa City, Iowa, another sister, also will be a member of the bridal party. Five-year-old Jessica Marshall, Rogers' granddaughter, will be flower girl.

Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of the church and chaplain of the Senate, will officiate.

'FIGHTING BOB'

Douglas LaFollette, a member of one of Wisconsin's most famous political families, is expected to announce Tuesday he will run for congress. LaFollette, a grand nephew of Robert M. "Fighting Bob" LaFollette, is expected to seek the Democratic nomination for the 1st District (Racine) seat now held by Republican Henry Schadeberg.

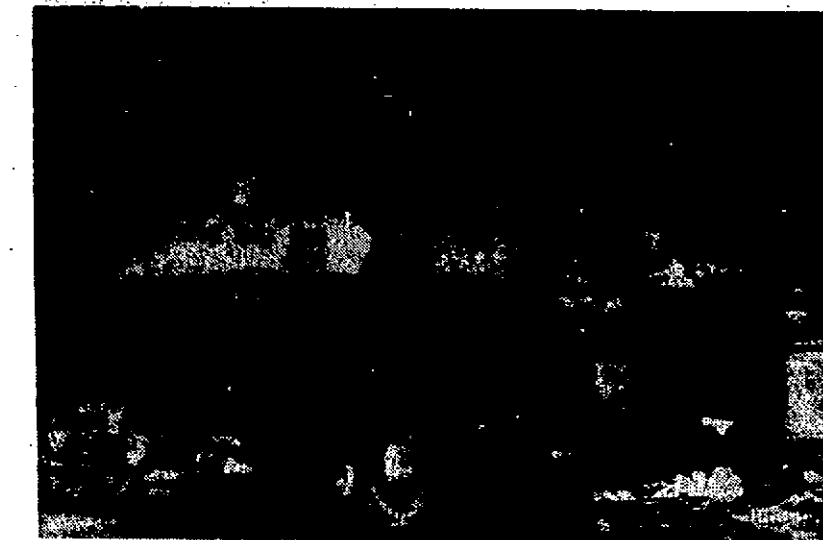

EDWARDS TO JOIN UC FACULTY

HARRY EDWARDS Gets VC Appointment

Harry Edwards, controversial Negro educator who tried to organize a black boycott of the 1968 Olympic games, was appointed Friday as acting assistant professor of sociology at the University of California. In announcing that Edwards, 27, will join the Berkeley faculty next July 1, Chancellor Roger W. Heyns said, "Apparently some persons would substitute as a criterion for appointment a man's opinions about racial and social conditions in place of scholarship and competence in his field."

The chancellor said the appointment was reviewed by the sociology department, the dean of the college of letters and science and the Academic Senate budget committee.

Red Rockets Rip 1st Infantry Base

Combined News Services

SAIGON — Communist forces fired 10 rockets Friday night into the headquarters base of the U.S. 1st Infantry division, the principal unit involved in President Nixon's latest redeployment plan for American troops in South Vietnam. U.S. command spokesmen said the barrage of 122mm rockets against the base caused casualties, which were described only as light, but no fatalities. There was also some damage to the base, located at Lai Khe, north of Saigon. The 18,000 troops of the division are scheduled for withdrawal from Vietnam by April 15 under the latest redeployment involving a total of 50,000 Americans. The cutoff began earlier this week when 3,000 Marines departed, but the U.S. command has not announced when 1st Division troops will begin leaving.

Rioting in Manila Spreads

MANILA — Students demonstrating against the government smashed down a gate of the presidential palace with a commandeered fire truck Friday night, touching off a wave of rioting that spread to downtown Manila and continued until early today. City police said at least five persons were killed, all by rifle fire from riot police and marines protecting the palace. Manila hospitals admitted more than 150 persons for treatment of gunshot wounds or other injuries. The riot spread in all directions from the palace, involved more than 1,000 police and 3,000 students. Gen. Manuel Yan Took, who took control of troops and police, said "no less than 300 persons" were under arrest.

MARRIAGE BAN UPHELD

VATICAN CITY — A leading Vatican cardinal said Friday there would be no loosening of the ban on marriage for Roman Catholic priests. He criticized Dutch bishops and priests for their liberal approach to the issue of celibacy. In an article in the Vatican newspaper France's Jean Cardinal Danielou accused Dutch liberals of trying to belittle papal authority and attacked the bishops for recommending that priests be allowed to marry.

Egypt Repulses Israeli Jets

CAIRO — Egyptian jets intercepted Israeli planes attacking along the Suez Canal Friday and sent them fleeing back toward the east, a spokesman in Cairo said. The Israeli planes killed four civilians and wounded three soldiers in the attacks, the spokesman said. All Egyptian planes were reported to have returned safely. No reference to possible Israeli losses were made.

Reds Claim Serious Negotiations

PARIS — The supervisor of North Vietnam's peace delegation returned Friday from Hanoi consultations and said his government is ready for "serious negotiations." But he said Hanoi would make no concessions at the negotiating table under U.S. military pressure. Le Duc Tho, member of the Hanoi Politbureau, accused President Nixon of pursuing a "double-faced policy" in Vietnam.

El Salvador-Honduras Pullback

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica — El Salvador and Honduras agreed Friday to an immediate pullback of troops along their common border. But unconfirmed reports from Honduras said Salvadoran aircraft flew Friday over two Honduran villages, firing bursts from machine guns. Honduras' defense department and foreign office refused to comment.

TV Networks Refuse Veto Retort

WASHINGTON — The three television networks turned down a request by House Democratic leader Carl Albert for free time to answer President Nixon's veto of the education money bill, Albert reported Friday. He had asked for the time last Monday as soon as it was learned that Nixon would veto the bill on television.

Rail Strike Begins With Union Pacific

WASHINGTON — A strike against Union Pacific Railroad started at midnight Friday and industry spokesmen said they would move to shut down the nation's entire rail network. The strike call came after more than a year of off-again, on-again contract negotiations between the railroads and four shop craft unions. As late as Friday night union negotiators rejected an attempt by Labor Secretary George P. Schultz to declare a seven-day cooling off period. In Washington William W. Wimpfinger, spokesman for the AFL-CIO unions, said the strike which "commenced at midnight against the Union Pacific is authorized."

And John P. Hiltz Jr., chief negotiator for the railroads in the now-defunct contract talks, said "If it's an authorized strike against only the Union Pacific or only a few lines we'll take action to close down the rest of them."

He said other railroads across the country would be given the word to close down operations within one to 24 hours.

Fulbright Attacks Viet Policy

WASHINGTON — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said Friday the Nixon Administration's current policy could keep American troops bogged down in Vietnam indefinitely. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, also said that a final end to the war is no closer than it was a year ago. In announcing new hearings next week on the war, Fulbright said "all Americans have reason to be gratified by President Nixon's actions to de-escalate the Vietnam war." But, he said, "still replacements are being sent and the war is draining $70 million a day out of the taxpayer's pockets."

27 Ejected at Chicago Trial

CHICAGO — Marshals ejected 27 hooting, struggling spectators from the riot conspiracy trial courtroom Friday in disorders that erupted as the defense wound up its presentation of testimony. Defendants shouted angrily at U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman. The judge threatened to revoke the bail if defendants kept on making outside speeches and spectators flashed clenched fist salutes and cried their slogan "right on." At the end of the stormy session, Hoffman stood at the bench for a full minute staring silently at a crowd of hooting supporters of the defendants. Then he strode silently out.

9 Major Airlines Lose Appeal

WASHINGTON — Nine major airlines lost late Friday a court appeal from a Civil Aeronautics Board move to wipe out a 6.35 per cent air fare increase that took effect last Oct. 1. The court action left the airlines until midnight tonight in which to sign agreements for joint fares, in cooperation with the nine local service airlines, and for a more generous distribution of joint revenues to the local lines. If they do not sign the agreements, the nine airlines—American, Continental, Delta, Eastern, National, Northeast, Northwest, Trans World and United—were faced with a CAB order to reduce their fares on Sunday an average of 6.35 per cent to the level that prevailed last September.

Kirk Warns Florida Teachers

TALLAHASSEE — Florida Gov. Claude Kirk defiantly warned school officials in two counties Friday they face suspension if they comply with federal court-ordered desegregation plans. The executive order, released by a Kirk aide, will apply to Volusia and Manatee counties. "All officials affected by this executive order are hereby directed to comply with this order, and the failure to perform in accordance therewith shall be deemed to be grounds sufficient under the constitution and laws of this state to subject such officials to executive action," Kirk's order said.

BIG MISTAKE

Howard J. Samuels Jr., 17-year-old son of a New York City Democratic candidate for governor, went to court on charges of possessing hashish Friday, then declared he had made "a big mistake." The elder Samuels stood with his arm around his wife Barbara as judge Aloysius J. Mella referred their son to the Youth Council Bureau. Samuels, a millionaire industrialist who headed the Small Business Administration in the Johnson Administration, said after the hearing he did not "condone" his son's actions but believed laws on marijuana were overly punitive.

SON REGISTERED

Prince Carlos Hugo de Bourbon Parma, husband of Princess Irene of the Netherlands, registered the birth of their newborn son at Nijmegen Friday. The names were Carlos Javier Bernardo. His father is the pretender to the Spanish throne.

106 YEARS OLD

Mrs. Fannie Farmer, who was married at 14 in Quero, Tex., died Friday at the age of 106. Although married at 14, she was widowed at 26 but never remarried. Two daughters and one son are still living, as well as 38 grandchildren and 116 great grandchildren.

FOUND DEAD

Retired Col. Oscar Giron Perrone, who headed the coup that overthrew the government of Col. Jacobo Arbenz Guzman in 1954, was found shot dead Friday near Guatemala City. He had been missing since he left his home Thursday with a friend. The friend, Carlos Arjona, also was reported missing.

NO TO ESTES

Billie Sol Estes lost his parole bid Friday for freedom from prison where he has served five years of a 15-year term for fraudulent credit dealings in building a west Texas financial empire.

BUCHER TREATED

Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher, former skipper of the spy ship, Pueblo, is at the Oakland Naval Hospital undergoing "treatment and examination for an eye problem," the Navy said Friday. Bucher, 42, was sent to the hospital from the Navy's postgraduate school at Monterey where he has been enrolled since last fall. A spokesman said Bucher was experiencing headaches "possibly because of the demands of his studies." As skipper of the Pueblo — seized by North Korea in 1968 — Bucher spent almost a year in captivity with his crew before being released.

POMPIDOU SNUB

Mayor John V. Lindsay's office said Friday there will be no official welcome for French President Georges Pompidou when he visits New York City March 2. Rep. Bertram L. Podell, a Brooklyn Democrat, said he had talked to Lindsay and received the distinct impression that the omission was a deliberate snub because of France's sale of 110 Mirage jet fighters to Libya. Israeli and Jewish organizations have charged the planes will inevitably be used against Israel, probably by Egypt.

GOP Hails Rogers-Hardin Wedding

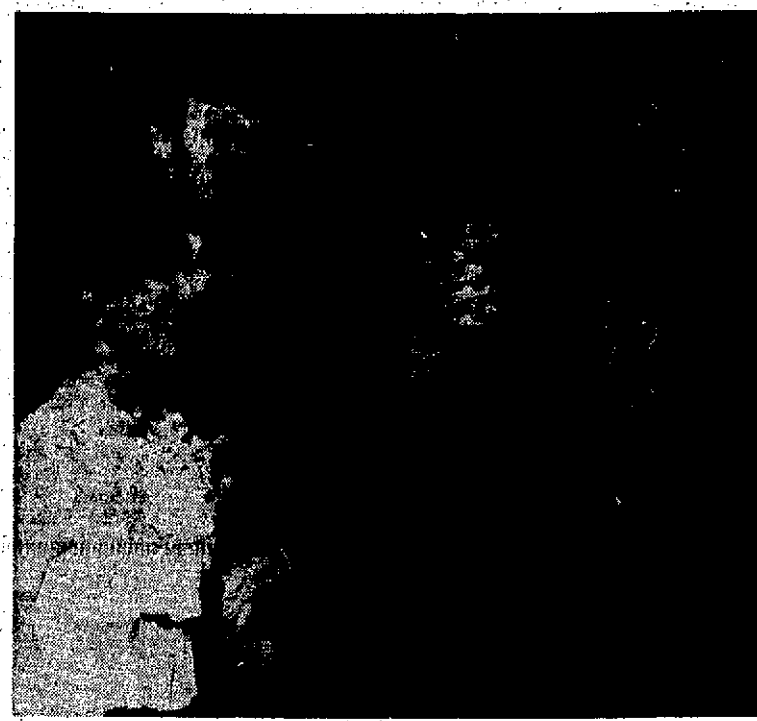

Combined News Services
The Nixon Administration celebrates its first family wedding today when the son of Secretary of State William P. Rogers marries the daughter of Agriculture Secretary M. Clifford Hardin. President and Mrs. Nixon, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and his wife will feature a guest list of official Washington at the wedding ceremony — the biggest social event since Lynda Bird Johnson was married when her father was President.

The romance between Douglas Langston Rogers and Nancy Ann Hardin began when their fathers were sworn in as cabinet members at the White House a day after Nixon was inaugurated. Douglas, 23, turned to his parents and said, "We must see more of the Hardins." The nuptials will take place at 3 p.m. at the National Presbyterian Church with 800 Washington dignitaries and friends of both families attending.

The 21-year-old bride-to-be is a freshman at the University of Virginia's law school and after the wedding will attend Yale University's law school with her husband. The couple rehearsed the ceremony Friday evening with both fathers participating. Secretary Rogers was selected by his son to be best man.

The matron of honor will be Nancy Ann's married sister, Mrs. Cynthia Milligan. Mrs. Susan Wood of Iowa City, Iowa, another sister, also will be a member of the bridal party. Five-year-old Jessica Marshall, Rogers' granddaughter, will be flower girl.

Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of the church and chaplain of the Senate, will officiate.

Red Rockets Rip 1st Infantry Base

Combined News Services
SAIGON — Communist forces fired 10 rockets Friday night into the headquarters base of the U.S. 1st Infantry division, the principal unit involved in President Nixon's latest redeployment plan for American troops in South Vietnam. U.S. command spokesmen said the barrage of 122mm rockets against the base caused casualties, which were described only as light, but no fatalities. There was also some damage to the base, located at Lai Khe, north of Saigon. The 18,000 troops of the division are scheduled for withdrawal from Vietnam by April 15 under the latest redeployment involving a total of 50,000 Americans. The cutback began earlier this week when 3,000 Marines departed, but the U.S. command has not announced when 1st Division troops will begin leaving.

Rioting in Manila Spreads
MANILA — Students demonstrating against the government smashed down a gate of the presidential palace with a commandeered fire truck Friday night, touching off a wave of rioting that spread to downtown Manila and continued until early today. City police said at least five persons were killed, all by rifle fire from riot police and marines protecting the palace. Manila hospitals admitted more than 150 persons for treatment of gunshot wounds or other injuries. The riot spread in all directions from the palace, involved more than 1,000 police and 3,000 students. Gen. Manuel Yan Took, who took control of troops and police, said "no less than 300 persons" were under arrest.

MARRIAGE BAN UPHELD
VATICAN CITY — A leading Vatican cardinal said Friday there would be no loosening of the ban on marriage for Roman Catholic priests. He criticized Dutch bishops and priests for their liberal approach to the issue of celibacy. In an article in the Vatican newspaper France's Jean Cardinal Damielou accused Dutch liberals of trying to belittle papal authority and attacked the bishops for recommending that priests be allowed to marry.

Egypt Repulses Israeli Jets
CAIRO — Egyptian jets intercepted Israeli planes attacking along the Suez Canal Friday and sent them fleeing back toward the east, a spokesman in Cairo said. The Israeli planes killed four civilians and wounded three soldiers in the attacks, the spokesman said. All Egyptian planes were reported to have returned safely. No reference to possible Israeli losses were made.

Reds Claim Serious Negotiations
PARIS — The supervisor of North Vietnam's peace delegation returned Friday from Hanoi consultations and said his government is ready for "serious negotiations." But he said Hanoi would make no concessions at the negotiating table under U.S. military pressure. Le Duc Tho, member of the Hanoi Politbureau, accused President Nixon of pursuing a "double-faced policy" in Vietnam.

El Salvador-Honduras Pullback
SAN JOSE, Costa Rica — El Salvador and Honduras agreed Friday to an immediate pullback of troops along their common border. But unconfirmed reports from Honduras said Salvadoran aircraft flew Friday over two Honduran villages, firing bursts from machine guns. Honduras' defense department and foreign office refused to comment.

YOU CAN'T SEARCH MILADY'S DIAPERS

United Press International

A 9-month-old baby girl won a legal victory Friday which could have ramifications for narcotics users everywhere.

The San Bernardino case involved a man and woman arrested after detectives found heroin in the baby's diapers. The legal issue at the pretrial hearing was whether the search was legal.

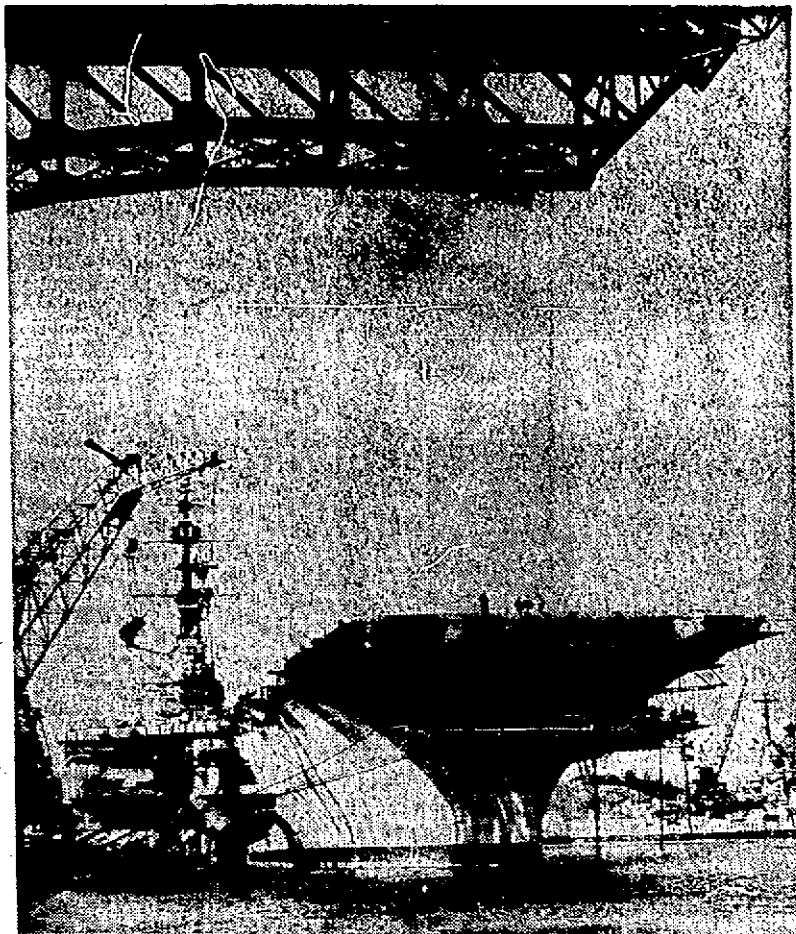

The defense argued that the search was illegal because the baby did not give her consent and there was no evidence justifying a forcible search.

Dep. Dist. Atty. Joseph A. Burns contended that the Fourth Amendment, which protects against unwarranted search, did not apply to a baby.

"It's ridiculous to say that a baby has a right to a speedy trial or the right to counsel," Burns said. "A baby would have no occasion to demand such rights."

Municipal Court Judge Theodore G. Krumm disagreed. A baby has the rights of a person and therefore must be afforded the protection of the Constitution, he ruled. The case was dismissed.

"By legal standards it is an interesting case," Burns said later. "But practically, the ruling could cause lots of trouble. Now everyone will know that's the place to hide narcotics — in their baby's diapers."

USS MIDWAY AT SAN FRANCISCO READY TO REJOIN FLEET —AP Wirephoto

Carrier's Modernization Costs $119.9 Million More

Associated Press

The Pentagon reported Friday the attack carrier USS Midway is ready to return to service after a four-year modernization program which has cost more than double the original estimates.

But the Navy's most recent estimates, conversion work on the carrier ran $119.9 million above the originally anticipated figure of $64.3 million for a total cost of $204.2 million. That figure included $2.2 million for "fast delivery."

Completely new nuclear carriers cost about $500 million. The World War II vintage Midway is not nuclear powered.

The Navy called the Midway's conversion the most comprehensive ever made to a U.S. Navy ship. "She will be capable of handling the largest and most complex carrier aircraft and weapons systems in the Navy's arsenal through the 1980s," the Navy stated.

The conversion, delayed in part because higher priority shipyard work interrupted the program, gave the Midway new deck-edge elevators, new catapults and arresting gear, and enlarged, angled deck and advanced electronics gear, among other things.

Navy officers attributed the huge cost overrun in part to "grossly insufficient" estimates on how much it would cost to repair some of the carrier's machinery.

Re-commissioning ceremonies are scheduled this morning at the San Francisco Bay Naval Shipyard at Hunter's Point. The ship will be commanded by Capt. Eugene J. Carroll Jr. of Northumberland, Pa., and will operate out of Alameda.

Harbor College Chief Defends 1-Year Rating

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

Dr. Wendell C. Black serves on the accrediting commission for Junior Colleges, an official academic rating agency with almost life or death powers over two-year colleges in California and Hawaii.

He also is president of Wilmington's Harbor College, which this week learned its request for another 5-year accreditation was reduced to a single year by the commission because of alleged political interference from its conservatively dominated board of trustees.

"I would support the commission," Black declared Friday during a press conference hastily called to note, for the record, that "Harbor remains a fully-accredited college."

HE EXPLAINED that the area school "belongs to a 'family' of junior colleges spread across Los Angeles and controlled, since last July, by a single board.

Among the family, Los Angeles City and Southwest Colleges also received reduced, one-year accreditations by commission action.

So far the only reason given officially was contained in a letter written Monday to Black by Dr. Henry T. Tyler, commission executive secretary, which says in part:

"The reports of the accreditation teams to Los Angeles Southwest and City College emphasize a serious deterioration in the effectiveness of the board of trustees in its relationship with the administration and staff of the district and its colleges."

This point, which Black declared does not apply to Harbor, generally is considered to mean trustee "interference with internal operations" of the schools.

Black acknowledged that the board, elected last spring to represent a district then split by state law from its parent Los Angeles city school district, has on occasion, become "involved in the internal workings" of a college.

HE CITED the board's firing of a San Fernando Valley junior college English instructor for reading obscene poetry in class and the overturning of a student body election at Pierce College.

These, he averred, are decisions to be made administratively rather than by the board. "The role of the board is to make policy," not administer the colleges, he said.

In his letter to Black, Tyler of the accrediting agency insisted that "substantial changes must be made in the relationships and operations of the board with its staff" by late fall.

Requested was a "report indicating actions taken to remedy the situation prepared jointly by the board and district administration and submitted to the commission no later than Nov. 1, 1970."

The commission then

"will conduct an on-location investigation preparatory to further deliberations on the accreditation status of the three colleges."

Tyler wrote that "the commission wants it clearly understood this limitation is not to be interpreted as a reflection on the internal operation of the colleges under consideration, except as attainment of their (educational) objectives is impeded by the conditions described above."

POINTING UP the seriousness of an accreditation that Harbor has not lost "and will not lose," said Black, is the future of 7,900 students enrolled there. Without official standing it would become difficult for them to transfer credits earned to a four-year college.

In Los Angeles, trustee president William Orozco termed the limitation "incredible."

"It is incredible," he said, "that a team of people can determine a degree of deterioration from two short breakfast meetings with the board, the highest authority in the district."

"If we take this report as a suggestion to back off, we will be letting the academic community govern itself."

Trustees generally say conservatives hold a voting majority on the board. But, said member Robert Cline, the district couldn't have deteriorated in the six months since the election.

Shore Drug Raid Triggered by Tip

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

An undercover drug purchase and the resulting raid on a Belmont Shore residence netting nearly 200,000 capsules of drugs and a small arsenal was triggered by an informant's tip an hour earlier, police revealed Friday.

"We were surprised to find so much stuff," said Narcotics Officer Mike Morgan, who led three other Long Beach officers and two state narcotics agents in the predawn raid at 238 La Verne Ave.

THE RAID yielded rifles, handguns, ammunition, more than $600 in cash and barbiturates and amphetamines with a street sale value of nearly $50,000, Morgan said.

Also confiscated by officers were business cards in various colors which bear the name "Drugs Unlimited" and advertised "any prescription filled," "ups and downs" and "low prices."

Arrested in the raid, which began at about 12:30 a.m. with the arrival at the residence of an officer bearing a search warrant was Delores Barajas, 23, of the La Verne Avenue address.

A striking brunette, the suspect was charged with possession of marijuana, possession of dangerous drugs for sale and battery on an officer.

Morgan said she was handcuffed after repeatedly kicking officers with her sharp-toed boots as they entered the residence.

ARRESTED IN an earlier undercover purchase of drugs which led to the subsequent raid were:

Gabor Bohl, 20, of 2925 Eucalyptus Ave.

John Mitchel Mercado, 24, who also gave the La Verne Avenue address.

Both suspects are charged with the sale of dangerous drugs. Mercado was additionally charged with possession of dangerous drugs for sale.

Morgan said the two men were arrested following the purchase of $3,000 in red capsules — apparently seconal — by a state narcotics agent from the pair on a Belmont Shore street.

"When I left the house, I knew I was going to sell to the man," Mercado reportedly told officers. "I've been dealing a long time. I can't remember when I started."

MORGAN termed the raid "the biggest seizure of guns and pills here in recent years."

Weapons confiscated by officers at the house included a .38-caliber revolver, a .32-caliber automatic pistol, an M-1 carbine, an M-14 semiautomatic rifle and another automatic handgun.

Three boxes of ammunition for the firearms were also seized by police, Morgan said.

Seaplane Flips Over, 4 Escape

The pilot of a Catalina Seaplanes Inc. amphibian aircraft and his three passengers escaped injury Friday when the plane flipped over while landing off Santa Catalina Island.

An airline spokesman said the accident occurred when the pilot, Capt. Joe Kirk, 47, of 1056 W. 15th St., San Pedro, made a wheels-down landing in about 50 feet of water near Peppy Beach.

The spokesman said the plane sustained minor damage to its bow section. The aircraft had taken off from Long Beach Airport about 18 minutes before the accident.

Treated and released from Avalon Community Hospital were Federal Aviation Administration technicians Vincent D. Mulrooney, 54, of 4302 McNab Ave., Lakewood, and Kent Wilson, 26, of 2729 S. Baker St., Santa Ana.

John Windle, 69, Avalon constable and son of the late Judge John Windle — who served as Avalon justice of the peace for 51 years — was identified as the third passenger.

The passengers were picked up by an Avalon water taxi at about 8:20 a.m., moments after they abandoned the aircraft.

2 Hurt in Plane Crash

Two men were injured Friday when a single-engine plane landed short of the runway at Fullerton Airport, struck a fence and flipped over.

The pilot, Ray L. Stoddard, 47, of 748 E. Las Palmas Drive, Fullerton, was treated for facial cuts at St. Jude Hospital, where his passenger, George E. Ferguson, 50, of 724 E. Hermosa Drive, Fullerton, was admitted for observation of head injury.

Nevada Gambling Tax $49.8 Million

CARSON CITY, Nev. — Nevada's legal gambling industry paid $49.8 million taxes in the last fiscal year, up $3.3 million over the preceding year, the State Gaming Commission said Friday.

Edward Bowers, commission secretary, said the taxes represent a 48 percent increase in three years over the $33.1 million paid by gamblers in fiscal 1966.

YOU CAN'T SEARCH MILADY'S DIAPERS

United Press International

A 9-month-old baby girl won a legal victory Friday which could have ramifications for narcotics users everywhere.

The San Bernardino case involved a man and woman, arrested after detectives found heroin in the baby's diapers. The legal issue at the pretrial hearing was whether the search was legal.

The defense argued that the search was illegal because the baby did not give her consent and there was no evidence justifying a forcible search.

Dep. Dist. Atty. Joseph A. Burns contended that the Fourth Amendment, which protects against unwarranted search, did not apply to a baby.

"It's ridiculous to say that a baby has a right to a speedy trial or the right to counsel," Burns said. "A baby would have no occasion to demand such rights."

Municipal Court Judge Theodore G. Krumm disagreed. A baby has the rights of a person and therefore must be afforded the protection of the Constitution, he ruled. The case was dismissed.

"By legal standards it is an interesting case," Burns said later. "But practically, the ruling could cause lots of trouble. Now everyone will know that's the place to hide narcotics — in their baby's diapers."

Shore Drug Raid Triggered by Tip

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

An undercover drug purchase and the resulting raid on a Belmont Shore residence netting nearly 200,000 capsules of drugs and a small arsenal was triggered by an informant's tip an hour earlier, police revealed Friday.

"We were surprised to find so much stuff," said Narcotics Officer Mike Morgan, who led three other Long Beach officers and two state narcotics agents in the predawn raid at 235 La Verne Ave.

THE RAID yielded rifles, handguns, ammunition, more than $600 in cash and barbiturates and amphetamines with a street sale value of nearly $50,000, Morgan said.

Also confiscated by officers were business cards in various colors which bear the name "Drugs Unlimited" and advertised "any prescription filled," "ups and downs" and "low prices."

Arrested in the raid, which began at about 12:30 a.m. with the arrival at the residence of an officer bearing a search warrant was Delores Barajas, 23, of the La Verne Avenue address.

A striking brunette, the suspect was charged with possession of marijuana, possession of dangerous drugs for sale and battery on an officer.

Morgan said she was handcuffed after repeatedly kicking officers with her sharp-toed boots as they entered the residence.

ARRESTED IN an earlier undercover purchase of drugs which led to the subsequent raid were:

Gabor Bohl, 20, of 2925 Eucalyptus Ave.

John Mitchel Mercado, 24, who also gave the La Verne Avenue address.

Both suspects are charged with the sale of dangerous drugs. Mercado was additionally charged with possession of dangerous drugs for sale.

Morgan said the two men were arrested following the purchase of $3,000 in red capsules — apparently seconal — by a state narcotics agent from the pair on a Belmont Shore street.

"When I left the house, I knew I was going to sell to 'the man,'" Mercado reportedly told officers. "I've been dealing a long time. I can't remember when I started."

MORGAN termed the raid "the biggest seizure of guns and pills here in recent years."

Weapons confiscated by officers at the house included a .38-caliber revolver, a .32-caliber automatic pistol, an M-1 carbine, an M-14 semiautomatic rifle and another automatic handgun.

Three boxes of ammunition for the firearms were also seized by police, Morgan said.

In addition to the pills — benzadrine as well as seconal — police said they also found several needles and quantities of what appeared to be hashish and LSD in the residence.

An infant boy, apparently the child of Miss Barajas, who was also in the residence at the time of the raid, was placed under protective custody by Long Beach juvenile officers.

Seaplane Flips Over, 4 Escape

The pilot of a Catalina Seaplanes Inc. amphibian aircraft and his three passengers escaped injury Friday when the plane flipped over while landing off Santa Catalina Island.

An airline spokesman said the accident occurred when the pilot, Capt. Joe Kirk, 47, of 1056 W. 15th St., San Pedro, made a wheels-down landing in about 50 feet of water near Peppy Beach.

The spokesman said the plane sustained minor damage to its bow section. The aircraft had taken off from Long Beach Airport about 18 minutes before the accident.

Treated and released from Avalon Community Hospital were Federal Aviation Administration technicians Vincent D. Mulrooney, 54, of 4302 McNab Ave., Lakewood, and Kent Wilson, 28, of 2729 S. Baker St., Santa Ana.

John Windle, 69, Avalon constable and son of the late Judge John Windle — who served as Avalon justice of the peace for 51 years — was identified as the third passenger.

The passengers were picked up by an Avalon water taxi at about 8:20 a.m., moments after they abandoned the aircraft.

2 Hurt in Plane Crash

Two men were injured Friday when a single-engine plane landed short of the runway at Fullerton Airport, struck a fence and flipped over.

The pilot, Ray L. Stoddard, 47, of 748 E. Las Palmas Drive, Fullerton, was treated for facial cuts at St. Jude Hospital, where his passenger, George E. Ferguson, 50, of 724 N. Hermosa Drive, Fullerton, was admitted for observation of head injury.

Nevada Gambling Tax $49.8 Million

CARSON CITY, Nev. — Nevada's legal gambling industry paid $49.8 million taxes in the last fiscal year, up $3.3 million over the preceding year, the State Gaming Commission said Friday.

Edward Bowers, commission secretary, said the taxes represent a 48 per cent increase in three years over the $33.1 million paid by gamblers in fiscal 1968.

Carrier's Modernization Costs $119.9 Million More

Associated Press

The Pentagon reported Friday the attack carrier USS Midway is ready to return to service after a four-year modernization program which has cost more than double the original estimates.

But the Navy's most recent estimates, conversion work on the carrier ran $119.9 million above the originally anticipated figure of $34.3 million for a total cost of $204.2 million. That figure included $2.2 million for "fast delivery."

Completely new nuclear carriers cost about $500

million. The World War II vintage Midway is not nuclear powered.

The Navy called the Midway's conversion the most comprehensive ever made to a U.S. Navy ship.

"She will be capable of handling the largest and most complex carrier aircraft and weapons systems in the Navy's arsenal through the 1990s," the Navy stated.

The conversion, delayed in part because higher priority shipyard work interrupted the program, gave the Midway new deck-edge elevators, new catapults and arresting gear, and enlarged, angled deck and advanced electronics gear, among other things.

Navy officers attributed the huge cost overrun in part to "grossly insufficient" estimates on how much it would cost to repair some of the carrier's machinery.

Re-commissioning ceremonies are scheduled this morning at the San Francisco Bay Naval Shipyard at Hunter's Point. The ship will be commanded by Capt. Eugene J. Carroll Jr. of Northumberland, Pa., and will operate out of Alameda.

Harbor College Chief Defends 1-Year Rating

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

Dr. Wendell C. Black serves on the accrediting commission for Junior Colleges, an official academic rating agency with almost life or death powers over two-year colleges in California and Hawaii.

He also is president of Wilmington's Harbor College, which this week learned its request for another 5-year accreditation was reduced to a single year by the commission because of alleged political interference from its conservatively dominated board of trustees.

"I would support the commission," Black declared Friday during a press conference hastily called to note, for the record, that "Harbor remains a fully-accredited college."

HE EXPLAINED that the area school "belongs to a 'family'" of junior colleges spread across Los Angeles and controlled, since last July, by a single board.

Among the family, Los Angeles City and Southwest Colleges also received reduced, one-year accreditations by commission action.

So far the only reason given officially was contained in a letter written Monday to Black by Dr. Henry T. Tyler, commission executive secretary, which says in part:

"The reports of the accreditation teams to Los Angeles Southwest and City College emphasize a serious deterioration in the effectiveness of the board of trustees in its relationship with the administration and staff of the district and its colleges."

"This point, which Black declared does not apply to Harbor, generally is considered to mean trustees' interference with internal operations" of the schools.

Black acknowledged that the board, elected last spring to represent a district then split by state law from its parent Los Angeles city school district, has on occasion, become "involved in the internal workings" of a college.

HE CITED the board's firing of a San Fernando Valley junior college English instructor for reading obscene poetry in class and the overturning of a student body election at Pierce College.

These, he averred, are decisions to be made administratively rather than by the board. "The role of the board is to make policy," not administer the colleges, he said.

In his letter to Black, Tyler of the accrediting agency insisted that "substantial changes must be made in the relationships and operations of the board with its staff" by late fall.

Requested was a "report indicating actions taken to remedy the situation prepared jointly by the board and district administration and submitted to the commission no later than Nov. 1, 1970."

The commission then

"will conduct an on-location investigation preparatory to further deliberations on the accreditation status of the three colleges."

Tyler wrote that "the commission wants it clearly understood this limitation is not to be interpreted as a reflection on the internal operation of the colleges under consideration, except as attainment of their (educational) objectives is impeded by the conditions described above."

POINTING UP the seriousness of an accreditation that Harbor has not lost "and will not lose," said Black, is the future of 7,900 students enrolled there. Without official standing it would become difficult for them to transfer credits earned to a four-year college.

In Los Angeles, trustee president William Orozco termed the limitation "incredible."

"It is incredible," he said, "that a team of people can determine a degree of deterioration from two short breakfast meetings with the board... the highest authority in the district."

"If we take this report as a suggestion to back off, we will be letting the academic community govern itself."

Trustees generally say conservatives hold a voting majority on the board. But, said member Robert Cline, the district couldn't have deteriorated in the six months since the election.

Negro Allegiance Sought by Nixon

By ROBERT B. SEMPLE JR.
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — In hopeful phrases that recalled one of the earliest news conferences of his presidency, President Nixon expressed the belief Friday night that, in time, he could win the respect and allegiance of the black community.

He told his news conference that he had been "concerned" by public opinion polls and statements from civil rights leaders — white and black — suggesting that "while the Administration seems to be doing rather well among most of the American people . . . we do not have the confidence that we should have among black people."

THE PRESIDENT attributed part of his difficulties in the black community to what he described as an inherited "performance gap." The Johnson administration, he suggested, had promised much and accomplished little and therefore created "a massive frustration which flared into violence."

Asserting that he would rather be measured by "my deeds than all the fancy speeches I may have made," Nixon proceeded to tick off a series of domestic programs that, in his view, would ultimately bring him the respect of the black community.

Among them were his welfare reform proposals, efforts to stop the rise in crime "which terrorizes those who live in our central cities," his various attempts to break down barriers against Negro employment and to promote black entrepreneurship, and his promised but as

INFLATION was a dominant and recurrent theme, with Nixon's budget and economic messages due to be sent to Congress Monday. The White House said in advance Nixon would not discuss the messages at his news conference.

But the President chose to mention the budget himself, saying the nation is now in "a critical position" in the effort to curb inflation.

"The decisions made in the next month or two will determine whether we can win this battle," he declared.

He said the new budget, the first he has shaped from the start, will be "a major blow" against the thinking which sends prices upward.

It envisions a $1.3 billion federal surplus in the 12 months beginning next July 1.

NIXON'S economic message was released Friday night, in advance of its delivery to Congress. It showed his budget will call for spending $200.8 billion during the fiscal year beginning July 1, against receipts of $202.1 billion, for a surplus of $1.3 billion.

Acknowledging that the rate of inflation in 1969 was the greatest in a decade, Nixon told his news conference flatly "it was caused by what was done prior to that time."

He blamed it on federal spending during the years of Democratic administration, and said balanced budgets now "will turn it around."

"It is the best way to turn it around," he said, Nixon said the major purpose of his economic policy during his year in the White House has been to stop inflation without braking the economy so swiftly as to bring recession.

"WE WILL be able to control inflation without recession," he said.

Nixon also forecast a relaxation in high interest, tight money policies at the Federal Reserve Board.

"I think the time is coming when monetary policy can be relaxed," he said.

Nixon's remark on the possibility of easier money was believed likely to have a strong buoying effect on the wallowing Stock Market — especially since the President's top White House counselor, Dr. Arthur F. Burns, is being sworn in Saturday as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

The Reserve Board's tight restraint on the money supply over a period of many months has been blamed by many economists for record high interest rates and some distress in the financial markets.

HOWEVER, Burns is considered to hold economic views just about as conservative as those of the retiring long-time chairman of the board, William McChesney Martin.

Nixon cited the House vote which upheld his veto of a budget-raising health and appropriation bill as a step in the anti-inflation effort.

"We are not going to have a runaway Congress, therefore we are not going to have a runaway budget," he said.

The President said his decision on ABM expansion involves area defense, which means the system would be broadened to in-

Bilingual Phone

Operators Sought

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission was asked Friday to compel Pacific Telephone Co. to employ bilingual operators at all hours to help San Francisco's 95,000 Spanish-speaking residents.

The request was part of a petition filed by attorneys for California Rural Legal Assistance. The petition also asked that Pacific Telephone be urged by the government to hire more Spanish-speaking employees through the state.

2 Transit Officials Avoid Jail

A $1,000 fine was imposed Friday on two former officials of the Southern California Rapid Transit District who admitted violating the state's criminal conflict of interest statutes in the sale of 50 surplus buses.

Dale W. Barratt, 57, and Raymond W. Gareau, 43, were assessed the maximum fine, but no jail sentences, for the charge by Judge Malcolm N. Lucas of Los Angeles.

Barratt was the RTD general manager and Gareau was its manager of operations at the time the buses were sold in 1968.

California's conflict of interest laws provide only the alternative penalties of state imprisonment or a fine not to exceed $1,000.

The probation department recommended against sending the two men to prison because of their "favorable backgrounds." Judge Lucas noted their reputations had already been damaged in the case.

tercept high above the atmosphere enemy missiles headed for U.S. targets.

The first phase of the system, not yet built, is designed to guard Minute-man offensive missile sites.

HE SAID such an area defense "is absolutely essential" to guard the U.S. against possible attack from a nation like Red China and to guarantee continued credibility for U.S. foreign policy.

"It will be very important for the United States to have some kind of a defense so that nuclear blackmail could not be used against the U.S. or against those nations like the Philippines, with which the U.S. is allied," he said.

Government sources indicated later the Pentagon will ask Congress for enough funds to build only a portion of the 10 additional Safeguard sites in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Decisions on funding the remainder would be delayed a year, providing time for further examination of the direction the U.S. should go in missile defense.

Nixon's Vietnam statements were essentially restatements.

WHILE HE declared irreversible the policy of replacing American combat forces with South Vietnamese troops, he said the timetable for that change over can be altered in accord with the battlefield situation.

And, near the eve of the Tet holiday — which has been an occasion for past Communist offensives — Nixon warned that in the face of an enemy stepup in the fighting, "we will not hesitate" to respond.

The President again referred to his Nov. 3 speech, in which he said U.S. forces would be withdrawn as fast as South Vietnamese soldiers could take over the fighting.

He said withdrawals are going along on schedule and new pullouts will be announced.

ABM Expansion Divides Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional battle lines over the Safeguard anti-missile system quickly reformed Friday night when President Nixon announced plans to expand it, but even some opponents agreed the expansion likely will be approved.

Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee said he expects continued opposition but he said its major arguments were answered last year and its thrust will be diminished this time around.

"I think so. I think so," Stennis said when asked if the unfunded ABM expansion program will be approved. "There'll be very good reasons given for it and it will be sustained. It fits right in with our over-all defenses and we should go ahead with it."

Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, agreed expansion of the system designed to shoot down incoming enemy missiles likely will be approved by Congress but he indicated his own opposition to it is as strong as ever.

"I regret it," he said of Nixon's announcement. "I think it's a great mistake."

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., who carried the fight against the Safeguard system when it squeaked through the Senate by only one vote last year, said he expects the same opposition.

"This is the same system with the same vulnerable radar which 50 senators opposed last year," Hart said.

Nixon Sees $50 Billion U.S. Economy Growth

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Nixon Friday projected a growth of the national economy by about $50 billion this year, with both less inflation and less "real" growth than in 1969.

In his first economic report to Congress, Nixon made clear his opposition to "overly long and overly severe restraint" in the monetary policy (money and credit) of the Federal Reserve Board. But he emphasized that this could be avoided only if Congress supports him in a "prudent" government fiscal (budget) policy, including a small budget surplus.

THE ECONOMIC report disclosed in a table that the budget, to be sent to Congress Monday, would show expenditures of $200.8 billion and receipts of $202.1 billion, for a surplus of $1.3 billion.

Later at his news conference the President called this budget surplus "firm" and said he hoped, that as a result, "the time is coming" when the Federal Reserve Board could relax its monetary policy somewhat. He emphasized, however, that the Federal Reserve is "independent" and that he was not attempting to dictate its policy. Continuation of severe monetary restraint for too long, Nixon said, could bring on a recession.

The President also told his news conference that he still was confident that "the present rate of inflation . . . will continue to decline" and that "we will be able to control inflation without recession." He repeated his policy of opposition to "jawboning," or presidential attempts to roll back individual prices. He said this did not deal with the underlying cause of inflation and was "basically unfair."

THE KEY to the economic strategy for the year, as laid out by the President and his council of economic advisers, was that another half year of little or no growth could and should be tolerated, but that "a moderately quicker pace later in the year would be consistent with continued progress in reducing inflation."

Because of the lags between government monetary and fiscal actions and their impact on total spending in the economy, the "path of the economy in the early part of 1970 is already largely determined," the economic report said. It continued:

"The policy problem for 1970 is to take actions in the first half of the year which will pace the economy on the sustainable path of moderately rising output and significantly declining inflation in the second half."

The implication, supported by other parts of the report, was that Federal Reserve monetary policy should now start moving toward "moderate" instead of "severe" restraint, so that growth in the economy could resume after midyear. But the report emphasized that "this does not mean a return to the rates of monetary expansion of 1967 and 1968."

THE HEART of the analysis by the Council of Economic Advisers of both policy and outlook—and the part likely to provoke most debate—was this:

After three full quarters of approximately zero real growth, the economy, by midyear 1970 "would be producing significantly below its potential." This gap, showing up in excess plant and some excess labor, "places a downward pressure on the rate of inflation."

At that point, "businessmen find themselves selling in markets less receptive to price increases," which "forces greater resistance to cost increases, including wage increases." And—the crucial point—"these pressures against inflation will continue if demand remains below potential output, even though demand begins to rise more rapidly."

This was the rationale for a strategy of permitting expansion to resume in the second half—a strategy evidently involving an early relaxation of monetary policy.

BOTH THE President and the council conceded that "an unfortunate cost of having allowed the inflation to run for so long is that it courts the risk of some rise in unemployment." But the President said that "the policy of firm and persistent disinflation on which we have embarked holds out the best hope of keeping that risk low."

The report said that a major reason for allowing expansion of the economy to resume in the second half of the year was "to avoid mounting unemployment."

The President and the council projected a gross national product, or total output of goods and services, for the year of $385 billion, compared with $332 billion in 1969. The council said it preferred to express the forecast as a range between $380 billion and $390 billion.

A figure of $385 billion, the report said, would amount to a rise in the GNP, in dollar terms, of 5.5 per cent this year compared to 7.7 per cent in 1969. It continued, without giving specific figures, "part of this smaller GNP rise would be reflected in a smaller increase in real output. Part of it would be reflected in less inflation."

THE PRESIDENT announced that "I shall appoint a commission to study our financial structure and make recommendations to me for needed changes." This reflected a theme throughout the report that the government's role in the nation's economy should be reduced.

The report indicated a cautious approach toward government regulation of safety in consumer products, set out a three-point farm policy that emphasizes market forces, and showed a preference for economic incentives rather than regulation in regulated industries.

Rocks Cause Fatal Crash; 6 Youths Held

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) — Six teenagers were charged with murder Friday in a fatal traffic crash authorities said was caused by a rock thrown from an interstate highway overpass.

Three 18-year-old youths and two juveniles were arrested Thursday night and a third juvenile was seized Friday. All were charged with one open count of murder and three counts of assault with a deadly weapon.

Authorities said the youths admitted throwing rocks from the McCarty Overpass on Interstate 10 early last Saturday. Clarence Warden, 44, Abilene, Tex., was killed when his tractor-trailer rig ran off the road, plunged into a drainage canal and burned.

Idaho Has Its Own Kind of Segregationist

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — When a bill was introduced to allow shipment of Idaho potatoes in bulk form, a state lawmaker stormed to the rescue.

"It grieves me," said Rep. John Reardon, Boise Republican, "to see Idaho potatoes lose their identity."

He said bulk shipment might allow Idaho apud to end up "in a smelly old freight car and pooled at the market with some scawny potatoes from Arkansas or some other state."

The chairman of the committee that sponsored the bill said that under bulk shipment, the states fanned russets would get tender, loving care in air conditioned, insulated freight cars.

Among them were his welfare reform proposals, efforts to stop the rise in crime "which terrorizes those who live in our central cities," his various attempts to break down barriers against Negro employment and to promote black entrepreneurship, and his promised but as

INFLATION was a dominant and recurrent theme, with Nixon's budget and economic messages due to be sent to Congress Monday. The White House said it did not discuss the messages at his news conference.

But the President chose to mention the budget himself, saying the nation is now in "a critical position" in the effort to curb inflation.

"The decisions made in the next month or two will determine whether we can win this battle," he declared.

He said the new budget, the first he has shaped from the start, will be "a major blow" against the thinking which sends prices upward.

It envisions a $1.3 billion federal surplus in the 12 months beginning next July 1.

NIXON'S economic message was released Friday night, in advance of its delivery to Congress. It showed his budget will call for spending $200.8 billion during the fiscal year beginning July 1, against receipts of $202.1 billion, for a surplus of $1.3 billion.

Acknowledging that the rate of inflation in 1969 was the greatest in a decade, Nixon told his news conference flatly "it was caused by what was done prior to that time."

He blamed it on federal spending during the years of Democratic administration, and said balanced budgets now "will turn it around."

"It is the best way to turn it around," he said.

Nixon said the major purpose of his economic policy during his year in the White House has been to stop inflation without braking the economy so swiftly as to bring recession.

"WE WILL be able to control inflation without recession," he said.

Nixon also forecast a relaxation in high interest, tight money policies at the Federal Reserve Board.

"I think the time is coming when monetary policy can be relaxed," he said.

Nixon's remark on the possibility of easier money was believed likely to have a strong buoying effect on the wallowing Stock Market — especially since the President's top White House counselor, Dr. Arthur F. Burns, is being sworn in Saturday as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

The Reserve Board's tight restraint on the money supply over a period of many months has been blamed by many economists for record high interest rates and some distress in the financial markets.

HOWEVER, Burns is considered to hold economic views just about as conservative as those of the retiring long-time chairman of the board, William McChesney Martin.

Nixon cited the House vote which upheld his veto of a budget-raising health and appropriation bill as a step in the anti-inflation effort.

"We are not going to have a runaway Congress, therefore we are not going to have a runaway budget," he said.

The President said his decision on ABM expansion involves area defense, which means the system would be broadened to in-

Operators Sought

SAN FRANCISCO — The Federal Communications Commission was asked Friday to compel Pacific Telephone Co. to employ bilingual operators at all hours to help San Francisco's 95,000 Spanish-speaking residents.

The request was part of a petition filed by attorneys for California Rural Legal Assistance. The petition also asked that Pacific Telephone be urged by the government to hire more Spanish-speaking employees through the state.

tercept high above the atmosphere enemy missiles headed for U.S. targets.

The first phase of the system, not yet built, is designed to guard Minute-man offensive missile sites.

HE SAID such an area defense "is absolutely essential" to guard the U.S. against possible attack from a nation like Red China and to guarantee continued credibility for U.S. foreign policy.

"It will be very important for the United States to have some kind of a defense so that nuclear blackmail could not be used against the U.S. or against those nations like the Philippines, with which the U.S. is allied," he said.

Government sources indicated later the Pentagon will ask Congress for enough funds to build only a portion of the 10 additional Safeguard sites in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Decisions on funding the remainder would be delayed a year, providing time for further examination of the direction the U.S. should go in missile defense.

Nixon's Vietnam statements were essentially re-statements.

WHILE HE declared irreversible the policy of replacing American combat forces with South Vietnamese troops, he said the timetable for that change over can be altered in accord with the battlefield situation.

And, near the eve of the Tet holiday — which has been an occasion for past Communist offensives — Nixon warned that in the face of an enemy stepup in the fighting, "we will not hesitate" to respond.

The President again referred to his Nov. 3 speech, in which he said U.S. forces would be withdrawn as fast as South Vietnamese soldiers could take over the fighting.

He said withdrawals are going along on schedule and new pullouts will be announced.

ABM Expansion Divides Congress

WASHINGTON — Congressional battle lines over the Safeguard anti-missile system quickly reformed Friday night when President Nixon announced plans to expand it, but even some opponents agreed the expansion likely will be approved.

Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee said he expects continued opposition but he said its major arguments were answered last year and its thrust will be diminished this time around.

"I think so. I think so," Stennis said when asked if the undetailed ABM expansion program will be approved. "There'll be very good reasons given for it and it will be sustained. It fits right in with our over-all defenses and

Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, agreed expansion of the system designed to shoot down incoming enemy missiles likely will be approved by Congress but he indicated his own opposition to it is as strong as ever. "I regret it," he said of Nixon's announcement. "I think it's a great mistake. Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., who carried the fight against the Safeguard system when it squeaked through the Senate by only one vote last year, said he expects the same opposition.

"This is the same system with the same vulnerable radar which 50 senators opposed last year," Hart said.

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Nixon Friday projected a growth of the national economy by about $50 billion this year, with both less inflation and less "real" growth than in 1969.

In his first economic report to Congress, Nixon made clear his opposition to "overly long and overly severe restraint" in the monetary policy (money and credit) of the Federal Reserve Board. But he emphasized that this could be avoided only if Congress supports him in a "prudent" government fiscal (budget) policy, including a small budget surplus.

THE ECONOMIC report disclosed in a table that the budget, to be sent to Congress Monday, would show expenditures of $200.8 billion and receipts of $202.1 billion, for a surplus of $1.3 billion.

Later at his news conference the President called this budget surplus "firm" and said he hoped, that as a result, "the time is coming" when the Federal Reserve Board could relax its monetary policy somewhat. He emphasized, however, that the Federal Reserve is "independent" and that he was not attempting to dictate its policy. Continuation of severe monetary restraint for too long, Nixon said, could bring on a recession.

The President also told his news conference that he still was confident that "the present rate of inflation ... will continue to decline" and that "we will be able to control inflation without recession." He repeated his policy of opposition to "jawboning," or presidential attempts to roll back individual prices. He said this did not deal with the underlying cause of inflation and was "basically unfair."

THE KEY to the economic strategy for the year, as laid out by the President and his council of economic advisers, was that another half year of little or no growth could and should be tolerated, but that "a moderately quicker pace later in the year would be consistent with continued progress in reducing inflation."

Because of the lags between government monetary and fiscal actions and their impact on total spending in the economy, the "path of the economy in the early part of 1970 is already largely determined," the economic report said. It continued:

"The policy problem for 1970 is to take actions in the first half of the year which will pace the economy on the sustainable path of moderately rising output and significantly declining inflation in the second half."

The implication, supported by other parts of the report, was that Federal Reserve monetary policy should now start moving toward "moderate" instead of "severe" restraint, so that growth in the economy could resume after midyear. But the report emphasized that "this does not mean a return to the rates of monetary expansion of 1967 and 1968."

THE HEART of the analysis by the Council of Economic Advisers of both policy and outlook—and the part likely to provoke most debate—was this:

After three full quarters of approximately zero real growth, the economy, by midyear 1970 "would be producing significantly below its potential." This gap, showing up in excess plant and some excess labor, "places a downward pressure on the rate of inflation."

At that point, "businesses find themselves selling in markets less receptive to price increases," which "forces greater resistance to cost increases, including wage increases." And—the crucial point—"these pressures against inflation will continue if demand remains below potential output, even though demand begins to rise more rapidly."

This was the rationale for a strategy of permitting expansion to resume in the second half—a strategy evidently involving an early relaxation of monetary policy.

BOTH THE President and the council conceded that "an unfortunate cost of having allowed the inflation to run for so long is that it courts the risk of some rise in unemployment." But the President said that "the policy of firm and persistent disinflation on which we have embarked holds out the best hope of keeping that risk low."

The report said that a major reason for allowing expansion of the economy to resume in the second half of the year was "to avoid mounting unemployment."

The President and the council projected a gross national product, or total output of goods and services, for the year of $385 billion, compared with $382 billion in 1969. The council said it preferred to express the forecast as a range between $380 billion and $390 billion.

A figure of $385 billion, the report said, would amount to a rise in the GNP, in dollar terms, of 5.5 per cent this year compared to 7.7 per cent in 1969. It continued, without giving specific figures, "part of this smaller GNP rise would be reflected in a smaller increase in real output. Part of it would be reflected in less inflation."

THE PRESIDENT announced that "I shall appoint a commission to study our financial structure and make recommendations to me for needed changes." This reflected a theme throughout the report that the government's role in the nation's economy should be reduced.

The report indicated a cautious approach toward government regulation of safety in consumer products, set out a three-point farm policy that emphasizes market forces, and showed a preference for economic incentives rather than regulation in regulated industries.

Rocks Cause Fatal Crash; 6 Youths Held

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) — Six teen-agers were charged with murder Friday in a fatal traffic crash authorities said was caused by a rock thrown from an interstate highway overpass.

Three 18-year-old youths and two juveniles were arrested Thursday night and a third juvenile was seized Friday. All were charged with one open count of murder and three counts of assault with a deadly weapon.

Authorities said the youths admitted throwing rocks from the McCartney Overpass on Interstate 10 early last Saturday. Clarence Warden, 44, Abilene, Tex., was killed when his tractor-trailer rig ran off the road, plunged into a drainage canal and burned.

Idaho Has Its Own Kind of Segregationist

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — When a bill was introduced to allow shipment of Idaho potatoes in bulk form, a state lawmaker stormed to the rescue.

"It grieves me," said Rep. John Reardon, Boise Republican, "to see Idaho potatoes lose their identity."

He said bulk shipment might allow Idaho spuds to end up "in a smelly old freight car and pooled at the market with some scrawny potatoes from Arkansas or some other state."

The chairman of the committee that sponsored the bill said that under bulk shipment, the states famed russets would get tender, loving care in air conditioned, insulated freight cars.

2 Transit Officials Avoid Jail

A $1,000 fine was imposed Friday on two former officials of the Southern California Rapid Transit District who admitted violating the state's criminal conflict of interest statutes in the sale of 50 surplus buses.

Dale W. Barratt, 57, and Raymond W. Gareau, 43, were assessed the maximum fine, but no jail sentences, for the charge by Judge Malcolm N. Lucas of Los Angeles.

Barratt was the RTD general manager and Gareau was its manager of operations at the time the buses were sold in 1968.

California's conflict of interest laws provide only the alternative penalties of state imprisonment or a fine not to exceed $1,000. The probation department recommended against sending the two men to prison because of their "favorable backgrounds." Judge Lucas noted their reputations had already been damaged in the case.

SAN PEDRO HEIST

Loot Was Too Hot to Hold

By DICK EMERY
Staff Writer

As robberies go, this one had all the elements of a Laurel & Hardy comedy.

Perplexed police said afterwards it wasn't really a robbery, anyhow. They said it was a burglary.

Right down the main street of San Pedro the mid-day chase went, with pursuers whooping like Indians.

The man being pursued used an old trick to slow the chase. He tossed out money.

"He sure did," police said, "$4,350!"

The noontime breeze on Pacific Avenue picked up the money—dollar bills, five-dollar bills, ten-dollar bills, twenty-dollar bills, all in lovely, beautiful genuine U.S. paper currency.

THE BREEZE rained the bills back on pedestrians.

"I saw a dozen people

picking up money," said a perspiring policeman who arrived at the scene and found, in an alley between Ninth and Tenth Streets, Pacific and Grand Avenues, a husky middle-aged owner of a paint store sitting on the distributor of wealth, now sprawled panting face-down on the alley pavement.

The policeman, Harbor Division Officer James G. Breem, handcuffed the money-man, later identified as Carson Winbush, 21, of Los Angeles, and thanked the captor, Karl Koch, 50.

Because money was blowing along the sidewalk in front of a Bank of America branch nearby, it seemed at first that maybe a bank had been robbed.

Alfonso Licata, owner of a health foods store at 1111 Pacific Avenue, put an end to that rumor. It wasn't the bank, he told police; it was his store, the California Nutrition Center.

THREE MEN had entered, Licata said, and two of them beguiled clerks while the third rifled a money bag in the store office.

Licata declared war on the third man, who ran to the street carrying the money-bag's contents, namely, $4,255 in lovely bills—ones, fives, tens and twenties.

Police reported after it was all over that the fleeing man, named as the Winbush who was captured, strewed paper money like a farmer scattering grain, and that Licata slowed down to grab the fluttering currency.

Not the paint-store man, Karl Koch, police reported.

"Not him," said Detective Robert Kinsey of the robbery squad who said it wasn't robbery, anyhow, but burglary.

"Koch let the money fly," Kinsey said. "He kept right on running, trying to catch the man. He got right close behind him, running hard."

Laurel & Hardy, great comics of the '30s and early '40s, could have used the lines which followed.

"You better get away from me," the fleeing man gasped over his shoulder at Koch. "I'll shoot you!" "You better start shooting," Koch gasped back, "because I've almost gotcha!"

A tackle, football fashion, brought down the fleeing man and Koch pinned him until police arrived.

BACK AT the health food store, when kindly citizens had kicked in with what they'd found, Licata counted and re-counted a great pile of currency.

"I can't figure it," he said, over and over, to policemen watching. "I come out with $96 more than I had to begin with!"

The ever-suspicious detectives who booked Winbush into the San Pedro jail as a burglary suspect studied figures Licata showed, and they studied certain documents from Sacramento relating to recent adventures of the man in custody.

"The extra $95 came out of his own pocket," detectives said. "And we think—we have just a mean old sneaking hunch in connection with a little old lady's purse that we know about—how he came by that $95!"

Still at large, Friday night, but eagerly sought by the night shift of policemen, were the two companions reported seen with Man Number Three in the health store as the robbery—er, that is, burglary—got started.

Dornin Quits Navy After 40 Years in Fleet

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Rear Adm. Marshall E. Dornin retired Friday as commandant of the 11th Naval District and was replaced by Rear Adm. Joseph W. Williams.

Dornin, who ended 40 years of service, was commandant here for 2½ years and was instrumental in solving many military housing problems.

He helped lead the fight to get 98 per cent of local landlords to rent housing to military personnel of all racial groups. He also was instrumental in getting the city to develop government-subsidized low-rent housing.

OF MOST recent note, Dornin was successful in having rescinded a Defense Department order to place Tijuana, off limits to military personnel last September. He said he thought it was discriminatory.

Cullen Slates Drive to Limit Taxes on Family Dwellings

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Assemblyman Mike Cullen, D-Long Beach, announced Friday he will serve as honorary co-chairman of the statewide drive to qualify an initiative to limit property taxes on an owner-occupied, single-family dwelling to 1 per cent of its full cash value.

"For example, maximum property tax on such a dwelling worth $20,000 would be $200, Cullen noted.

"I AM CONVINCED," he said, "that the single most important issue before the people of California today is tax reform, particularly relief to the homeowner from the oppressive property tax. Therefore I am joining my colleague, Assemblyman Joe A. Gonsalves, D-La Mirada, in his drive to gather signatures for a tax limit initiative."

Cullen explained that the Gonsalves initiative constitutional amendment, officially labeled by the attorney general "Limitation of property tax rate on owner occupied dwelling," is a $1-billion tax shift program which proposes that on and after the lien date in 1971, each single family dwelling occupied by an owner as his principal place of residence shall be exempt from property taxes imposed for the support of the public school system.

The state will reimburse school districts for property tax revenues lost by reason of this exemption. Combined rates on such property for other purposes could not exceed 1 per cent except for bonds, state loans and voter approved taxes.

Cullen said Gonsalves' proposal would mean that half of the $1 billion shift would be made up from enactment of withholding of personal income taxes and elimination of the present $750 homeowner's property tax exemption.

THE REST OF the revenue would come from the insurance tax, taxes imposed under the Banks and Corporations Tax law, alcoholic beverage fees and taxes, taxes on cigarettes or their distribution, inheritance and gift taxes, fees, taxes or licenses on horse racing, revenues from revision of capitol gains and depletion allowance laws and severance taxes on natural resources.

Cullen asked that homeowners willing to help circulate petitions for the initiative in their neighborhoods call his Long Beach office at 435-4404.

Bolsa Bay to Become Residential Harbor

The Signal Oil interest announced Friday the purchase of almost 1,900 acres of Bolsa Chica property near Huntington Beach, and said it will be developed into a residential harbor.

Most of the property involved is known as Bolsa Bay, a slough and marshland dotted with oil wells. The acreage lies on the inland side of Coast Highway, between Huntington Beach west bluff and Sunset Bay.

Forrest N. Shumway, president of Signal Companies Inc., said the development will include palatial homes for 50,000 people in an urban complex which will emphasize boating and other water-orientated recreation. He said oil wells now pumping in the area will be relocated "compatibly with the planned development."

Five corporations owned real property and a host of individuals were owners of royalty interests under existing leases with the Signal Oil and Gas Co. Shumway said all of them accepted the firm's offer to buy.

It will be multi-million-dollar project involving extensive dredging of waterways and construction of some 10,000 residences.

United Plans 2 Extra Freights

United Air Lines will increase jet freighter service between Los Angeles and Honolulu by 50 per cent with two new flights on Feb. 6 and March 2.

Using DC-8F jet freighters with cargo capacity of 80,000 pounds, United now operates four round-trip cargo flights weekly between the two points. The new flights will provide a flight every day except Monday.

SAN PEDRO HEIST

Loot Was Too Hot to Hold

By DICK EMERY
Staff Writer

As robberies go, this one had all the elements of a Laurel & Hardy comedy.

Perplexed police said afterwards it wasn't really a robbery, anyhow. They said it was a burglary.

Right down the main street of San Pedro the mid-day chase went, with pursuers whooping like Indians.

The man being pursued used an old trick to slow the chase. He tossed out money.

"He sure did," police said. "$4,350!"

The noontime breeze on Pacific Avenue picked up the money — dollar bills, five-dollar bills, ten-dollar bills, twenty-dollar bills, all in lovely, beautiful genuine U.S. paper currency.

THE BREEZE rained the bills back on pedestrians.

"I saw a dozen people

picking up money," said a perspiring policeman who arrived at the scene and found, in an alley between Ninth and Tenth Streets, Pacific and Grand Avenues, a husky middle-aged owner of a paint store sitting on the distributor of wealth, now sprawled panting face-down on the alley pavement.

The policeman, Harbor Division Officer James G. Breem, handcuffed the money-man, later identified as Carson Winbush, 21, of Los Angeles, and thanked the captor, Karl Koch, 50.

Because money was blowing along the sidewalk in front of a Bank of America branch nearby, it seemed at first that maybe a bank had been robbed.

Alfonso Licata, owner of a health foods store at 1111 Pacific Avenue, put an end to that rumor. It wasn't the bank, he told police; it was his store, the California Nutrition Center.

THREE MEN had entered, Licata said, and two of them beguiled clerks while the third rifled a money bag in the store office.

Licata declared war on the third man, who ran to the street carrying the money-bag's contents, namely, $4,255 in lovely bills — ones, fives, tens and twenties.

Police reported after it was all over that the fleeing man, named as the Winbush who was captured, strewed paper money like a farmer scattering grain, and that Licata slowed down to grab the fluttering currency.

Not the paint-store man, Karl Koch, police reported.

"Not him," said Detective Robert Kinsey of the robbery squad who said it wasn't robbery, anyhow, but burglary.

"Koch let the money fly," Kinsey said. "He kept right on running, trying to catch the man. He got right close behind him, running hard."

Laurel & Hardy, great comics of the '30s and early '40s, could have used the lines which followed.

"You better get away from me," the fleeing man gasped over his shoulder at Koch. "I'll shoot you!"

"You better start shooting," Koch gasped back, "because I've almost gotcha!"

A tackle, football fashion, brought down the fleeing man and Koch pinned him until police arrived.

BACK AT the health food store, when kindly citizens had kicked-in with what they'd found, Licata counted and re-counted a great pile of currency.

"I can't figure it," he said, over and over, to policemen watching. "I come out with $86 more than I had to begin with!"

The ever-suspicious detectives who booked Winbush into the San Pedro jail as a burglary suspect studied figures Licata showed, and they studied certain documents from Sacramento relating to recent adventures of the man in custody.

"The extra $86 came out of his own pocket," detectives said. "And we think — we have just a mean old sneaking hunch in connection with a little old lady's purse that we know about — how he came by that $86!"

Still at large, Friday night, but eagerly sought by the night shift of policemen, were the two companions reported seen with Man Number Three in the health store as the robbery — er, that is, burglary — got started.

Dornin Quits Navy After 40 Years in Fleet

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Rear Adm. Marshall E. Dornin retired Friday as commandant of the 11th Naval District and was replaced by Rear Adm. Joseph W. Williams.

Dornin, who ended 40 years of service, was commandant here for 2½ years and was instrumental in solving many military housing problems.

He helped lead the fight to get 98 per cent of local landlords to rent housing to military personnel of all racial groups. He also was instrumental in getting the city to develop government-subsidized low-rent housing.

OF MOST recent note, Dornin was successful in having rescinded a Defense Department order to place Tijuana, off limits to military personnel last September. He said he thought it was discriminatory.

THE REST OF the revenue would come from the insurance tax, taxes imposed under the Banks and Corporations Tax law, alcoholic beverage fees and taxes, taxes on cigarettes or their distribution, inheritance and gift taxes, fees, taxes or licenses on horse racing, revenues from revision of capital gains and depletion allowance laws and severance taxes on natural resources.

Cullen asked that homeowners willing to help circulate petitions for the initiative in their neighborhoods call his Long Beach office at 435-4404.

Cullen Slates Drive to Limit Taxes on Family Dwellings

Political Editor

Assemblyman Mike Cullen, D-Long Beach, announced Friday he will serve as honorary cochairman of the statewide drive to qualify an initiative to limit property taxes on an owner-occupied, single-family dwelling to 1 per cent of its full cash value.

For example, maximum property tax on such a dwelling worth $20,000 would be $200, Cullen noted.

"I AM CONVINCED," he said, "that the single most important issue before the people of California today is tax reform, particularly relief to the homeowner from the oppressive property tax. Therefore I am joining my colleague, Assemblyman Joe A. Gonsalves, D-La Mirada, in his drive to gather signatures of 520,276 electors for a tax limit initiative."

Cullen explained that the Gonsalves initiative constitutional amendment, officially labeled by the attorney general "Limitation of property tax rate on owner occupied dwelling," is a $1-billion tax shift program which proposes that on and after the lien date in 1971, each single family dwelling occupied by an owner as his principal place of residence shall be exempt from property taxes imposed for the support of the public school system.

The state will reimburse school districts for property tax revenues lost by reason of this exemption. Combined rates on such property for other purposes could not exceed 1 per cent except for bonds, state loans and voter approved taxes.

Cullen said Gonsalves' proposal would mean that half of the $1 billion shift would be made up from enactment of withholding of personal income taxes and elimination of the present $750 homeowner's property tax exemption.

It will be multi-million-dollar project involving extensive dredging of waterways and construction of some 10,000 residences.

Bolsa Bay to Become Residential Harbor

The Signal Oil interest announced Friday the purchase of almost 1,900 acres of Bolsa Chica property near Huntington Beach, and said it will be developed into a residential harbor.

Most of the property involved is known as Bolsa Bay, a slough and marshland dotted with oil wells. The acreage lies on the inland side of Coast Highway, between Huntington Beach west bluff and Sunset Bay.

Forrest N. Shumway, president of Signal Companies Inc., said the development will include palatial homes for 50,000 people in an urban complex which will emphasize boating and other water-orientated recreation. He said oil wells now pumping in the area will be relocated "compatibly with the planned development."

United Plans 2 Extra Freights

United Air Lines will increase jet freighter service between Los Angeles and Honolulu by 50 per cent with two new flights on Feb. 6 and March 2.

Using DC-8F jet freighters with cargo capacity of 80,000 pounds, United now operates four round-trip cargo flights weekly between the two points. The new flights will provide a flight every day except Monday.

MANSON SPEAKS

His life in various hippie communes up and down the state, will be told—without the written word.

How many records this will take, the 34-year-old Manson can't estimate.

"I don't know whether it'll be single records, or an album. There are a bunch of tapes out already that they (record companies) are fooling with."

How Manson got a tape recorder, a request that had been denied by the judge, and got the tapes out of his county jail cell, was not discussed.

"They not only haven't given me a tape recorder," the murder suspect said, "they haven't given me anything. They're taking things away, and now they won't even let me talk to my witnesses—none of them."

"Sadie (Susan Atkins) wants to see me, but her attorney won't let her. She's gotten word to me that if I find her a good attorney, she'll shut up."

But, Charlie adds, she isn't the only witness he's not allowed to talk with.

"They say I'm my own attorney, so other attorneys can't bring in witnesses. So I told them to just let the witnesses come in alone, but then they say they can't because I've already seen some of them three times, and that's the limit."

"But I say that's not enough time to work out a case like this."

"Some of the people hitchhike to get here. There were 150 persons—off and on—that lived at that ranch... and like they're strung all over the country."

"People are hitchhiking all over trying to find people that were there during that time. They come in and they talk (with me) for maybe five or 10 minutes, and go out looking for someone else."

"It's a difficult situation for these people (the establishment) to understand, because they only understand living at the same address for 40 years and having the same phone number forever; they don't understand the nomad sort of situation where people are moving."

BUT AS FAR as his case is concerned, he says he is not worried.

"They haven't... they've never had a case," he insists.

And he feels the same way about the kind of defense he is expected to put up:

"I'm supposed to be innocent until proven guilty. I'll let them prove it."

Although he charged in court he already has been "tried, convicted and executed in print" and wanted the court's "gag" order lifted, so he could tell his side, he has not, as yet, talked about the case to newsmen.

"There is one thing I would say to the press, if I had a chance to say something to the press:

"IF THE PRESS tells lies and the lies get bigger and bigger, then soon the people are not going to know what's going on. Then any sort of government that would get in could do anything they want to do to the people, because they (the people) are not behind them (the press)."

And, as an example, he cites his own case:

"Some atrocious murders were perpetrated. So they say, 'Well, we've got to find somebody, so we'll take these people here'—meaning us."

"But the murders are still going on. You know the machine will not admit that it's wrong... will not say 'We have got the wrong people... the killers are still on the loose.' They're covering up the

4 BOYS DIE IN CAR FIRE

A distraught father identifies the body of his 3-year-old son, one of four boys—none older than five—who were burned to death in Denver, Colo., Friday, when fire broke out in a parked car in which they were playing. A fifth child is in critical condition. The children apparently had been playing with a cigarette lighter in the car.

thing as much as they can.

"I READ A small article in the paper where some people were killed in San Francisco, and 'pig' was written on the wall. We've never heard any more about it. It was a very small article in the paper and it only ran one day."

"Then some friends of mine told me some people were killed in Santa Barbara—after I got in jail—and they're still trying to blame it on me."

"Then some people back east were stabbed and 'pig' written on the wall."

"Then there's this guy named Scott... this guy's (my) supposed father was related to an uncle that was named Scott, so maybe I had something to do with that. So that's being investigated back there."

"It's really ridiculous because we've been known, as a society, to cover up on things."

"THE WHOLE thing's so ridiculous to me... I tried to appear as outraged as I could (in court). But it's hard for me to get angry. I had to work for an hour to get angry, because I can see it... it's just madness."

59 Brazilians Hosted in L.B.

By BILL HOMER
Staff Writer

Fifty-nine staff officers and students of the Brazilian Naval War College arrived in Long Beach Friday night for a six-day Southland stay, which will include a look at the Apollo 11 and 12 moon capsules at North American Rockwell Corp. in Downey.

The South American naval officers, touring the U.S. as guests of the Defense Department, are headquartered at Hyatt's Edgewater Inn.

PRIOR TO their arrival in the U.S., the Brazilians spent two days in Panama.

They left that Central American nation Jan. 20, flying to Miami for a two-day stay in Florida that included a trip to Cape Kennedy and the Kennedy Space Center.

From Florida, the Brazilians went to San Diego, where they spent six days touring the area and visiting military installations. Then they flew to San Francisco, for a similar tour.

Preceded by a baggage truck, the Brazilian naval officers arrived at their Long Beach hotel shortly after 7 p.m., disembarking from two buses to the tune of the Brazilian national anthem, as played by a Naval Station Los Angeles-Long Beach band.

AFTER BEING shown to their rooms, the Brazilians were honored at a banquet.

They will visit Universal Studios today.

Sunday, they will go to Catholic religious services at the Naval Station before visiting Disneyland and attending a 5:30 p.m. reception in their honor at the Navy base, hosted by Rear Adm. H. V. Bird, commander of the military installation.

Monday, the naval officers will tour NAR Downey and the USS Berkeley, prior to attending an 8 p.m. dinner at the Sheraton Inn, Huntington Beach.

SANTA BARBARA — Police Friday dispersed 1,000 demonstrators at the University of California protesting the dismissal of a popular teacher who wears a long red beard and denim work clothes.

Protesters said they wanted an open hearing on the University's decision not to rehire William Allen, 33, an assistant professor in the anthropology department. School officials said Allen has failed to meet the department's needs.

BLEAK FUTURE

Dr. Bill Thomas ruefully. "And the Bureau of Indian Affairs needs people in Alaska."

In technical areas, national College Placement Council figures show job offers to college graduates are down 28 per cent.

"It's more like 50 per cent for CSLB," Babbush says.

Twenty-two companies—including major corporations such as Kaiser and U. S. Steel—have cancelled their annual CSLB recruiting interviews. Local companies such as McDonnell-Douglas and North American Rockwell have cut back their openings, he said.

"There's been fewer government contracts issued and a slowdown in fulfilling existing contracts. This has slowed down or shut down many smaller aerospace and electronics companies. People are being laid off by the thousands."

CUTBACKS in the war effort have been a major factor in making jobs scarce. So have slowdowns in America's space program.

"Since 35 per cent of the seniors who register with us generally find jobs in Southern California aerospace and electronics industries, it's hit us very hard," Babbush said.

As things have gotten tight, some large companies have switched over to sending long-term employees through management training programs, instead of college graduates who are less likely to stay with the company.

Some companies are hiring only brilliant specialists with masters and doctors degrees—and skilled laborers—leaving BA degree holders in the cold.

One hardship case pointed up the employment problem, although it's hardly typical.

A 46-year-old man who worked for McDonnell-Douglas since 1951 took a year off to finish his long-sought degree in electrical engineering at CSLB.

But because of his age, the degree wasn't much help in job-hunting. And while he was gone from McDonnell-Douglas, a defense contract was canceled, leaving him with no job at all.

THINGS MAY be even worse for June graduates, Babbush says. He doesn't look for much improvement in the job picture until next fall.

Babbush believes a faster switch to a peacetime economy would help.

BIRTHDAY BUDDY GETS NIXON NOTE

VENTURA — "I hardly expected to get a reply," said 12-year-old Edward Darlon, who sent a birthday card to President Nixon. But he did. Both have birthdays on Jan. 8.

The sixth-grader received a reply on White House stationery.

"It pleased me," the President wrote, "to learn that we share birthdays. I hope yours was an especially happy one and the year ahead will have all the good things in store for you."

ment will put more money into urban redevelopment, creating new jobs. Although there's been a lot of talk about ecology, there hasn't been much money spent there, so there's not many jobs yet."

Although placement officers at UCLA and Cal-State Fullerton said job openings in business, industry and government weren't severely lacking they acknowledged their graduates had been hurt by defense cutbacks.

Federal, state and county job openings have decreased due to government program slashes. "Many of our graduates go into the social service areas," said Jamie McHarg, placement counselor at Cal-State Dominguez Hills. "But there's been a freeze on hiring in many of those areas for some time. It's very difficult now to place people as social workers, probation trainees, personnel analysts."

THERE'S MORE prospective teachers than local teaching offers at all of the colleges.

"It's been rough for prospective high school teachers for a long time," Babbush said. "This year there's been labor problems, district cutbacks, less turnover."

"There's teaching jobs somewhere for everyone, but most Southern Californians don't want to go into rural areas or out of state."

Frank Costa, CSLB placement counselor, urged liberal arts students—who traditionally have the hardest time finding jobs—to start taking a few courses in more practical areas.

"For instance, if comparative literature majors would take a few business courses they'd find job-hunting easier when they graduate."

WHETHER WE like it or not, the vast majority of students don't come here primarily for a liberal arts education," he said. "They come here to make themselves more employable. But many professors—and many students themselves—forget that."

"In many cases, liberal arts students come in to see us just before graduation and they're shocked that companies aren't waiting with open arms," he said.

"One student insisted on getting a job in his particular major—in his particular specialty—in Santa Ana," Costa said. "We'll be lucky if we can find him a job anywhere."

He noted that although some companies say they're looking for students with liberal arts backgrounds, they still emphasize particular skills when it comes to hiring.

"WE'RE FINDING there's a lot of pressure from parents and friends on graduates who can't find jobs," Babbush said. "We wish they'd be more understanding. In many cases, areas where there were plenty of jobs last year have just closed up."

"We have one qualified industrial technology major who's been through about 35 interviews here—and run down many leads on his own—with no luck at all."

"That's pretty discouraging."

as his life in various hippie communes up and down the state, will be told—without the written word.

How many records this will take, the 34-year-old Manson can't estimate.

"I don't know whether it'll be single records, or an album. There are a bunch of tapes out already that they (record companies) are fooling with."

How Manson got a tape recorder, a request that had been denied by the judge, and got the tapes out of his county jail cell, was not discussed.

"They not only haven't given me a tape recorder," the murder suspect said, "they haven't given me anything. They're taking things away, and now they won't even let me talk to my witnesses—none of them."

"Sadie (Susan Atkins) wants to see me, but her attorney won't let her. She's gotten word to me that if I find her a good attorney, she'll shut up."

But, Charlie adds, she isn't the only witness he's not allowed to talk with.

"They say I'm my own attorney, so other attorneys can't bring in witnesses. So I told them to just let the witnesses come in alone, but then they say they can't because I've already seen some of them three times, and that's the limit.

"But I say that's not enough time to work out a case like this.

"Some of the people hitchhike to get here. There were 150 persons—off and on—that lived at that ranch... and like they're strung all over the country.

"People are hitchhiking all over trying to find people that were there during that time. They come in and they talk (with me) for maybe five or 10 minutes, and go out looking for someone else.

"It's a difficult situation for these people (the establishment) to understand, because they only understand living at the same address for 40 years and having the same phone number forever; they don't understand the nomad sort of situation where people are moving."

BUT AS FAR as his case is concerned, he says he is not worried.

"They haven't... they've never had a case," he insists.

And he feels the same way about the kind of defense he is expected to put up:

"I'm supposed to be innocent until proven guilty. I'll let them prove it."

Although he charged in court he already has been "tried, convicted and executed in print" and wanted the court's "gag" order lifted, so he could tell his side, he has not, as yet, talked about the case to newsmen.

"There is one thing I would say to the press, if I had a chance to say something to the press:

"IF THE PRESS tells lies and the lies get bigger and bigger, then soon the people are not going to know what's going on. Then any sort of government that would get in could do anything they want to do to the people, because they (the people) are not behind them (the press)."

And, as an example, he cites his own case:

"Some atrocious murders were perpetrated. So they say, 'Well, we've got to find somebody, so we'll take these people here'—meaning us.

"But the murders are still going on. You know the machine will not admit that it's wrong... will not say 'We have got the wrong people... the killers are still on the loose.' They're covering up the thing as much as they can.

"I READ A small article in the paper where some people were killed in San Francisco, and 'pig' was written on the wall. We've never heard any more about it. It was a very small article in the paper and it only ran one day.

"Then some friends of mine told me some people were killed in Santa Barbara—after I got in jail—and they're still trying to blame it on me.

"Then some people back east were stabbed and 'pig' written on the wall.

"Then there's this guy named Scott... this guy's (my) supposed father was related to an uncle that was named Scott, so maybe I had something to do with that. So that's being investigated back there.

"It's really ridiculous because we've been known, as a society, to cover up on things.

"THE WHOLE thing's so ridiculous to me... I tried to appear as outraged as I could (in court). But it's hard for me to get angry. I had to work for an hour to get angry, because I can see it... it's just madness.

Protesters said they wanted an open hearing on the University's decision not to rehire William Allen, 33, an assistant professor in the anthropology department. School officials said Allen has failed to meet the department's needs.

"Let's put it this way. It's a negative force. If you can see it as a negative force, you're in business. But why should I be a negative force just because I'm involved with a negative force? I've got to remain positive.

"I hate to fight... I'm not a fighter. I'm just not. But they've drawn the line and they're making me fight.

"You know, I'd really divide if I could. I'd say, 'I'm willing to give you my life because I love you enough' to give you my life. But at the same time, first it's my life, then it comes time that it's somebody else's and somebody else's... and where does it stop?

"I've been in the proper tank (the part of the county jail reserved for prisoners serving as their own attorneys) with five or six different people who are appealing their cases on Death Row... there's nothing these guys won't do.

"But they (the establishment) haven't applied their laws... they haven't gone by their books.

59 Brazilians Hosted in L.B.

By BILL HOMER
Staff Writer

Fifty-nine staff officers and students of the Brazilian Naval War College arrived in Long Beach Friday night for a six-day Southland stay, which will include a look at the Apollo 11 and 12 moon capsules at North American Rockwell Corp. in Downey.

The South American naval officers, touring the U.S. as guests of the Defense Department, are headquartered at Hyatt's Edgewater Inn.

PRIOR TO their arrival in the U.S., the Brazilians spent two days in Panama.

They left that Central American nation Jan. 20, flying to Miami for a two-day stay in Florida that included a trip to Cape Kennedy and the Kennedy Space Center.

From Florida, the Brazilians went to San Diego, where they spent six days touring the area and visiting military installations. Then they flew to San Francisco, for a similar tour.

U.S. Gets Going in Race to Use Vast H-Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. is trying urgently to catch up with recently reported Soviet gains toward harnessing the power of the hydrogen bomb, a goal that "could lead to unlimited cheap electrical power."

The Atomic Energy Commission reported this Friday in relating that preliminary work has begun on two new research devices patterned after a machine with which Soviet scientists apparently have made important gains in the quest.

The machines will be built at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and at Princeton University.

In its annual report to Congress, the AEC gave details of U.S. scientists' response to the Russian developments.

Prof. David Rose of Massachusetts Institute of Technology was quoted last April as saying the Soviets had apparently succeeded in achieving "the best combination of experimental ingredients yet achieved by any nation" in the nearly 20-year-old quest.

Specifically, the quest involves trying to reproduce in a special reactor the same thermonuclear process that makes the sun's heat and the big bang of H-bomb explosions.

It involves the fusion, or joining, of hydrogen atoms — as distinguished from the atom-splitting of the A-bomb.

If perfected, such reactors could use the nearly limitless hydrogen in ocean water as fuel.

Russ See U.S. Load War Gear

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Eleven high ranking Soviet journalists, during a three-hour voyage on the Mississippi River Thursday, watched U.S. army war materials being loaded onto ships bound for the far east.

The 300-foot sidewheel steamer President, which carries tourists on tours of the Port of New Orleans daily, took the Russians past the U.S. government's Gulf Outlet, a port facility where olive drab armored vehicles were being hoisted off barges and into sea going freighters.

But the journalists, including L. N. Tolstunov, chief editor of Izvestia, and E. E. Mamedov, deputy chairman for radio and television in the Soviet Union, appeared to show no more than passing interest in the glimpse of military activities on the port tour.

THE RUSSIANS continually snapped still photographs of one another, American tourists, the sights of the steamer trip. They took color motion films of the New Orleans waterfront and even talked into a tape recorder one of them carried.

They were on the 12th day of a 17-day, nine-city tour of the United States, returning a visit made a year ago by the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Today, the Russians were to take a walking tour of New Orleans' French quarter and were to sit on the reviewing stand tonight as official guests to watch the Krewe of Mecca's carnival parade. They were to leave Sunday for Washington.

BUT NO EPIDEMIC YET Flu Bug Hits 9 Eastern States

ATLANTA (UPI) — The National Communicable Disease Center reported scattered outbreaks of influenza and influenza-like illnesses in nine states Friday but stuck to its earlier prediction there will be no major U.S. epidemic this year.

The NCDC listed influenza outbreaks in Connecticut, Massachusetts, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida in its weekly report Friday morning.

This was followed by a special announcement several hours later that added four more states to the influenza list — Alabama, Louisiana, Rhode Island, and Vermont.

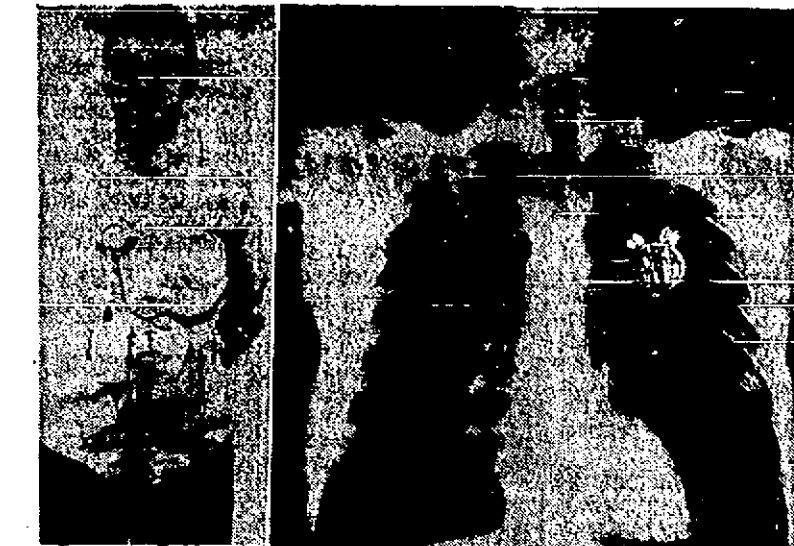

"Generally this represents occurrences of influenza in populations primarily uninvolved in last year's epidemics," the NCDC statement said.

It added that influenza "appears to be occurring more widely in Louisiana, a state which reported very little activity (influenza) last year."

An NCDC spokesman said persons in areas which escaped the Hong Kong flu epidemic last winter did not build up resistance to the disease. It is these areas, he explained, where influenza is being reported this winter.

Pneumonia — influenza deaths in 122 U.S. cities, while still elevated above the expected level, decreased during the past week, the NCDC said.

The flu bug also was reported along the Florida east coast in Dade County and Fort Lauderdale, Vero Beach, Cape Kennedy, Daytona Beach and St. Augustine.

IMPLANTED DEVICE BRINGS RELIEF L.B. Heart Patients 'Switch Off' the Pain

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Dramatic relief from excruciating chest pain is now being achieved by two Long Beach heart-disease patients by a simple push-button maneuver.

Thanks to a relatively new operation performed at Memorial Hospital, these patients can switch off the agony of angina pectoris, a vise-like pain brought on by oxygen deficit in the heart muscle.

Implantation of an electronic device in the upper chest enables the patient to reduce pain that cannot be controlled by medication or powerful narcotics.

"Both patients are comfortable now," says Dr. Anselmo Pineda, a Long Beach neurosurgeon.

ONE IS a 58-year-old Long Beach man who could not bear to lie down, so severe was his pain. He could not walk one-fourth of a block without angina pectoris resulting.

The other patient is a 71-year-old woman who had suffered a heart attack and continued to suffer angina.

Dr. Pineda said the coronary arteries of both were so severely involved that corrective surgery was out of the question. Drugs didn't help much.

The electronic device that abolishes pain works in the following manner:

A stainless-steel, wafer-shaped radiofrequency receiver is implanted just under the skin in the upper chest. Two wires extend from this device to a position high up in both sides of the neck.

There, platinum electrodes at the ends of the wires are attached to the carotid sinus nerves.

TO ENERGIZE this implanted rig, the patient places a light doughnutshaped induction coil on his chest just outside the internal receiver. The implanted receiver makes a slight bulge so that the patient has no trouble finding it.

The patient pushes a button or presses a switch to activate the mechanism beneath the skin.

When the carotid sinus nerves are stimulated by electrical impulses, they bring about three phenomena by way of the mid-brain:

1. Heart rate slows.
2. Blood pressure falls.
3. Strength of heart beat (heart-muscle contractility) diminished.

Alteration of these three factors, in turn, reduces heart work. And reduction of heart work lowers the heart's oxygen requirements.

Since the excruciating, incapacitating pain of angina pectoris is a consequence of inadequate oxygen supply to the heart muscles, diminished oxygen need relieves the anginal pain.

Relief of pain comes within five to 10 seconds after the button is pushed, Dr. Pineda reports.

THE ELECTRODES are implanted by making an incision in each side of the neck. The surgeons use a magnifying lens to position the electrodes.

The patient carries a battery-powered transmitter in a pocket or attached to a belt, and moves it by hand to the upper chest whenever stimulation is desired.

Only side effect is that the patient may complain of pain in the jaw when the stimulator is activated.

But unlike the drug nitroglycerine, electrical stimulation does not cause headache, heart pounding or faintness.

The Long Beach patients have been able to eliminate use of the anti-angina drug propranolol and to reduce the amount of nitroglycerine needed.

Angina pectoris frequently forces patients to lead sedentary lives. Severe pain may be triggered by exposure to cold, emotional upset, eating of large meals, and even moderate exercise.

But such pain can now be switched off by merely pushing a button.

Snoop Lens Can 'See' Past Metal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Development of a portable atomic camera that can "see" through metal containers to detect hidden drugs was reported Friday by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The camera can also detect flaws in metals, said the AEC.

"It records many things not visible by conventional X ray, can easily penetrate most metals and other heavy opaque materials, also detect weaknesses or foreign substances. "It can detect drugs and narcotics hidden in metal containers or concealed in other objects, thus providing a valuable tool for customs or enforcement officers, AEC said.

The 100-pound device, developed by scientists of Battelle-Northwest at Richland, Wash., under an AEC contract, employs the radioactive isotope Californium-253 as a source of neutrons, the atomic "rays" that allow the camera to produce a "radiograph," like an X-ray photograph.

U.N. Gets Draft Treaty on World Drug Control

Associated Press
GENEVA — The U.N. Narcotics Commission drafted a treaty Friday for international control of mind-altering drugs, but drug-producing countries of the 24-nation assembly used a majority to block strictest control on barbiturates, or sleeping pills.

The draft covers three other major groups of synthetic drugs — hallucinogens — (LSD), amphetamines — (pep pills) — and tranquilizers.

The treaty follows the pattern of the universal narcotics convention controlling "hard" narcotics from natural substances. About 100 synthetic drugs are involved.

The treaty now goes before the U.N. Economic and Social Council.

EACH COUNTRY is free to accept or refuse any or all the provisions.

Commission sources said stronger controls for barbiturates may be written into the treaty when it comes before the U.N. General Assembly, or at a worldwide conference, where the drug-producing countries do not enjoy a majority.

Countries with developed pharmaceutical industries, led by the U.S., West Germany, Canada and Japan, opposed the view of the World Health Organization that barbiturates are as dangerous as amphetamines.

THEY INSISTED that because of the large mass of barbiturates — some 20,000 brands are marketed in the world — tightest controls would place a defeating administrative strain on pharmaceutical industries and governments.

Amphetamines are used in the treatment of certain mental disorders but have dangerous side effects. They can be obtained legally on prescription in the U.S. and most other countries, but their illicit sale and distribution is common and constitutes one of the major grounds for prosecution under U.S. food and drug laws.

THE DRAFT protocol allows international travelers to carry "small quantities" — of mind-altering substances — except LSD — for their personal use, if medically prescribed.

India, Iran and Yugoslavia via described the clause as a loophole opening the door to possible large-scale smuggling of these drugs.

The U.S. Senate earlier this week approved a drug control measure which provides for semiflexible control schedules regulating the import, manufacture and distribution of specified drugs.

The bill also prescribes penalties ranging from life imprisonment and a $100,000 fine for "professional criminals" convicted of large-scale narcotic violations, and authorizes federal "no-knock" search warrants to be issued to agents who can show that evidence is likely to be destroyed if they knock before entering a suspected place.

U.S. Gets Going in Race to Use Vast H-Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. is trying urgently to catch up with recently reported Soviet gains toward harnessing the power of the hydrogen bomb, a goal that could lead to unlimited cheap electrical power.

The Atomic Energy Commission reported this Friday in relating that preliminary work has begun on two new research devices patterned after a machine with which Soviet scientists apparently have made important gains in the quest.

The machines will be built at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and at Princeton University.

In its annual report to Congress, the AEC gave details of U.S. scientists' response to the Russian developments.

Russ See U.S. Load War Gear

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Eleven high ranking Soviet journalists, during a three-hour voyage on the Mississippi River Thursday, watched U.S. army war materials being loaded onto ships bound for the far east.

The 300-foot side wheel steamer President, which carries tourists on tours of the Port of New Orleans daily, took the Russians past the U.S. government's Gulf Outlet, a port facility where olive drab armored vehicles were being hoisted off barges and into sea going freighters.

But the journalists, including L. N. Tolstunov, chief editor of Izvestia, and E. E. Mamedov, deputy chairman for radio and television in the Soviet Union, appeared to show no more than passing interest in the glimpse of military activities on the port tour.

Brier Patch Gets Handicap on 1st Million

LA MESA (AP) — The reality of big numbers is starting to come in loud and clear to third graders of Brier Patch Elementary School.

Boys and girls are searching for a million soda bottle caps to "impress them with such a big figure," says teacher Judy Stutz.

In two days, they gathered 67,000 caps.

Then, the block-buster news from principal Vincent W. Toth.

"We have gratefully accepted Coca-Cola's contribution of 1.8 million outdated Fresca Caps with cyclamates," Toth announced Friday.

BUT NO EPIDEMIC YET Flu Bug Hits 9 Eastern States

ATLANTA (UPI) — The National Communicable Disease Center reported scattered outbreaks of influenza and influenza-like illnesses in nine states Friday but stuck to its earlier prediction there will be no major U.S. epidemic this year.

The NCDC listed influenza outbreaks in Connecticut, Massachusetts, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida in its weekly report Friday morning.

This was followed by a special announcement several hours later that added four more states to the influenza list — Alabama, Louisiana, Rhode Island, and Vermont.

"Generally this represents occurrences of influenza in populations primarily uninvolved in last year's epidemics," the NCDC statement said.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology was quoted last April as saying the Soviets had apparently succeeded in achieving "the best combination of experimental ingredients yet achieved by any nation" in the nearly 20-year-old quest.

Specifically, the quest involves trying to reproduce in a special reactor the same thermonuclear process that makes the sun's heat and the big bang of H-bomb explosions.

It involves the fusion, or joining, of hydrogen atoms — as distinguished from the atom-splitting of the A-bomb.

Legalized Abortion Bill OK'd

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — The Washington State Senate Friday passed, 25-23, a bill legalizing abortion, after tacking on amendments which may run into opposition in the House.

The amendments would require that a married woman have her husband's consent and that a girl under 18 have her parents' consent. They also would require that the patient be a resident of Washington for 90 days and that no abortions be performed after the 16th week of pregnancy.

Earlier, the House approved its own version of the abortion bill, after rejecting two of the amendments later passed by the Senate.

If the bill wins final approval of the Legislature it must appear on the general election ballot in November.

IMPLANTED DEVICE BRINGS RELIEF L.B. Heart Patients 'Switch Off' the Pain

By BEN ZINSER Medical-Science Editor

Dramatic relief from excruciating chest pain is now being achieved by two Long Beach heart-disease patients by a simple push-button maneuver.

Thanks to a relatively new operation performed at Memorial Hospital, these patients can switch off the agony of angina pectoris, a vise-like pain brought on by oxygen deficit in the heart muscle.

Implantation of an electronic device in the upper chest enables the patient to reduce pain that cannot be controlled by medication or powerful narcotics.

"Both patients are comfortable now," says Dr. Anselmo Pineda, a Long Beach neurosurgeon.

ONE IS a 58-year-old Long Beach man who could not bear to lie down, so severe was his pain. He could not walk one-fourth of a block without angina pectoris resulting.

The other patient is a 71-year-old woman who had suffered a heart attack and continued to suffer angina.

Dr. Pineda said the coronary arteries of both were so severely involved that corrective surgery was out of the question. Drugs didn't help much.

The electronic device that abolishes pain works in the following manner:

A stainless-steel, wafer-shaped radiofrequency receiver is implanted just under the skin in the upper chest. Two wires extend from this device to a position high up in both sides of the neck.

There, platinum electrodes at the ends of the wires are attached to the carotid sinus nerves.

TO ENERGIZE this implanted rig, the patient places a light doughnut-shaped induction coil on his chest just outside the internal receiver. The implanted receiver makes a slight bulge so that the patient has no trouble finding it.

The patient pushes a button or presses a switch to activate the mechanism beneath the skin.

When the carotid sinus nerves are stimulated by electrical impulses, they bring about three phenomena by way of the mid-brain:

1. Heart rate slows.
2. Blood pressure falls.
3. Strength of heart beat (heart-muscle contractility) diminished.

Alteration of these three factors, in turn, reduces heart work. And reduction of heart work lowers the heart's oxygen requirements.

Since the excruciating, incapacitating pain of angina pectoris is a consequence of inadequate oxygen supply to the heart muscles, diminished oxygen need relieves the anginal pain.

Relief of pain comes within five to 10 seconds after the button is pushed, Dr. Pineda reports.

THE ELECTRODES are implanted by making an incision in each side of the neck. The surgeons use a magnifying lens to position the electrodes.

The patient carries a battery-powered transmitter in a pocket or attached to a belt, and moves it by hand to the upper chest whenever stimulation is desired.

Only side effect is that the patient may complain of pain in the jaw when the stimulator is activated.

But unlike the drug nitroglycerine, electrical stimulation does not cause headache, heart pounding or faintness.

The Long Beach patients have been able to eliminate use of the anti-angina drug propranolol and to reduce the amount of nitroglycerine needed.

Angina pectoris frequently forces patients to lead sedentary lives. Severe pain may be triggered by exposure to cold, emotional upset, eating of large meals, and even moderate exercise.

But such pain can now be switched off by merely pushing a button.

Snoop Lens Can 'See' Past Metal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Development of a portable atomic camera that can "see" through metal containers to detect hidden drugs was reported Friday by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The camera can also detect flaws in metals, said the AEC.

"It records many things not visible by conventional X ray, can easily penetrate most metals and other heavy opaque materials to detect weaknesses or foreign substances. "It can detect drugs and narcotics hidden in metal containers or concealed in other objects, thus providing a valuable tool for customs or enforcement officers, AEC said.

The 100-pound device, developed by scientists of Battelle-Northwest at Richland, Wash., under an AEC contract, employs the radioactive isotope Californium-252 as a source of neutrons, the atomic "rays" that allow the camera to produce a "radiograph," like an X-ray photograph.

U.N. Gets Draft Treaty on World Drug Control

Associated Press

GENEVA — The U.N. Narcotics Commission drafted a treaty Friday for international control of mind-altering drugs, but drug-producing countries of the 24-nation assembly used a majority to block strictest control on barbiturates, or sleeping pills.

The draft covers three other major groups of synthetic drugs — hallucinogens — (LSD), amphetamines — (pep pills) — and tranquilizers.

The draft follows the pattern of the universal narcotics convention controlling "hard" narcotics from natural substances. About 100 synthetic drugs are involved.

The treaty now goes before the U.N. Economic and Social Council.

EACH COUNTRY is free to accept or refuse any or all the provisions.

Commission sources said stronger controls for barbiturates may be written into the treaty when it comes before the U.N. General Assembly, or at a worldwide conference, where the drug-producing countries do not enjoy a majority.

Countries with developed pharmaceutical industries, led by the U.S., West Germany, Canada and Japan, opposed the view of the World Health Organization that barbiturates are as dangerous as amphetamines.

THEY INSISTED that because of the large mass of barbiturates — some 20,000 brands are marketed in the world — tightest controls would place a defeating administrative strain on pharmaceutical industries and governments.

Amphetamines are used in the treatment of certain mental disorders but have dangerous side effects. They can be obtained legally on prescription in the U.S. and most other countries, but their illicit sale and distribution is common and constitutes one of the major grounds for prosecution under U.S. food and drug laws.

THE DRAFT protocol allows international travelers to carry "small quantities" of mind-altering substances — except LSD — for their personal use, if medically prescribed.

India, Iran and Yugoslavia described the clause as a loophole opening the door to possible large-scale smuggling of these drugs.

The U.S. Senate earlier this week approved a drug control measure which provides for semirigid control schedules regulating the import, manufacture and distribution of specified drugs.

The bill also prescribes penalties ranging from life imprisonment and a $100,000 fine for "professional criminals" convicted of large-scale narcotic violations, and authorizes federal "no-knock" search warrants to be issued to agents who can show that evidence is likely to be destroyed if they knock before entering a suspected place.

Agnew's Tour Extensive, Expensive

WASHINGTON — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's 11-nation, goodwill mission to the Far East was not only extensive; it was expensive.

Official sources say there's no possible way to pinpoint the cost of the 25-day, 38,000-mile trip which involved at least two airplanes and 56 government-paid personnel.

But there is a rough estimate—"about $250,000"—from several unnamed officials. Reporters traveling with the vice president estimate the total is at least that much.

Seventh in a series

Herb Thompson, the vice president's press secretary, explained why a total cost couldn't be figured.

Some of the expenses are borne by the Air Force, some by the State Department, some by the vice presidential office, some by the United States Information Service, some by the U.S. embassies in the 11 nations, he noted.

And of course the host nations dug into their own resources too. While the Agnews stayed in hotels in Kuala Lumpur, Taipei, Bangkok, Canberra and Auckland, they were guests at Malacanang in Manila and at the palaces of the kings of Nepal and Afghanistan.

THE STATE banquets, a dozen of them, were financed by the host nations.

At least 300 persons, all working for Uncle Sam, were directly involved in the trip. They included advance men, secret service men, protocol officers and publicity men. The number of persons traveling with the vice president ranged from a low of 56 to a high of 78—plus 10 newsmen, whose organizations paid their way.

At least two Boeing 707 airplanes were used—Air Force Two, occupied by the vice president, the traveling staff, secret service and the press, and a backup plane containing more staffers and protective officers. That plane always left about an hour before Air Force Two.

The vice president's bulletproof Cadillac, which also has machine guns, was transported in another plane for his use in Manila, Taipei and Bangkok. Later, it was seen back in Washington.

Even before the Dec. 26-Jan. 19 trip, advance men were dispatched to all the places he would visit to check everything from hotel arrangements, water supply, traffic, mood of the public to security.

White House press assistant Jack Surrick, for instance, did a dryrun of the entire trip, taking up 15 days. One of the special VIP planes of the 88th Military Air Wing, based at Andrews Air Force Base, was used for the dryrun.

89th MAW is known as the "airline of Presidents." It has five airplanes, all Boeing 707's, used for transporting the President, vice president, cabinet members and heads of state on continental and international flights.

THE PLANE used in the Agnew trip earlier was on a 35-day worldwide goodwill mission of Neil Armstrong, the first man on the moon.

The vice president didn't exactly leave the executive office building in Washington unmanned, but he took with him most of his staff.

With him were C. Stanley Blair, his administrative assistant; Herb Thompson, his press secretary; Roy Gooderale, spe-

Before Agnew left, he had lengthy consultations with Dr. Henry Kissinger, presidential assistant for national security affairs.

And the vice president told reporters, at least three times, that he felt he was "well-briefed." Besides his talks with Kissinger, he conferred with U.S. ambassadors to the various nations and with state department forecast specialists before he met with heads of state.

Agnew's mission, as he expressed it, was to explain the Nixon doctrine, which called on nations of Asia to handle their own internal security problems and to join together in common defense when confronted by invasion from the outside. It also reiterated America's promise to live up to its treaty commitments.

The vice president didn't stray from announced mission, and his aides had little to explain to traveling newsmen. He was accessible to reporters anyway, and they had opportunities

Spying on Press 'Not U.S. Policy'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Friday the infiltration of four government agents into the press corps in Saigon "is not in accord with the public information policy of this administration."

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters that he is concerned about the matter and so is the Pentagon's top public affairs official, Assistant Secretary Daniel Z. Henkin.

Answering a question, Ziegler said that President Nixon is aware of the infiltration. But he detoured an inquiry as to whether Nixon had ordered an investigation. He referred to the Pentagon and Saigon additional questions, such as one about who is responsible for the infiltration.

The U.S. Embassy in Saigon also has disavowed the infiltration and said that "appropriate disciplinary action" will be taken against the person or persons—it did not name them—who may be involved.

The four infiltrators, two Americans and two South Vietnamese, were issued press credentials, but were discovered. Legitimate newsmen in Saigon suspected the agents had been infiltrated to spy out military personnel leaking information the U.S. Command wanted to keep from the public.

Orange County Heads Tri-County New Home Sales

More than 20,500 sales of new homes in single-family and planned development subdivisions were recorded in Orange, Los Angeles and Ventura Counties during 1969, the marketing research department of First American Title Insurance Company reported this week.

Orange County led the way, with 10,296 recorded sales, while the totals for Los Angeles County and Ventura County were 7,821 and 2,424, respectively.

The tabulations were made from statistics reported in "Recorded Facts," monthly magazine devoted to residential subdivision data published by the Santa Ana-based title firm.

Figures represent recorded documents only and do not reflect unrecorded sales contracts used by some developments, according to Dale J. Post, assistant vice president in charge of First American's marketing research unit.

Greatest sales were in the El Toro-Laguna Hills-Mission Viejo area of Orange County, where 1,950 recordings were tallied.

The total includes the final six months only of sales in the Rossmore-Laguna Hills development, Post noted.

Runners-up were Huntington Beach, 1,289 recorded sales; Newport Beach-Irvine area, 1,248; Tustin area, 865; and Cypress area, 726. The totals are based on 656 single-family and planned development subdivisions recorded in the county since January 1, 1966.

IN LOS ANGELES COUNTY, the Cerritos area surpassed all other sections, as 1,834 sales were chalked up, compared with 856 for Torrance, 832 for Newhall and 735 for Palmdale.

Included in the tabulations were 599 developments with ten or more lots recorded since October 1, 1966.

More than half of all recorded sales in Ventura County were in the Simi area, with 1,339 home purchases, followed by Thousand Oaks, 518, and Oxnard, 337. The compilations were based on 143 subdivisions recorded since October 1, 1966.

First American Title's report also shows that lots in new tracts recorded in Orange County during 1969 totaled 13,202, compared with 13,538 the previous year.

In Los Angeles County, the totals were 13,184 new lots in 1969 and 11,565 in 1968, while Ventura County's newly-manufactured lots amounted to 4,893 in 1969, as against 3,633 in 1968.

Developments recorded in Orange County prior to January 1, 1966, and in Los Angeles and Ventura Counties before October 1, 1966, which still may be offering homes for sale, are not included in the report.

Huntington Harbour Boaters' Home Port

A recent survey conducted by the U.S. Coast Guard reveals that Huntington Harbour's 258 acres of waterways are "home ports" to more than 900 sail and power boats of all size and classes.

Huntington Harbour's Yacht Club reflects its residents' enthusiasm for the boating life.

Among its activities for February alone are a three-day mid-winter regatta, Feb. 20-22, plus a predicted log race, a Lido Cherry Series, a Cal-20 race and the Huntington Harbour Club Derby and dinner.

Residents of the 18 miles of waterfront homes in this unusual water-oriented community near Huntington Beach have private docks, while non-waterfront dwellers are provided easy access to boat slips at the Harbour's four marinas.

Extensive boat launch and dry dock facilities are located at the main marina.

ALTHOUGH complete with schools and shopping center, Huntington Harbour is still a growing community.

New homes and recreational facilities were built according to a carefully followed master plan and time schedule.

Most recently opened for public viewing are several new waterfront homes.

Petrolane Acquiring Whipstock in $9 Million Stock Exchange

Petrolane Incorporated, Long Beach, has signed an agreement to acquire the business and properties of Whipstock, Inc., a closely held international oil field equipment and directional drilling company based in Midland, Texas, for Petrolane stock with a value of up to $9 million.

The agreement, which is subject to a favorable tax ruling and other conditions, provides for the delivery of 215,000 shares of Petrolane common stock of which 107,000 will be placed in escrow for release in 1970, 1973, and 1975 on the basis of Whipstock's earnings performance.

According to R. J. Munzer, Petrolane president, Whipstock is expected to have revenues of approximately $7 million in fiscal 1970. The company will be come part of Petrolane's Offshore Service Division.

WHIPSTOCK provides directional drilling services and sells and rents oil field equipment throughout the free world, both onshore and offshore. It also manufactures its own line of oil field tools under the Whipco trademark.

In addition to its domestic operations, it has subsidiaries in Alaska, the United Kingdom and Holland.

Munzer said that H. C. Harris Jr. will continue as president, R. E. Brunley as vice president, and R. A. Cullen as secretary treasurer of Whipstock after the acquisition is completed.

"WE ARE particularly pleased to add the specialized knowledge and services of Whipstock to our growing Offshore Service Division," said Munzer. "Its international reputation and resources add yet another dimension to our concept of providing full range of services to the petroleum industry. This is particularly true of offshore oil exploration and production, where directional drilling is employed almost exclusively."

PETROLANE's offshore division currently offers a variety of transportation and underwater engineering services to offshore oil and gas producers, in addition to supplying specialized fishing tool equipment and services for both onshore and offshore wells.

Petrolane is a diversified marketing and service company, with principal interests in the LP-gas and supermarket industries.

Realty Offices to Get New Look With Computerized Tax Service

This tax season, there's going to be a new look in real estate offices in the Long Beach area as brokers begin offering the public a unique computerized tax consulting service.

According to John J. Lumbleau, president of Lumbleau Real Estate Schools and head of the new State and Federal Computerized Income Tax Consultants, about 200 real estate offices in the state have joined the plan.

Organized only three months ago, it has the distinction of being one of the largest tax services in the state.

Lumbleau said the idea of utilizing existing facilities and personnel at established real estate offices has many advantages both for the realtors and the more than seven million Californians who file tax forms each year.

"MEMBER brokers are already knowledgeable in the tax field," he said. "But to bring them up to date with the radically changed forms from last year we are giving them 100 hours of training."

Lumbleau noted that all tax returns will automatically be computer-checked for accuracy through State and Federal's eight regional computer terminals thus eliminating the risk of audit, almost completely, from this common area of error.

The success of State and Federal, he added, could signal the end of the era of fly-by-night tax preparation operators.

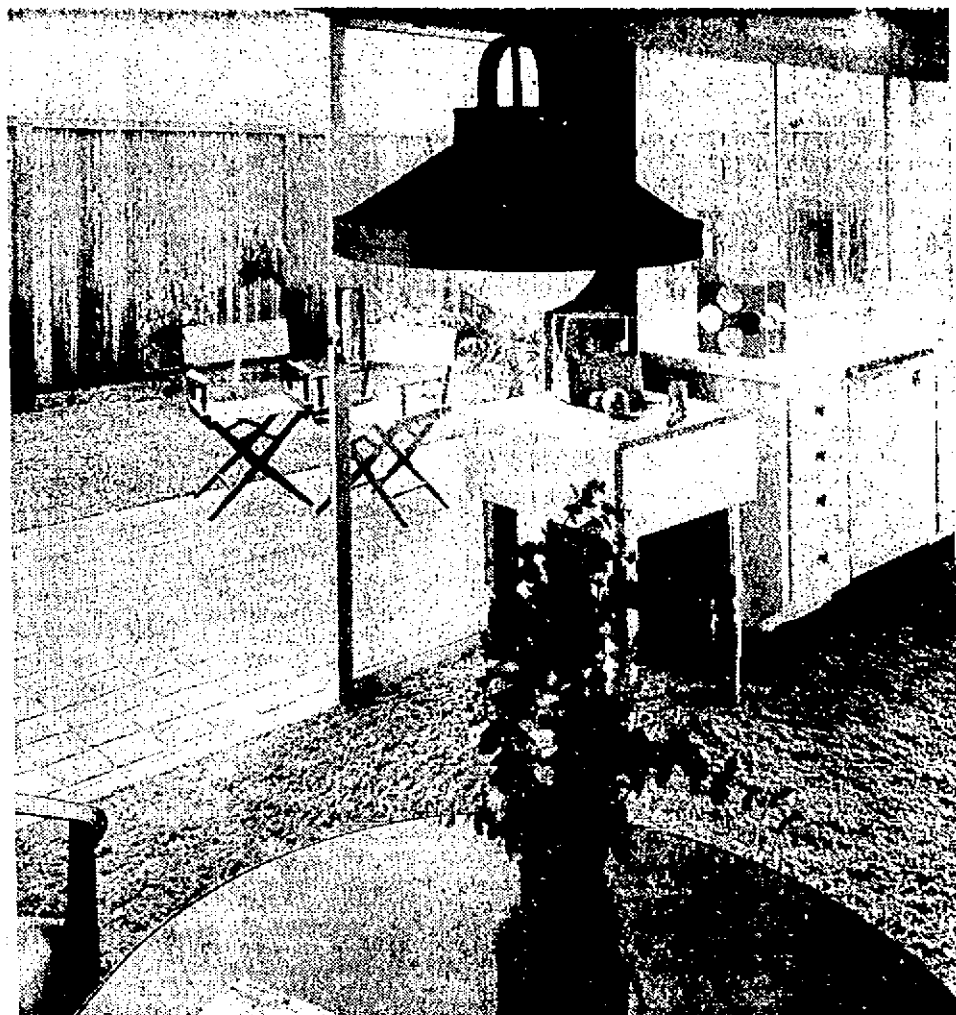

TRAINING is under the supervision of Raymond C. Smith, executive vice president, who helped develop the program. Smith has been a tax consultant for 22 years.

To back up the company's confidence in its system, it is providing a free audit service when it is found that a State and Federal Consultant is at fault. The company is guaranteeing payment of all penalties and interest for arithmetical errors.

An advantage of State and Federal's Computerized Tax Program is the permanency of the office, Lumbleau pointed out. "Our member offices are bona fide realtors who have been in business for some time, and who still have their doors open after April 15. That means they will be available for consultation by taxpayers

BLUFFS TOWNE HOUSES... Feature Private Patio, Dining Area

Famous Bluffs Final Unit Open

After nearly four years of "instant success" and national recognition, Newport Beach's famous Bluffs community moves into its final phases with the opening set today for two new units.

Six models will highlight the new Bluff Towne Houses and the exciting Bluff Park Homes.

Both are keyed to family living and blend a score of new ideas with the Bluff environmental successes — a private park, reflection lake, swimming pools, play areas and the natural advantages of the Upper Newport Bay views and location.

Both are within walking distance of the Newport Beach Tennis Club.

"THE SAME quiet, curved streets, the same care of parks, gardens and play areas, the same Mediterranean beauty will be maintained in the new group," Holstein stressed.

Included in the Towne House and Park Home planning are four bedrooms, large family rooms, separate play rooms, sun or play decks, private inside patios, entry courts, delightful private dining patios, fireplaces and even "expandable" Bonus Room.

The Holstein Company, innovator of the famed Bonus Room, will offer the expandable room that has sold over 3,000 Orange Countians for the first time at the Bluffs Park Homes.

THE SITE is just off Eastbluff Drive and is easy to reach via the Newport Freeway to Palisades. Visitors should then drive South on Palisades across the bridge and follow Eastbluff to the entry.

Joining the family oriented plans at the Bluffs, the Bluff family will also be delighted with the traffic free streets, the private pools, the proximity of schools.

"Bluff children may walk from preschool, elementary school to high school — all within the rolling parks of their own private community," the pioneer home building firm explained.

LOCATED on the Eastbluff portion of the Irvine Ranch, the Bluffs community is designed by the beach area architect firm of Leitch, Kiyotaki & Associates.

The developers, George M. Holstein & Sons, have built and sold nearly 600 units in the previous three plus years at the site above the Bay.

The new group of 500 homes will be the last of the Bay area homes and will complete the community in 24 months, the building firm predicts.

Orange County Heads Tri-County New Home Sales

More than 20,500 sales of new homes in single-family and planned development subdivisions were recorded in Orange, Los Angeles and Ventura Counties during 1969, the marketing research department of First American Title Insurance Company reported this week.

Orange County led the way, with 10,296 recorded sales, while the totals for Los Angeles County and Ventura County were 7,821 and 2,424, respectively.

The tabulations were made from statistics reported in "Recorded Facts," monthly magazine devoted to residential subdivision data published by the Santa Ana-based title firm.

Figures represent recorded documents only and do not reflect unrecorded sales contracts used by some developments, according to Dale J. Post, assistant vice president in charge of First American's marketing research unit.

Greatest sales were in the El Toro-Laguna Hills-Mission Viejo area of Orange County, where 1,950 recordings were tallied.

The total includes the final six months only of sales in the Rossmore-Laguna Hills development, Post noted. Runners-up were Huntington Beach, 1,289 recorded sales; Newport Beach-Irvine area, 1,248; Tustin area, 865; and Cypress area, 726. The totals are based on 656 single-family and planned development subdivisions recorded in the county since January 1, 1966.

IN LOS ANGELES COUNTY, the Cerritos area surpassed all other sections, as 1,834 sales were chalked up, compared with 856 for Torrance, 832 for Newhall and 735 for Palmdale.

Included in the tabulations were 599 developments with ten or more lots recorded since October 1, 1966.

More than half of all recorded sales in Ventura County were in the Simi area, with 1,339 home purchases, followed by Thousand Oaks, 518, and Oxnard, 337. The compilations were based on 143 subdivisions recorded since October 1, 1966.

Disney World to Reflect Much of Disneyland

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Real Estate Editor

Disneyland is about to have an offspring—and it's a good thing the new arrival won't be eating at home.

Disney World in Florida, which promises to be much like Disneyland, also will be bigger and costlier.

After more than four years of what Disney people like to call "imaginering," master planning and site preparation, construction is under way at Disney World near Orlando.

A man who walked the dusty lanes of Disneyland with me when it was under construction here in 1955 was my guide last week at the new Disney enterprise site.

Charles Ridgeway, now in charge of public relations there, showed me through the vast 27,500-acre Florida park.

Cinderella's Castle, ultimately designed to reach nearly 200 feet, and numerous other structures are beginning to "come out of the ground."

Many of the new park's attractions (to open in October, 1971) are similar to those at Disneyland. But, because of lessons learned at Anaheim, all will be bigger, better and more accessible.

Disney World will have much more than Anaheim, of course, but wise planners have taken into consideration just how much walking—and spending—a family can do in one day.

Planners, too, seek to avoid the perimeter businesses that surround Disneyland by creating Disney World's own perimeter of hotels and restaurants near the new central theme park.

Land values, however, are skyrocketing in the Orlando area and it is apparent a second perimeter of businesses will eventually ring the new park's boundary.

Disney World has many things in common with its Anaheim parent, but one strikes a homey note: both parks are located in an Orange County.

THREE PHONE CALLS

It might be well for real estate salesmen to read of the story of a bereaved Garden Grove family and its problems earlier this week.

Within hours after the surviving members of the family had returned from the mother's funeral, the phone rang and an enterprising real estate office wanted to know if the home might not now be up for sale.

The tearful teen-aged son politely said the family had no thought of selling.

Again the phone rang. Another real estate salesman had chosen this hour to advance his offer to "help sell your home."

A third time the phone rang. Another real estate officer who had gotten his "lead" from the obituaries was on the line.

Patience, the sorrowing son got rid of the caller, then brought his complaint to this writer.

We could assure him most real estate people are not so calloused—but not all.

SALES OF AUTO PARTS

Sales of parts in the automotive aftermarket are expected to increase 50 per cent at the wholesale price level during the next decade, an AC Spark Plug Division sales executive estimated at Las Vegas this week.

Some 800 wholesale distributors of AC products attending the Automotive Service Industries Association show heard William C. Lee, assistant general sales manager, state that the total parts aftermarket volume at the wholesale level should move from the present $6 billion to about $9 billion during the next 10 years.

Lee cited the growth in motor vehicles on the road and the anticipated increase in population as two of the influential factors in the sales estimated.

He compared the expected 50 per cent increase in aftermarket sales with the projected 38 per cent growth in motor vehicles on the road as an indication that other factors will have an important impact on the market.

WANTS WORTHLESS STOCK

Your worthless stock certificates may yet turn into a bonanza.

John Skoby will buy them for a pittance.

But the penny you'll get for each certificate will establish your legal right to write off your loss.

The Internal Revenue Service says it's ok.

Skoby wants to use the certificates to paper the walls in the "board" room of his Sir Michael's restaurant in Los Angeles.

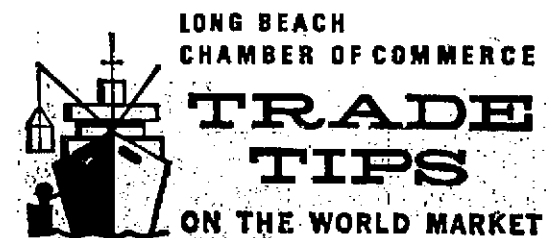

"On Wall Street they may be worthless," Skoby said, "but on the four walls of Sir Michael's as a cover-up for unfunny graffiti they're worth their weight in Form 1040."

Grayson Personnel in Meeting

Sales representatives of Robertshaw Controls Company, Grayson Controls Division, located in Long Beach, met recently for a five-day sales meeting.

In addition to sales personnel from other states throughout the nation, others attending the meeting were representatives of the executive offices of the corporation located at Richmond, Virginia, and sales oriented personnel from other divisions including Canada and Europe.

DURING the meeting, one day was devoted to a tour of the Fallbrook Division located at Fallbrook, the latest division to be added to the company.

The meeting was hosted by O. V. Pope, general manager of the Long Beach facility, and director of marketing W. E. Otis.

Broadway Execs in Transfer

Philip M. Hawley, president of The Broadway Department Stores, has announced the appointment of two regional managers for the firm's Los Angeles area stores and the transfer of a store manager to San Diego as regional manager for the three Broadways there.

William Belding, regional manager San Diego, was named regional manager Los Angeles Region I.

Belding will have direct management responsibility for Los Angeles, Hollywood, Crenshaw, Westchester, Valley, Del Amo, Wilshire, Ventura, Topanga Plaza, Century City and Bakersfield.

Edwin Barnes, store manager of Downey, was named regional manager Los Angeles Region II, which includes the stores located at Pasadena, Anaheim, Long Beach, Whittier, West Covina, Downey, Huntington Beach, San Bernardino, Las Vegas, Newport Beach, Montclair and Riverside.

Both executives will headquarter at the Broadway Service Building, Los Angeles.

as it is for domestic sales techniques.

Do you sell the sizzle and not the steak?

Is it the package and the frills that move products rather than the usefulness or desirability of the products themselves?

Well perhaps I see the matter differently.

In my many years of export experience, I have come to the conclusion that exporters should sell both the sizzle and the steak, as well as the appetizer and the soup and hot hors-d'oeuvres and cold hors-d'oeuvres and fish and poultry and white wine and entree and red wine and salad and vegetables and cheese and demitasse and cordials.

And please don't forget the mustard and catsup and Worcestershire sauce.

Exporters who have followed this dictum have done well for themselves, because their offers to overseas buyers is a broad-brush presentation, and as factual as only a well-balanced menu can be.

BUT DON'T stop there.

Your overseas buyer is a hard-headed businessman who expects you to translate your offers for the best incentive, namely, money.

And how to profit is a universal panacea devoutly desired. Whether we call it Patacas, Dinero, Mazuma, Spondulaks, Zlotys or Haikwan Taels, money is money.

So give your overseas buyer the full treatment from soup to nuts, then embellish your offer with a sort of cafe royale, or creme de la creme, by making your offers not a trite matter of figures, but translate it in terms of how to profit with joy.

The going may be somewhat tougher in the '70s, but the business of exports will still be there.

Go out and get it.

THIS WEEK'S Trade Tips are variable, and there should be one or more categories to please you.

Ills in Auto Industry Hurting Index

Continuing ills in the auto industry and slacking steel production are beginning to take their toll in other components of the Index, as this week's Index level dropped 0.3 per cent.

Auto production lost 3.3 per cent — a 16.6 per cent drop below a year ago. In the current week Ford Motor Co. joined General Motors and Chrysler in cutting back production schedules.

Hopes for an upswing of auto sales in the new year were threatened by a 22 per cent drop in the first ten days of January.

Steel output was down 2.1 per cent. Last minute or-wonders if the Bureau of Milk Price Stabilization (a division of the State Department of Agriculture) is protecting the public as well as the producers and distributors of milk.

Because of allowed discounts on large "drops" of milk to, say, supermarkets, those outlets, Crasno claims, are making a 37 per cent profit on a vital commodity.

The same big markets, Crasno adds, average 22 per cent profit on grocery items.

He wonders if it is generally known that smaller markets, which of necessity order smaller "drops" at their door from the dairies, are making "only 2½ per cent on that same milk."

The state bureau spokesmen, to whom Crasno has talked, admit some correction might be due, Crasno says, but claim changes must come through amended laws.

And that is what Crasno is doing—taking his fight to local Assemblymen.

ders before the February price hike have stopped.

The energy components were up last week. The unseasonably cold weather across the country, plus a shortage of coal, increased demand for fuel oil, and boosted the crude oil refinery runs 1.6 per cent. Electric power output gained 5.4 per cent.

Inter-city truck tonnage went up 11.0 per cent, still 6.1 per cent behind a year ago; all other carloadings dropped 3.8 per cent reflecting a reduction in coal transportation. Miscellaneous carloadings inched 0.1 per cent below a week ago, as auto shipments continued to drop off.

Paperboard production gained 4.4 per cent.

Second Building Being Erected for Lease to Housing Authority

Construction began this week on the second apartment building to be erected especially for lease to the Long Beach Housing Authority.

Councilman Raymond Keeler joined with Contractor Charles Thomas in breaking ground for a 12-unit structure being built at 733 Maine St.

The two-story structure will consist of five efficiency apartments and seven one-bedroom apartments and will be designed with features for the elderly and handicapped.

Earlier in the month, a four-unit structure of three-bedroom apartments was begun at 1330 Walnut Ave. which will be leased to the Housing Authority when completed this spring.

CONSTRUCTION is expected to begin in the next few weeks on two dozen more units in the city for lease to the Housing Authority.

So far, Andre Construction and the Del Bunch Corporation are the only builders who have begun "turnkey" construction in Long Beach; however, the LHD Corporation of Long Beach, headed by Hong Lee, is expected to break ground soon.

The Andre Construction Company, developer of the apartment building at 733 Maine, has built more than 100 such units for the Los Angeles Housing Authority and was the first to construct in Los Angeles under the Section 23 Leased Housing Act.

THE Long Beach Housing Authority, operating under the sponsorship of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, is authorized to lease these dwelling units from the developer when complete and sublet them to families of low income and elderly.

According to Sales Manager Ray Logan, transactions totalling nearly $10 million are recorded for last year.

This figure, an increase of $1 million over the previous year, represents the sale of 191 units, including houses, townhouses, lots and resales.

It does not include figures for multi-family land sales.

In view of the excellent 1969 performance, Logan is forecasting a "brisk year" for 1970. He said that estimates are for approximately $11.5 million in sales or about 200 units.

Disneyland is about to have an offspring—and it's a good thing the new arrival won't be eating at home. Disney World in Florida, which promises to be much like Disneyland, also will be bigger and costlier. After more than four years of what Disney people like to call "Imagineering," master planning and site preparation, construction is under way at Disney World near Orlando.

A man who walked the dusty lanes of Disneyland with me when it was under construction here in 1955 was my guide last week at the new Disney enterprise site.

Charles Ridgeway, now in charge of public relations there, showed me through the vast 27,500-acre Florida park.

Cinderella's Castle, ultimately designed to reach nearly 200 feet, and numerous other structures are beginning to "come out of the ground."

Many of the new park's attractions (to open in October, 1971) are similar to those at Disneyland. But, because of lessons learned at Anaheim, all will be bigger, better and more accessible.

Disney World will have much more than Anaheim, of course, but wise planners have taken into consideration just how much walking—and spending—a family can do in one day.

Planners, too, seek to avoid the perimeter businesses that surround Disneyland by creating Disney World's own perimeter of hotels and restaurants near the new central theme park.

Land values, however, are skyrocketing in the Orlando area and it is apparent a second perimeter of businesses will eventually ring the new park's boundary.

Disney World has many things in common with its Anaheim parent, but one strikes a homey note: both parks are located in an Orange County.

THREE PHONE CALLS

It might be well for real estate salesmen to read of the story of a bereaved Garden Grove family and its problems earlier this week.

Within hours after the surviving members of the family had returned from the mother's funeral, the phone rang and an enterprising real estate office wanted to know if the home might not now be up for sale.

The tearful teen-aged son politely said the family had no thought of selling.

Again the phone rang. Another real estate salesman had chosen this hour to advance his offer to "help sell your home."

A third time the phone rang. Another real estate officer who had gotten his "lead" from the obituaries was on the line.

Patience, the sorrowing son got rid of the caller, then brought his complaint to this writer.

We could assure him most real estate people are not so calloused—but not all.

SALES OF AUTO PARTS

Sales of parts in the automotive aftermarket are expected to increase 50 per cent at the wholesale price level during the next decade, an AC Spark Plug Division sales executive estimated at Las Vegas this week.

Some 800 wholesale distributors of AC products attending the Automotive Service Industries Association show heard William C. Lee, assistant general sales manager, state that the total parts aftermarket volume at the wholesale level should move from the present $6 billion to about $9 billion during the next 10 years.

Lee cited the growth in motor vehicles on the road and the anticipated increase in population as two of the influential factors in the sales estimated.

He compared the expected 50 per cent increase in aftermarket sales with the projected 38 per cent growth in motor vehicles on the road as an indication that other factors will have an important impact on the market.

WANTS WORTHLESS STOCK

Your worthless stock certificates may yet turn into a bonanza.

John Skoby will buy them for a pittance. But the penny you'll get for each certificate will establish your legal right to write off your loss.

The Internal Revenue Service says it's ok. Skoby wants to use the certificates to paper the walls in the "board" room of his Sir Michael's restaurant in Los Angeles.

"On Wall Street they may be worthless," Skoby said, "but on the four walls of Sir Michael's as a cover-up for unfunny graffiti they're worth their weight in Form 1040."

Grayson Personnel in Meeting

Sales representatives of Robertshaw Controls Company, Grayson Controls Division, located in Long Beach, met recently for a five-day sales meeting.

In addition to sales personnel from other states throughout the nation, others attending the meeting were representatives of the executive offices of the corporation located at Richmond, Virginia, and sales oriented personnel from other divisions including Canada and Europe.

DURING the meeting, one day was devoted to a tour of the Fallbrook Division located at Fallbrook, the latest division to be added to the company. The meeting was hosted by O. V. Pope, general manager of the Long Beach facility, and director of marketing W. E. Otis.

Broadway Execs in Transfer

Philip M. Hawley, president of The Broadway Department Stores, has announced the appointment of two regional managers for the firm's Los Angeles area stores and the transfer of a store manager to San Diego as regional manager for the three Broadways there.

William Belding, regional manager San Diego, was named regional manager Los Angeles Region I.

Belding will have direct management responsibility for Los Angeles, Hollywood, Crenshaw, Westchester, Valley, Del Amo, Wilshire, Ventura, Topanga Plaza, Century City and Bakersfield.

Edwin Barnes, store manager of Downey, was named regional manager Los Angeles Region II, which includes the stores located at Pasadena, Anaheim, Long Beach, Whittier, West Covina, Downey, Huntington Beach, San Bernardino, Las Vegas, Newport Beach, Montclair and Riverside.

Both executives will headquarter at the Broadway Service Building, Los Angeles.

as it is for domestic sales techniques.

Do you sell the sizzle and not the steak?

Is it the package and the frills that move products rather than the usefulness or desirability of the products themselves?

Well perhaps I see the matter differently.

In my many years of export experience, I have come to the conclusion that exporters should sell both the sizzle and the steak, as well as the appetizer and the soup and hot hors-d'oeuvres and cold hors-d'oeuvres and fish and poultry and white wine and entree and red wine and salad and vegetables and cheese and demitasse and cordials.

And please don't forget the mustard and catsup and Worcestershire sauce.

Exporters who have followed this dictum have done well for themselves, because their offers to overseas buyers is a broad-brush presentation, and as factual as only a well-balanced menu can be.

BUT DON'T stop there.

Your overseas buyer is a hard-headed businessman who expects you to translate your offers for the best incentive, namely, money.

And how to profit is a universal panacea devoutly desired. Whether we call it Patacas, Dinero, Mazuma, Spoudulaks, Zlotys or Haikwan Taels, money is money.

So give your overseas buyer the full treatment from soup to nuts, then embellish your offer with a sort of cafe royale, or creme de la creme, by making your offers not a trite matter of figures, but translate it in terms of how to profit with joy.

The going may be somewhat tougher in the '70s, but the business of exports will still be there. Go out and get it.

THIS WEEK'S Trade Tips are variable, and there should be one or more categories to please you.

Osmose obtained the rights from Marine Barriers, Inc., Avalon, whose president, Orval E. Liddell, invented the Pile-Gard system. Marine Barriers has been appointed licensee for the entire West Coast.

Storer said the newly formed Marine Division of Osmose will construct a manufacturing facility in Griffin, Ga., to handle increased production for both the domestic and export markets.

The Port of Los Angeles carried out initial testing of Pile-Gard starting in 1958, and more than 10,000 wood pilings have been protected to date, without a single failure.

Ills in Auto Industry Hurting Index

Continuing ills in the auto industry and slacking steel production are beginning to take their toll in other components of the Index, as this week's Index level dropped 0.3 per cent.

Auto production lost 3.3 per cent — a 16.6 per cent drop below a year ago. In the current week Ford Motor Co. joined General Motors and Chrysler in cutting back production schedules.

Hopes for an upswing of auto sales in the new year were threatened by a 22 per cent drop in the first ten days of January.

Steel output was down 2.1 per cent. Last minute or-wonders if the Bureau of Milk Price Stabilization (a division of the State Department of Agriculture) is protecting the public as well as the producers and distributors of milk.

Because of allowed discounts on large "drops" of milk to, say, supermarkets, those outlets, Crasno claims, are making a 37 per cent profit on a vital commodity.

The same big markets, Crasno adds, average 22 per cent profit on grocery items.

He wonders if it is generally known that smaller markets, which of necessity order smaller "drops" at their door from the dairies, are making "only 2½ per cent on that same milk."

The state bureau spokesmen, to whom Crasno has talked, admit some correction might be due, Crasno says, but claim changes must come through amended laws.

And that is what Crasno is doing—laking his fight to local Assemblymen.

Second Building Being Erected for Lease to Housing Authority

Construction began this week on the second apartment building to be erected especially for lease to the Long Beach Housing Authority.

Councilman Raymond Keeler joined with Contractor Charles Thomas in breaking ground for a 12-unit structure being built at 733 Maine St.

The two-story structure will consist of five efficiency apartments and seven one-bedroom apartments and will be designed with features for the elderly and handicapped.

Earlier in the month, a four-unit structure of three-bedroom apartments was begun at 1330 Walnut Ave. which will be leased to the Housing Authority when completed this spring.

CONSTRUCTION is expected to begin in the next few weeks on two dozen more units in the city for lease to the Housing Authority. So far, Andre Construction and the Del Bunch Corporation are the only builders who have begun "turnkey" construction in Long Beach; however, the LHD Corporation of Long Beach, headed by Hong Lee, is expected to break ground soon.

The Andre Construction Company, developer of the apartment building at 733 Maine, has built more than 100 such units for the Los Angeles Housing Authority and was the first to construct in Los Angeles under the Section 23 Leased Housing Act.

THE Long Beach Housing Authority, operating under the sponsorship of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, is authorized to lease these dwelling units from the developer when complete and sublet them to families of low income and elderly.

Financing is made available through savings and loan associations, able to obtain loans from the Federal Home Loan Bank at guaranteed interest rates for the Section 23 Program.

The Housing Authority hopes to have 600 units under lease by the end of 1970 and expects that at least half of these will be of new construction.

Huntington Harbour Has Record Sales

RECORD sales for 1969 at the residential marine community of Huntington Harbour have been reported.

INVITED

Monte Davis, president-owner of Glenn E. Thomas Company, Long Beach Chrysler dealer, has been invited to participate in annual Bob Hope Desert Classic golf tournament at Palm Desert next week.

According to Sales Manager Ray Logan, transactions totalling nearly $10 million are recorded for last year.

This figure, an increase of $1 million over the previous year, represents the sale of 191 units, including houses, townhouses, lots and resales.

It does not include figures for multi-family land sales.

In view of the excellent 1969 performance, Logan is forecasting a "brisk year" for 1970. He said that estimates are for approximately $11.5 million in sales or about 200 units.

SINCE its opening in 1962, Huntington Harbour has been recognized as an outstanding example of a totally masterplanned, self-contained community.

Designed for families who want a water-oriented life style, the Harbour provides a variety of residential types, schools, a shopping center and extensive recreational facilities.

Lusk Model Homes, Cerritos, Available at Big Savings

Special value savings are available to home buyers at Lusk Homes-Cerritos with close-out sale of two four-bedroom model homes, E. G. "Bud" Warrington, director of sales and marketing for the Whittier-based home-building firm, announced this week.

Warrington said many hundreds of dollars worth of optional features, which have been built into the model homes, will be included with no increase in price to the purchaser.

Both homes feature air conditioning, premium quality carpeting and pad throughout all bedrooms and large family rooms, choice of draw draperies, wall paper, two car garages with large storage and area for appliances, front and rear landscaping, sprinklers and shrubs, patios, tiled entryways, family rooms with fireplace, nonstaining marble Pullmans with ceramic tile shower stalls, cast iron tubs, dining areas and breakfast nooks, pantries, fencing, block walls in rear, grape stakes on side and cedar shingle roofs.

OTHER features are ceramic tile counter tops with serving-through eating bars, ranges, dish washers and garbage disposals, custom ash paneled kitchen cabinets, "crystal" bathroom fittings, gas log lighters, custom light fixtures inside and out, polished plate glass mirrors, pin-tumbler locks, ball bearing garage door hardware, easy sliding wardrobe doors, custom-designed front doors and custom front door hardware, side access garage doors, 220 volt outlet for dryers and four inches of No. 3 rock under slabs.

THE La Vida single-story model has been priced at $36,450, Warrington said, while the La Vista two-story model with curved staircase, built-in book case and wine rack, chopping block in kitchen, extra large linen closet and three full baths, is priced at $39,250.

Lusk Homes-Cerritos has excellent access to the Santa Ana, Riverside and 605 Freeways, with convenient shopping and availability to schools and churches. It is located on Artesia Boulevard, at Vickie, between Carmentia and Bloomfield in Cerritos.

The homes, built with family living in mind, are particular values, especially considering the extra quality built into all Lusk homes.

APPOINTED

Katherine Heatherly, of Lakewood, has been appointed assistant manager of Security Pacific National Bank's head office banking room, Los Angeles. Mrs. Heatherly joined the office as a clerk in 1950 and has had responsibilities for collections and loans since 1961.

Consumer Census Scheduled

Questions on consumer buying and home improvement expectations will be asked by representatives of the Bureau of the Census in this area this month, according to Leonard C. Isley, director of the bureau's regional office in Los Angeles.

The questions are asked four times yearly as part of a nationwide effort to collect information as a guide to federal agencies and other groups in developing programs based on consumer spending patterns.

A sample of residents in this area will be asked if they expect to buy a house, car, or major appliance during the next year and if they have made recent purchases of these items.

HOMEOWNERS will be asked about home improvements and repairs during the last three months and any planned for the future.

In the most recent survey in the series, taken in October, families in the U.S. indicated a gain in expected expenditures for furniture and appliances and reported no important change in car buying expectations.

House buying expectations remained at a low level.

All answers are kept confidential by law, and information obtained will be published only as statistical totals.

ABC Adult School Sets Stock Class

For the fourth year, the ABC Adult School will offer a course at Artesia in investments, taught by Floyd O. Mason, vice president and associate manager of the Long Beach office of Bateman, Eichler, Hill, Richards, members of the New York Stock Exchange.

Mason is a veteran of 36 years in the investment business, past director of the Long Beach Bond Club, and past chairman of the Long Beach Forum. The course will be held Wednesday evenings for 11 weeks, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m., starting Feb. 11 at the Artesia High School campus, located at the corner of Del Amo and Norwalk Blvds., in Room 503. Registration will be held in Room 503 the first evening, Feb. 11.

L.B. REALTORS' CHIEF SAYS:

'Signposts of the Future' Evident

Projections for the future, those made by individuals, groups, foundations and government, have one revelation in common, our state is on the threshold of giant expansion, according to Jack Krueger, president of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors.

"Sheer pressure of growth, where real estate is concerned, will make almost any investment undertaken with normal care wise in retrospect.

"The Los Angeles area, for instance, expanding into Ventura County and the San Bernardino-Riverside area, is forecast at twenty million by 2000 A.D.

"The San Francisco Bay Area is seen reaching ten million by the same date. Other areas will be proportional," Krueger added.

The impact of growth here, the nation and the world is analyzed in one forecast study, "America's Next 30 Years — Business and the Future," Krueger said. It was prepared by the Council on Trends and Perspective, Economic Analysis and Study Group, U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

"IT POINTS to California as the leader in the growth states, translating its population leadership into political and economic leadership.

"Already one out of every six jobs is in California, Texas and Florida, one of every five dollars' income generated there.

"California will have a proportionate share of a trillion-dollar economy by 1975, a $3.9 trillion gross national product by 2000. At the same time, the Chamber's forecast sees the output of goods and services rising almost four times as fast as population," said Krueger.

"This will mean more disposable income by the average family and wide discretion in how to use it. Undoubtedly new patterns of spending will emerge, just as people are now spending for travel, leisure activities, education and goods in a way not available thirty years ago. Crossing the Atlantic was four days by boat, now it is four hours by jet at half the cost."

NEW PATTERNS of living arising from higher family income and a work week shortened to thirty-one hours will have a marked effect on the kind of housing people seek, the president said. Emphasis on recreation and less upkeep time will keep the market for apartment and condominium type living strong. Shrinking available land for an expanding population will have the same effect.

"At the same time, the single-family home will continue its appeal, and with more income available, will be within the reach of an increasing segment of our population," Krueger concluded.

Specialty Restaurants Reveals Plan for Miami, Fla., Operation

Long Beach based Specialty Restaurants Corporation, 2977 Redondo Avenue, this week announced plans for its first restaurant operation in the southeastern section of the United States.

Selected as a development site by the firm is a key waterfront location on Biscayne Bay in Miami.

The three-acre site is situated in a marina area overlooking the Miami skyline in close proximity to the "winter White House" occupied by President Nixon.

The project which involves construction of a 12,000-square-foot, 350-person restaurant will be situated on land owned by the City of Miami and approval was given this week by the City Commission for a 20-year lease with two five-year options.

David Tallichet, Specialty's president, announced plans for an early construction start in order to serve the Florida winter tourist market.

Dec. 1, 1970 has been selected as completion date.

SPECIALTY presently operates sixteen restaurants throughout California, Illinois, and Wisconsin.

First development by the firm was the Reef Restaurant located in Long Beach Harbor.

The firm now operates as a public held corporation and recently was approved for trading on the American and Pacific Coast Stock Exchanges.

SPECIALTY also has reported increased sales and earnings for their second quarter ended December 31, 1969, compared with year-ago figures.

New records in sales and earnings were set in the current fiscal half year.

Specialty presently operates sixteen view-oriented restaurants in California, Illinois and Wisconsin, and has announced construction plans for several new facilities to be developed in the coming year.

Fore! Quality

Virginia Vista homes present the last available parcel of land adjoining the Virginia Country Club Golf Course.

All homes have been designed with 3 spacious bedrooms and 3 baths. Each unit has a panorama view across four fairways.

Included in the 2,650 square feet of livable area are features such as: Built-in all electric kitchen, air conditioning, interior atriums, entrance courts, complete landscaping, open beam ceilings, tiled entries and hallways, oversized garage with extra large storage area, wet bar and shake roof.

In this planned development, home owners will receive fee title to the home square footage plus 1/16 interest in all of the common area and facilities in the 6½ acre tract area which includes private streets, large heated pool, gazebo and putting green. Total prices range from $84,500 to $89,500.

Crossing the Atlantic was four days by boat, now it is four hours by jet at half the cost."

NEW PATTERNS of living arising from higher family income and a work week shortened to thirty-one hours will have a marked effect on the kind of housing people seek, the president said. Emphasis on recreation and less upkeep time will keep the market for apartment and condominium type living strong. Shrinking available land for an expanding population will have the same effect.

"At the same time, the single-family home will continue its appeal, and with more income available, will be within the reach of an increasing segment of our population," Krueger concluded.

Consumer Census Scheduled

Questions on consumer buying and home improvement expectations will be asked by representatives of the Bureau of the Census in this area this month, according to Leonard C. Isley, director of the bureau's regional office in Los Angeles.

The questions are asked four times yearly as part of a nationwide effort to collect information as a guide to federal agencies and other groups in developing programs based on consumer spending patterns.

A sample of residents in this area will be asked if they expect to buy a house, car, or major appliance during the next year and if they have made recent purchases of these items.

HOMEOWNERS will be asked about home improvements and repairs during the last three months and any planned for the future.

In the most recent survey in the series, taken in October, families in the U.S. indicated a gain in expected expenditures for furniture and appliances and reported no important change in car buying expectations.

House buying expectations remained at a low level.

All answers are kept confidential by law, and information obtained will be published only as statistical totals.

ABC Adult School Sets Stock Class

For the fourth year, the ABC Adult School will offer a course at Artesia in investments, taught by Floyd O. Mason, vice president and associate manager of the Long Beach office of Bateman, Eichler, Hill, Richards, members of the New York Stock Exchange.

Mason is a veteran of 36 years in the investment business, past director of the Long Beach Bond Club, and past chairman of the Long Beach Forum. The course will be held Wednesday evenings for 11 weeks, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m., starting Feb. 11 at the Artesia High School campus, located at the corner of Del Amo and Norwalk Blvds., in Room 508. Registration will be held in Room 508 the first evening, Feb. 11.

Specialty Restaurants Reveals Plan for Miami, Fla., Operation

Long Beach based Specialty Restaurants Corporation, 2377 Redondo Avenue, this week announced plans for its first restaurant operation in the southeastern section of the United States.

Selected as a development site by the firm is a key waterfront location on Biscayne Bay in Miami.

The three-acre site is situated in a marina area overlooking the Miami skyline in close proximity to the "winter White House," occupied by President Nixon.

The project which involves construction of a 12,000-square-foot, 350-person restaurant will be situated on land owned by the City of Miami and approval was given this week by the City Commission for a 20-year lease with two five-year options.

David Talljehet, Specialty's president, announced plans for an early construction start in order to serve the Florida winter tourist market.

Dec. 1, 1970 has been selected as completion date.

SPECIALTY presently operates sixteen restaurants throughout California, Illinois, and Wisconsin.

First development by the firm was the Reef Restaurant located in Long Beach Harbor.

The firm now operates as a public held corporation and recently was approved for trading on the American and Pacific Coast Stock Exchanges.

SPECIALTY also has reported increased sales and earnings for their second quarter ended December 31, 1969, compared with year-ago figures.

New records in sales and earnings were set in the current fiscal half year.

Specialty presently operates sixteen view-oriented restaurants in California, Illinois and Wisconsin, and has announced construction plans for several new facilities to be developed in the coming year.

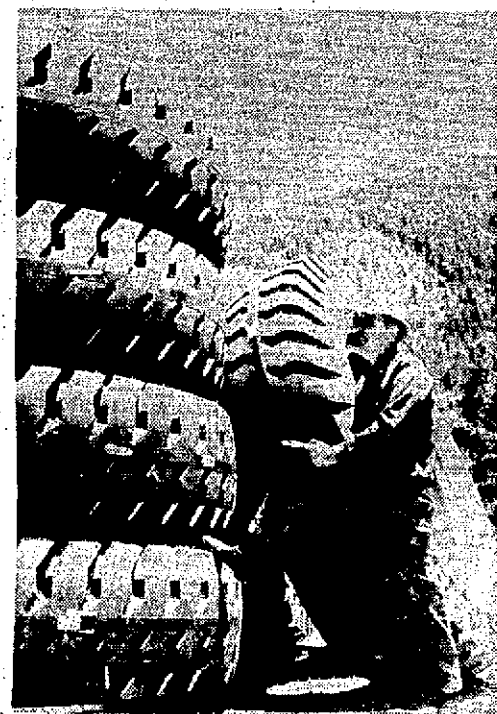

L.B. Board Members to Hear Talk

John J. Lyman, director and vice president-corporate relations, Security Title Insurance Company, is guest speaker for Tuesday's meeting of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors.

Program chairman Ray Hazlet said Lyman's talks before the board "always are well attended."

The meeting is 7:15 a.m. at the Lakewood Country Club.

Big Step in Wilmington Center Redevelopment

A significant step in the redevelopment of Wilmington was taken this week as the $1.25 million Wilmington Center officially opened.

It is the first modern shopping center to be constructed in the city in over 10 years.

The event marked the opening of the center's main tenant, Lucky Stores, Inc., which has built a 34,000-square-foot discount center.

Located on the northeast corner of Avalon Boulevard and "L" street, the other tenants in the four-acre neighborhood shopping facility include Mr. Fish & Chips, Inc.; Laundreland, dry cleaning and laundry service; and Dr. Charles Pages, optometrist.

Coldwell, Banker & Company was the leasing agent.

In addition, United California Bank has under construction a full service banking office totalling 7,300 square feet on property it acquired as part of the center.

The new bank will open in April.

THE modern development is the culmination of two years of negotiations and planning, according to Hancock Banning, III, president of Beeco, Ltd., developers.

"The result is that this is the first shopping center in the Los Angeles Harbor area constructed around operating oil wells, "Banning said.

The four well sites on the property, owned by Humble Oil Co., received extensive pipeline relocation. Oil production and storage facilities located on the property were transferred to adjacent land with the cooperation of Humble.

One of the first customers at Lucky's was Mrs. Gloria Solarez, honorary mayor of Wilmington. James Vivonia is manager of the new store.

CENTER'S MAIN TENANT ... Is New Lucky Stores, Inc. Outlet

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

A new model — The Gran Coupe — has been added to the Plymouth Fury lineup, Glenn E. White, Chrysler-Plymouth division general manager, has announced.

The Fury Gran Coupe features an imposing list of optional equipment items as standard equipment at a special price. The new car is a two-door sports coupe with concealed headlamps previously found only in the high-line Sport Fury model in the Plymouth lineup.

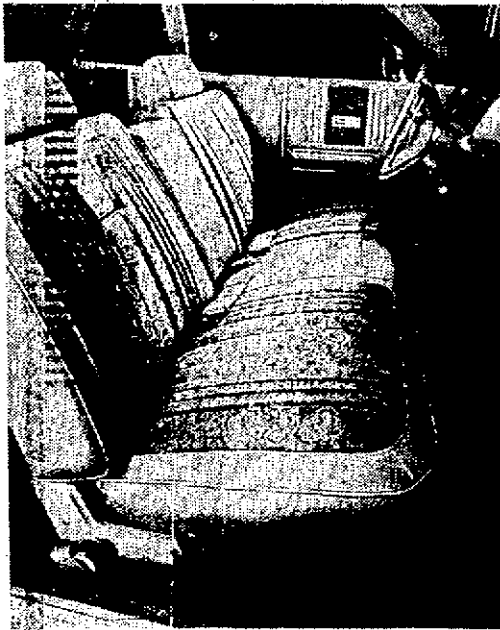

A special walnut color and patterned vinyl roof and matching interior are offered. The new model also is available with any standard Fury vinyl roof and exterior color with harmonizing interior colors.

"Many highly desirable options have been made standard equipment at a special price on the Fury Gran Coupe," White said.

"It offers both style and value at a considerable saving to the buyer over the cost of a comparably equipped car on which the optional items were ordered individually."

INCLUDED AS STANDARD FEATURES are the 383-cubic-inch two-barrel V-8 engine, TorqueFlite automatic transmission, air conditioning, tinted glass, vinyl roof, power steering, power brakes, solid state AM radio, vinyl split-back bench seat with folding armrest, 670 x 15 white-wall tires, light package with headlight time delay and warning buzzer, outside left, remote rearview mirror, three speed wipers, full wheel covers, three-spoke steering wheel with horn ring, concealed headlamps, body side molding with color-keyed vinyl rub strip, instrument panel wood-grain applique, and ventless door glass.

The Fury Gran Coupe is available without air conditioning and tinted glass.

Pedersen Tire Opens Store in Redondo Beach

An ultramodern tire and auto service center has been opened by Pedersen Tire Co. in Redondo Beach.

The huge new facility has 10 drive-through service bays to provide the customer with fast as well as expert service.

"Our new center will carry a complete line of Goodyear tires and products but with the expanded service area and warehousing we are able to specialize in high performance tires and accessories," according to Curt Pedersen.

"The personnel in the new center, headed by Marshall Lane, is familiar with the rapidly growing high performance market and we feel we can be of great service to this particular customer," he added.

THE NEW store is located at 2889 Artesia Boulevard, across from the South Bay Shopping Center.

A complete line of General Electric televisions, stereos and radios can be seen in the large air conditioned store portion of the new center.

In addition to the new Redondo Beach facility, Pedersen Tire Company has been in North Long Beach for over 22 years with a service center and recapping plant handling all sizes of truck tires as well as passenger tires.

Mission Viejo is many things to many people: Young marrieds, executives, engineers, artisans, tradesmen, retirees, professionals, salesmen, entrepreneurs. 10,000 people live here today, and our growth has just begun. Our residents shop in tree-shaded village plazas that include banking facilities, restaurants, markets, and charming specialty stores. We educate our children in our own schools, from day nursery straight through junior college. We attend our own churches, play our own 18-hole golf course, relax at our own parks and recreation clubs. We have our own post office, our own fire station, our own medical center. And there is more, much more, to come. For Mission Viejo is a self-contained, masterfully planned community — already America's most successful new town — and destined to become more beautiful as the years go by. Each of our families chose Mission Viejo for what it is to all of them, and each chose a home that is perfect for them alone. Today, you will see 5 distinguished neighborhoods ... 33 model homes ... 80 different exteriors ... at prices from $21,995 to $63,000. Each home is blended by design with the early California heritage of this coveted land. Come and visit us. Discover the homes — and the community — that will be your new beginning.

Find yourself in Mission Viejo

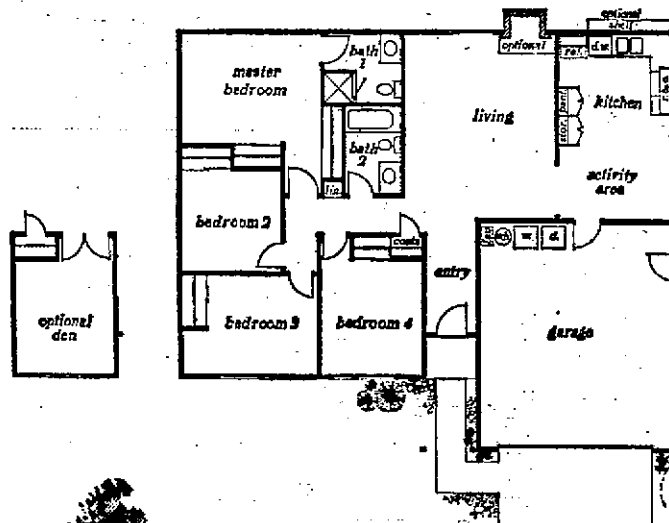

CORONADO HOMES are the newest and most moderately priced in Mission Viejo. All of them are available on FHA or VA financing. At $21,995, our 2-bedroom plan is a rare find in an excitingly-designed compact for people who don't need sleeping capacity, but want more house than the minimum. The Balboa starts with double entry doors to an impressive foyer. The large living area has a vaulted ceiling and glass walls to both the rear and side patio areas — which can be served from the kitchen via a sliding pass-thru window. Other Coronado Homes have 3 and 4 bedrooms; The Cortez, at $24,995, has an exceptionally spacious kitchen-nook-family room combination, and is perfect for informal entertaining. The Portola, largest of the Coronado series, is the lowest priced 1 story, 4 bedroom home in Orange County. It costs just $25,500. All the Coronado Homes have double ovens, dishwasher and disposer, wood shingle roofs, large walls of glass and vaulted living room ceilings. Without doubt, Coronado homes offer the very best value to be found in Southern California today. They are closest of all our neighborhoods to Saddleback College, and to the site which will ultimately be a major regional shopping center. To see them, take the Rancho Viejo Road turnoff (soon to be Avery Parkway) from the San Diego Freeway. An income of $800 per month will qualify for a beautiful Coronado Home.

The Balboa: 2 bedrooms, 1½ baths — $21,995 — Includes the land.

The Cortez: 3 bedrooms, 2 baths — $24,995 — Includes the land.

The Portola: 4 bedrooms, 2 baths — $25,500 — Includes the land.

ELDORADO HOMES range from $23,400 to $29,395, with FHA and VA terms. More than 1,000 homes in this series have been sold. There are 6 models from 2 to 5 bedrooms, all with dramatic fireplaces and rich exterior detailing. The home shown is the Alondra, an example of what just $24,650 can buy in Mission Viejo. A spectacular garden view through the formal living-dining room sets a mood of excitement from the foyer; still, the area is completely free of traffic, and its fireplace keeps it cozy. More boisterous activities take over a roomy, "L" shaped kitchen/family room, open to the side yard through a wide wall of glass, while all the sleeping rooms are quietly separate on the other side of the house. The master suite has double doors and a deep walk-in closet. Each of the Eldorado homes represents an achievement in planning. All are single-story designs with the exception of the Coronado, which features a convertible second floor plan that makes it ideal for growing families. Standard features in Eldorado homes include a covered entryway, wood shingle roof, double ovens, dishwasher, disposer, fireplace, and many quality appointments. Square footage ranges from 1100 to over 2000 sq. ft. In the $20,000-$30,000 price range, no other community in Orange County can match these values, and an income of $800 per month will qualify for one of these outstanding homes. From the San Diego Freeway, take La Paz Road, first of the 3 turnoffs to Mission Viejo.

The Alondra: 3 bedrooms, 2 baths — $24,650 — Includes the land.

The Alondra: 3 bedrooms, 2 baths — $24,650 — Includes the land.

The San Miguel: 4 bedrooms, 3 baths — $34,995 — Includes the land.

LA PAZ HOMES are closest of all to the heart of present-day Mission Viejo. They have earned national acclaim and numerous awards for outstanding design, and deservedly so. There are 10 basic floor plans with 3 to 6 bedrooms, and up to 2800 square feet. The plans include formal dining rooms as well as extra large family rooms and spacious bedrooms in single-story, two-story, and split level designs. The San Miguel is typical of the luxury of La Paz Homes. Its 16-foot high entryway leads through double doors to a story-and-a-half entry foyer. The beamed living room ceiling extends into the formal dining room. There is also a separate breakfast nook. The focal point for family gatherings is the huge family room with its massive, full-wall fireplace. The stairway to the bedroom area is 4 feet wide. The master suite has a spacious dressing area and a walk-out balcony, but rivaling it for sheer size is an 18-foot "dormitory" room that can sleep a small army! The downstairs bedroom and bath, off the family room, serves ideally as a guest room, maid's room or den. Within walking distance, or a very short drive, are La Paz Plaza shopping center, La Paz Pre-School, Linda Vista Elementary School, La Paz Intermediate School, Mission Viejo High School, several neighborhood parks, a Lutheran church, and the sites for a new County library and a 500-seat theater planned for the near future. You can see it all when you take the La Paz Road turnoff and turn left. These homes are priced from $28,500 to $41,290.

The San Pablo: 3 bedrooms, 2 baths — $29,995 — Includes the land.

The San Carlos: 4 bedrooms, 2 baths — $31,995 — Includes the land.

GRANADA HOMES were designed to take advantage of their view sites overlooking the fairways of the Mission Viejo Golf Club. Eloquently styled in the California tradition, they offer 3 to 6 bedrooms and up to 3 baths. They are an exceptional value at prices from $27,990 to $44,365. Here, you will find the elegance of curving stairways, view balconies, enclosed courtyards, and deep covered entryways; the spaciousness of oversized family rooms, formal dining rooms, huge unfinished bonus areas, and 3-car garages. The plan shown is the Santiago, a 4-bedroom single-story home designed to provide zoned privacy areas for children and parents, as well as well-separated formal and informal entertaining areas... an ideal plan for families with small children or teenagers. The master suite, living room, dining room, and family room all face the view; the kitchen opens to a wide side-patio area that graciously extends the home's capability for large-group entertaining. The Santiago is priced at $32,500. Other Granada homes have upstairs bonus areas which you may convert to additional bedrooms, studio, rumpus room, or storage space, to suit your own family's needs. To see Granada Homes, take the Crown Valley Parkway turnoff and turn left. You'll pass "Old MacDonald's Farm," the world-famous attraction formerly of Knott's Berry Farm; you may want to let the children enjoy it while you tour the model homes.

The Castle: 3 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths — $34,990 — Includes the land.

The Barcelona: 4 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths — $38,500 — Includes the land.

The Santiago: 4 bedrooms, 2 baths — $32,500 — Includes the land.

MISSION RIDGE is the very top of Mission Viejo, where a limited group of 3 to 5 bedroom estate homes are oriented to spectacular views across the golf course. Each home is individually fitted to its site; each is individually priced according to its unique exterior and location. Some have tile roofs; others, heavy shake. At prices from $55,700 to $64,100, nothing has been left out. These homes were not designed for production economy, but for absolute livability. Plan 26, shown, is an example: The tiled entry gallery; the airy, garden-view dining room; 2 separate side patios; 3 fireplaces; 3 1/2 baths; 3-car garage; a separate, private balcony off the sitting-room foyer to the 28-foot master bedroom; a separate library or maid's room and bath — convenient to the entry, the 7-foot-long pantry, and the spacious kitchen, with a corner wrap-around serving bar. There are 3,334 square feet in this home. On its view site, no match can be found for its value. It is typical of Mission Ridge. It would be wise, however, to choose your home today, for when the Oso Parkway opens, bringing your guests to Mission Ridge directly through the golf course, values will most certainly rise. For now, take the La Paz turnoff, and follow the golf course signs.

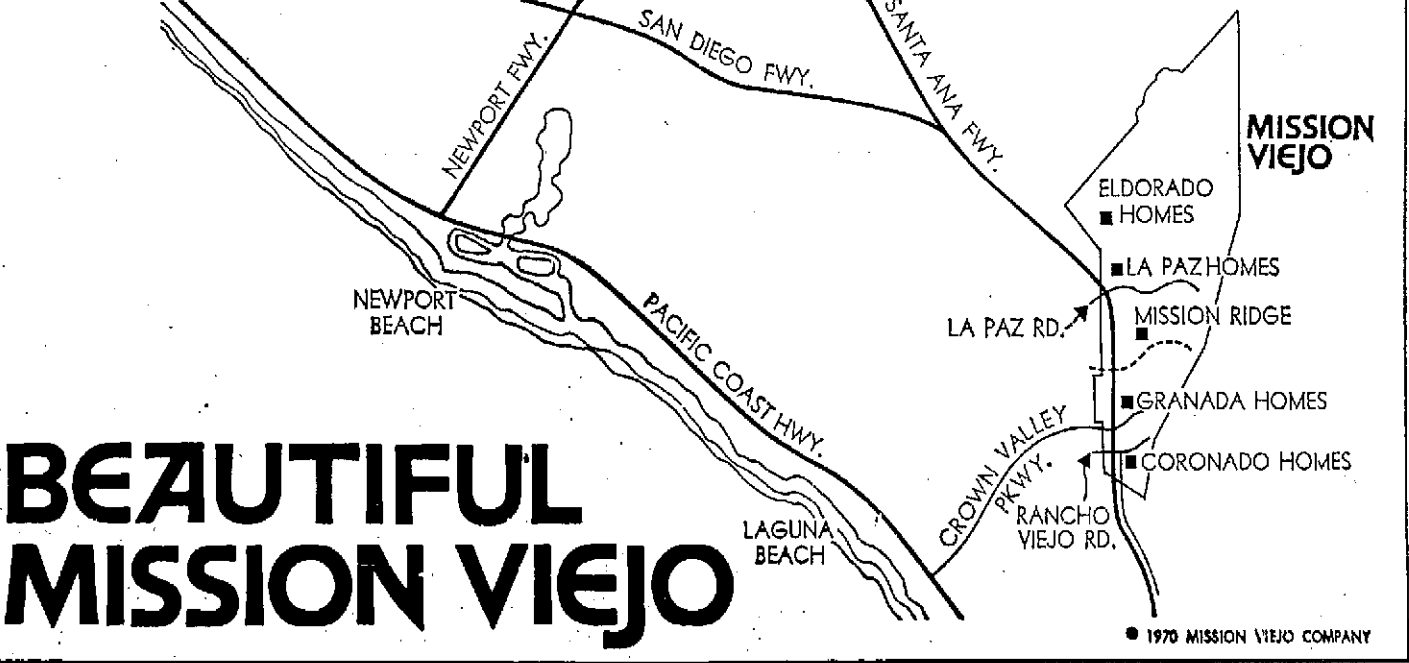

Mission Ridge Plan 14: 4 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths — $55,700 to $64,100 — Includes the land.

Mission Ridge Plan 26: 5 bedrooms, 3 1/2 baths — $57,950 to $64,100 — Includes the land.

THREE MODELS TO SEE

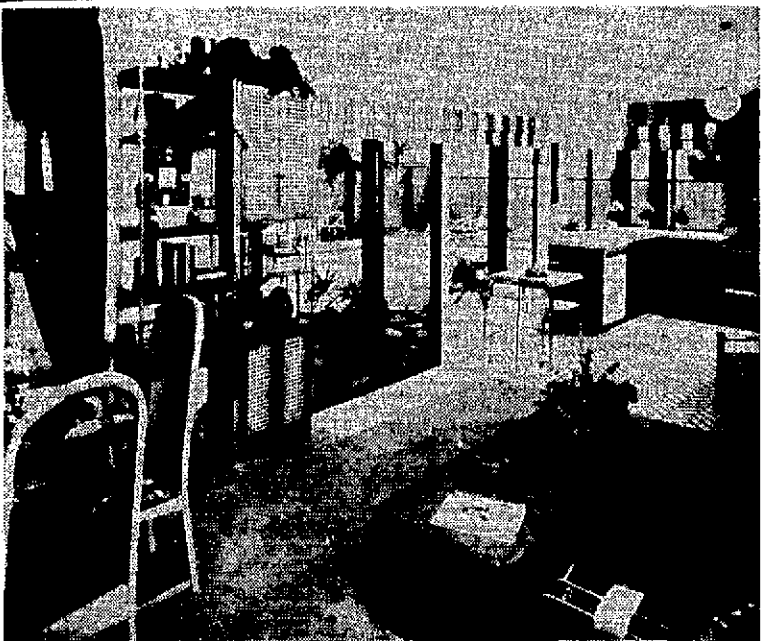

Landmark Offers Immediate Move-In

You may move into a brand new Landmark Home in La Palma just as soon as you wish, reports sales aide Dick Sheakley. Shattuck & McHone, well known Southland builders, are the developers of the spacious home-site. The final unit is now open for viewing and visitors have three models to choose from with 10 different arrangements designed by R. J. Marvick & Associates in a completely walled homesite of two-story, four and five-bedroom homes. Included in the purchase price is 100 per cent nylon carpeting, front yard landscaping with sprinklers, rear yard fencing, built-in television antenna, underground utilities, insulation and exciting patio kitchens with deluxe equipped range, oven, disposal, hood, fan and dishwasher. All homes have three baths and two or three-car garages, spacious family rooms and living rooms with dramatic fireplaces. The models are located on Walker Street between La Palma Avenue and Orangethorpe Avenue in the city of La Palma.

Boatbuilding

OSLO (UPI) — Norwegian boatbuilders now export pleasure craft to buyers in 52 countries. From 1962 to the end of 1968, exports increased from $3.6 to $15.1 million dollars a year. Between 1967 and 1968 the export increase was 27 per cent.

Design House at The Scene Offers Unique Room Orientation Choice

"A completely unique choice of room orientation" is offered by the three-bedroom Design House model at The Scene, the new neighborhood just opened by M. J. Brock & Sons, Inc., in Lake Forest, the new town with water and woods in southeastern Orange County. Explaining the choice, Lester Goodman, vice president of marketing for Brock, said: "Thousands of women looking at model homes have said: 'I really like this plan, but I wish the children's bedrooms were at the rear' or 'This house would be just perfect if I could only turn it around so the family room and kitchen faced the rear.' Now, these women can make such adjustments on most of our plans, thanks to our unique Select-A-Site Plan."

"OUR DESIGN House model is a perfect example of this," Goodman said. "If a family bonus this home on a rectangular lot, the garage and entry are in front of the house. The formal living room is on the side with windows looking toward the front, side, and back. The family room and kitchen both face the backyard. And, the children's bedrooms are on the far side of the home. "Under our Select-A-Site Plan, this same model is also available on a square lot with the garage alongside, the house. The plan is rotated 90 degrees so the living room is now out in front of the house. The family room and kitchen face a sheltered breezeway between the house and the garage and a side yard big enough to accommodate a swimming pool. The children's bedrooms are now at the rear. With either shape of lot, the master suite has a frontyard view.

"SO," CONCLUDED Goodman, "the couple that likes this basic plan is offered a real choice in how their home and their yard will serve their family." The Scene has five different models with two to four bedrooms, two and two-and-one-half baths, dining rooms, family rooms, and Brock's Holiday Kitchen. Prices range from $25,950 to $32,250 with FHA, VA, and conventional terms available. The Scene may be reached by taking the Santa Ana or San Diego Freeways to the El Toro Road offramp. LA PAZ HOMES are closest of all to the heart of present-day Mission Viejo. They have earned national acclaim and numerous awards for outstanding design, and deservedly so. There are 10 basic floor plans with 3 to 6 bedrooms, and up to 2800 square feet. The plans include formal dining rooms as well as extra large family rooms and spacious bedrooms in single-story, two-story, and split level designs. The San Miguel is typical of the luxury of La Paz Homes. Its 16-foot high entryway leads through double-doors to a two-story-and-a-half entry foyer. The beamed living room ceiling extends into the formal dining room. There is also a separate breakfast nook. The focal point for family gatherings is the huge family room with its massive, full-wall fireplace. The stairway to the bedroom area is 4 feet wide. The master suite has a spacious dressing area and a walk-out balcony, but rivaling it for sheer size is an 18-foot "dormitory" room that can sleep a small army! The downstairs bedroom and bath, off the family room, serves ideally as a guest room, maid's room or den. Within walking distance, or a very short drive, are La Paz Plaza shopping center, La Paz Pre-School, Linda Vista Elementary School, La Paz Intermediate School, Mission Viejo High School, several neighborhood parks, a Lutheran church, and the sites for a new County library and a 500-seat theater planned for the near future. You can see it all when you take the La Paz Road turnoff and turn left. These homes are priced from $28,500 to $41,290.

The San Pablo: 3 bedrooms, 2 baths — $29,995 — Includes the land

The San Carlos: 4 bedrooms, 2 baths — $31,995 — Includes the land

The San Miguel: 4 bedrooms, 3 baths — $34,995 — Includes the land

GRANADA HOMES were designed to take advantage of their view sites overlooking the fairways of the Mission Viejo Golf Club. Eloquently styled in the California tradition, they offer 3 to 6 bedrooms and up to 3 baths. They are an exceptional value at prices from $27,990 to $44,365. Here, you will find the elegance of curving stairways, view balconies, enclosed courtyards, and deep covered entryways; the spaciousness of oversized family rooms, formal dining rooms, huge unfinished bonus areas, and 3-car garages. The plan shown is the Santiago, a 4-bedroom single-story home designed to provide zoned privacy areas for children and parents, as well as well-separated formal and informal entertaining areas...an ideal plan for families with small children or teenagers. The master suite, living room, dining room, and family room all face the view; the kitchen opens to a wide side-patio area that graciously extends the home's capability for large-group entertaining. The Santiago is priced at $32,500. Other Granada homes have upstairs bonus areas which you may convert to additional bedrooms, studio, rumpus room, or storage space, to suit your own family's needs. To see Granada Homes, take the Crown Valley Parkway turnoff and turn left. You'll pass "Old MacDonald's Farm," the world-famous attraction formerly of Knott's Berry Farm; you may want to let the children enjoy it while you tour the model homes.

The Castles: 3 bedrooms, 2½ baths — $34,990 — Includes the land

The Barcelona: 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths — $38,500 — Includes the land

The Santiago: 4 bedrooms, 2 baths — $32,500 — Includes the land

MISSION RIDGE is the very top of Mission Viejo, where a limited group of 3 to 5 bedroom estate homes are oriented to spectacular views across the golf course. Each home is individually fitted to its site; each is individually priced according to its unique exterior and location. Some have tile roofs; others, heavy shake. At prices from $55,700 to $64,100, nothing has been left out. These homes were not designed for production economy, but for absolute livability. Plan 26, shown, is an example: The tiled entry gallery; the airy, garden-view dining room; 2 separate side patios; 3 fireplaces; 3½ baths; 3-car garage; a separate, private balcony off the sitting-room foyer to the 28-foot master bedroom; a separate library or maid's room and bath — convenient to the entry, the 7-foot-long pantry, and the spacious kitchen, with a corner wrap-around serving bar. There are 3,334 square feet in this home. On its view site, no match can be found for its value. It is typical of Mission Ridge. It would be wise, however, to choose your home today, for when the Oso Parkway opens, bringing your guests to Mission Ridge directly through the golf course, values will most certainly rise. For now, take the La Paz turnoff, and follow the golf course signs.

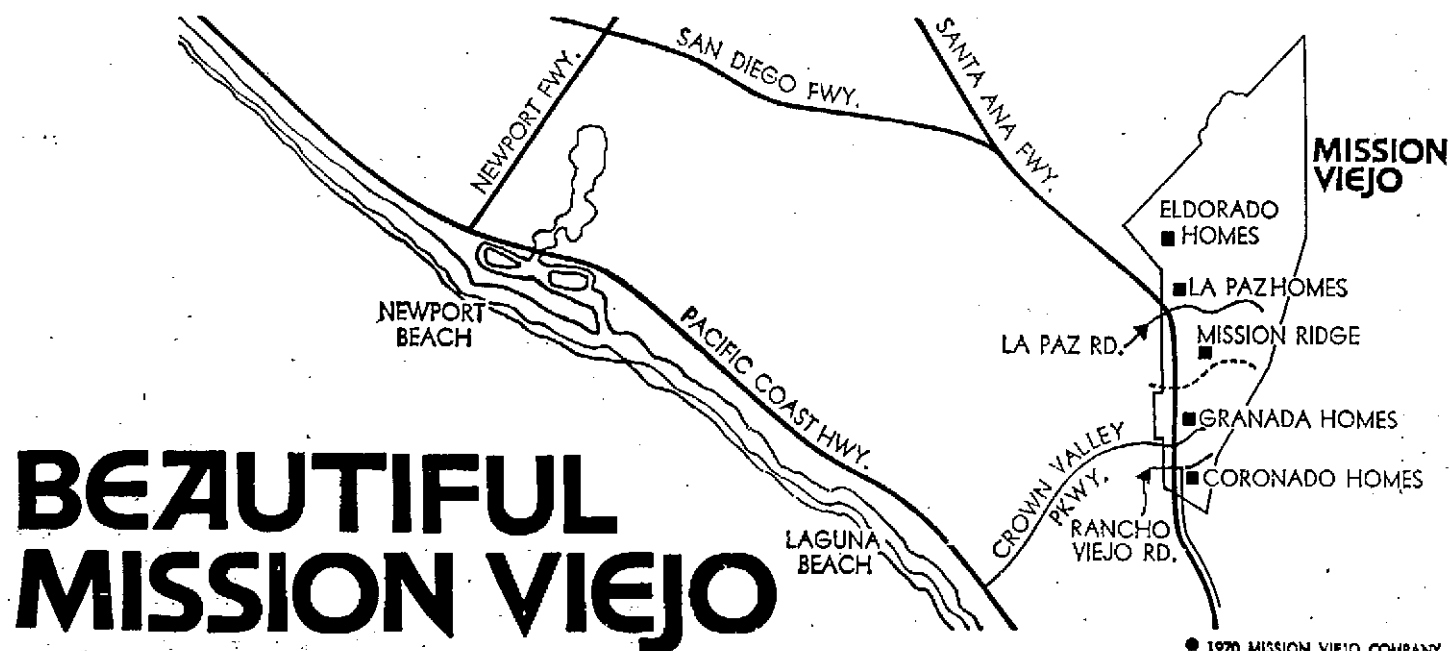

Mission Ridge Plan 14: 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths — $55,700 to $56,700 — Includes the land

Recreational Land Becomes Business of Major U.S. Firms

The two-home family is no longer an isolated phenomenon. More time and money for recreation, an increasing number of people are choosing this alternative to extended travel. In 1950-1968, the average number of second homes per thousand population rose from 5.25 to 7.50.

The latest Property Research Corp. Market Letter looks behind the trend, at some basic changes taking place in the recreational land market.

Historically composed of under-capitalized operations, often haphazardly planned, today recreational land is the business of major corporations. They develop properties on a scale that was almost unknown 10 years ago.

This analysis includes results of studies commissioned by PRC in its continuing investigation of new investment opportunities.

The special research was performed by two leading consulting firms, Economics Research Associates and Development Research Associates.

The focus is on California, which in many ways is the prototype for a nationwide trend; recreational land activity characterized by growing demand, greater diversity of opportunities for investors, increasing sophistication of both developers and buyers, and professionalism in creating land packages.

CALIFORNIA households with incomes over $10,000 will more than double from 1965 to 1970, from 3.1 million to 6.7 million.

By 1980 there will be 12 million of these families. In addition to having the time and money for second homes, they increasingly want an escape from the congestion and pressures of their cities and suburbs.

The trend toward apartment living emphasizes the desire for a second home, which provides the land, recreation, and privacy that apartment-dwellers forego for other advantages, Property Research says.

These are the prime reasons people buy second homes.

They buy second-home lots for somewhat different reasons. Although 60 per cent of the lot buyers in surveyed developments planned to use their land immediately, 40 per cent bought for speculation and retirement use.

HOW MUCH recreational land are people buying? One index is the number of lots sold without homes on them.

From 1960 to 1968 a survey many undeveloped lots as many undeveloped lots were purchased as houses. However, the survey omitted many smaller developments, so the ratio is probably closer to four-to-one.

That means about 148,000 to 185,000 second-home lots purchased in 1960-1968, an average of 20,000 to 23,000 sales every year. Future growth should be rapid, based on the increasing population and higher family incomes.

Lot sales are expected to reach 28,400-32,400 annually by 1975-1980.

EXCEPT for such traditional resort areas as Lakewood, Lake Tahoe, Palm Springs, in the early 1960's recreational sites were frequently sold in the

Young to Plan Program for 1970 PCBC Confab

David Young of Laguna Beach, executive consultant with Deane Brothers homebuilders of Newport Beach, has been named to the key post of program chairman for the 12th annual Pacific Coast Builders' Conference, PCBC President Robert M. Holmes announced.

The event will be held June 3, 4 and 5 at San Francisco's Fairmont Hotel.

Young, 55, has long been involved with PCBC, and played a personal role in guiding the event to its current stature while serving as its president in 1968.

He is the immediate past president of the Building Industry Association of California, the nation's largest regional contractors' association.

YOUNG takes his industry leadership to the national and state levels as well. He is a member of the board of directors of the 50,000-member National Association of Home Builders, and an active delegate to the California Builders Council, legislative arm of 13 builder associations in the state.

He is also a past president of the BIA's Orange County Chapter, and a former vice president of the Building Contractors Association of California, a group which once named Young its "Builder of the Year."

In naming Young the architect of the 1970 PCBC program, President Holmes said:

"There is no one more familiar with the problems and trends facing the cisco and Los Angeles, or in the established resort areas.

Today developments are more dispersed. Reasons include the vastly improved highway system, the proliferation of small airports near rural recreation centers, and, of major importance, the highly effective merchandising methods used by recent developers.

In 1950 the three dominant recreation areas were the Central Sierra counties, the Southeast counties, and the San Francisco Bay counties. By 1968 Central Sierra was still among the leading regions, because of continued development at Lake Tahoe.

In the Southeast activity has shifted from Riverside and San Bernardino counties to Lake Havasu, which accounts for almost two-fifths of the lot sales.

But the third area, around San Francisco, has had few major new developments. Meanwhile, remote areas are getting much larger shares of the recreational market. For example, the mountainous northern counties bordering the Sacramento Valley had 9 per cent of the second-home inventory in California.

With today's highways and airports, second homes in that region are practical for residents of Central and Southern California.

They are attracted north because many of Southern California's most desirable areas have already been developed, leaving mostly desert and national forest land.

By contrast, land in Northern California is abundant.

Varying topography and weather create a broad range of recreational possibilities. Boating on rivers and lakes is available in warm valleys and high mountains.

The coastline north of San Francisco is spectacular, and winter sports are excellent through much of the region, PRC concludes.

THIS IS the trend throughout Northern California.

NEAR GOLF COURSE Virginia Vista Models Open

Sixteen spacious homes are rising on the last available parcel of land adjoining the Virginia Country Club golf course. The partnership of Stanley Fedderly and Paul Albert, longtime Compton businessmen, announced this week construction of the 16 homes near completion on the 6½-acre plot to be known as Virginia Vista.

Each home, with 2,600

square feet of liveable area, has a view across four fairways. All have identical floor plans, three bedrooms and three baths. All are air conditioned and have interior atriums.

FOR PRIVACY, none of the homes has side windows.

Fedderly said half of the homes have been sold before completion. Prices range from $84,500 to $89,500. He said Virginia Vista will offer fee title to the home square footage. All other areas are private and commonly owned. To reach the two models open today, take Long Beach Boulevard to San Antonio, proceed west on San Antonio to Del Mar, north on Del Mar to the entrance at 4200 Del Mar.

Recreational Land Becomes Business of Major U.S. Firms

The two-home family is no longer an isolated phenomenon. More time and money for recreation, an increasing number of people are choosing this alternative to extended travel. In 1950-1963 the average number of second homes per thousand population rose from 5.25 to 7.50.

The latest Property Research Corp. Market Letter looks behind the trend, at some basic changes taking place in the recreational land market.

Historically composed of under-capitalized operations, often haphazardly planned, today recreational land is the business of major corporations. They develop properties on a scale that was almost unknown 10 years ago.

This analysis includes results of studies commissioned by PRC in its continuing investigation of new investment opportunities.

The special research was performed by two leading consulting firms, Economics Research Associates and Development Research Associates.

The focus is on California, which in many ways is the prototype for a nationwide trend; recreational land activity characterized by growing demand, greater diversity of opportunities for investors, increasing sophistication of both developers and buyers, and professionalism in creating land packages.

CALIFORNIA households with incomes over $10,000 will more than double from 1965 to 1970, from 3.1 million to 6.7 million.

By 1980 there will be 12 million of these families. In addition to having the time and money for second homes, they increasingly want an escape from the congestion and pressures of their cities and suburbs.

The trend toward apartment living emphasizes the desire for a second home, which provides the land, recreation, and privacy that apartment-dwellers forego for other advantages, Property Research says.

These are the prime reasons people buy second homes.

They buy second-home lots for somewhat different reasons. Although 60 per cent of the lot buyers in surveyed developments planned to use their land immediately, 40 per cent bought for speculation and retirement use.

HOW MUCH recreational land are people buying? One index is the number of lots sold without homes on them.

From 1960 to 1968 a survey many undeveloped lots as many undeveloped lots were purchased as houses. However, the survey omitted many smaller developments, so the ratio is probably closer to four-to-one.

That means about 148,000 to 185,000 second-home lots purchased in 1960-1968, an average of 20,000 to 23,000 sales every year. Future growth should be rapid, based on the increasing population and higher family incomes.

Lot sales are expected to reach 28,400-32,400 annually by 1975-1980.

EXCEPT for such traditional resort areas as Lakewood, Lake Tahoe, Palm Springs, in the early 1960's recreational sites were frequently sold in the form of "paper" lots — land with no improvements and only an unpaved road for access.

Today recreation is a major industry involving large corporations. Developments normally provide utilities and often a variety of amenities including man-made lakes, vacation centers, swimming pools, and golf courses, PRC says.

These extras result from the economies of large-scale operation. Sizeable well-financed developments can afford the sound management and extensive improvements that enhance sales and increase per-unit profit.

In early 1968 only five to seven developments were selling 500 or more lots a year. But from 1967 to 1969 there were 20 developments of that size, according to a recent sampling. Increasingly, this is where the competition lies — and the profits.

BOISE-CASCADE is foremost among the major corporations becoming active in recreational land, with developments at Lake Arrowhead, Spring Valley Lake, Lake Los Angeles, Klamath River, and several other places. Also in the field are Kaiser-Aetna (Rancho California), Penn Central (through its subsidiary, Maccos), General American, Weyerhaeuser, Union Pacific Railroad, Castle & Cooke, Fibreboard Corporation, McCullough Oil, Tenneco, Transamerica Corporation, and many other large companies.

In the early years of recreational land developments, most projects were near the two major metropolitan areas, San Francisco and Los Angeles, or in the established resort areas.

Today developments are more dispersed. Reasons include the vastly improved highway system, the proliferation of small airports near rural recreation centers, and, of major importance, the highly effective merchandising methods used by recent developers.

IN 1950 the three dominant recreation areas were the Central Sierra counties, the Southeast counties, and the San Francisco Bay counties. By 1968 Central Sierra was still among the leading regions, because of continued development at Lake Tahoe.

In the Southeast activity has shifted from Riverside and San Bernardino counties to Lake Havasu, which accounts for almost two-fifths of the lot sales.

But the third area, around San Francisco, has had few major new developments. Meanwhile, remote areas are getting much larger shares of the recreational market. For example, the mountainous northern counties bordering the Sacramento Valley had 9 per cent of the second-home inventory in 1969, but between 1960 and 1968 they accounted for almost 17 per cent of the state's recreational lot sales (see chart for sales activity by county).

THIS IS the trend throughout Northern California.

With today's highways and airports, second homes in that region are practical for residents of Central and Southern California.

They are attracted north because many of Southern California's most desirable areas have already been developed, leaving mostly desert and national forest land.

By contrast, land in Northern California is abundant.

Varying topography and weather create a broad range of recreational possibilities. Boating on rivers and lakes is available in warm valleys and high mountains.

Young to Plan Program for 1970 PCBC Confab

David Young of Laguna Beach, executive consultant with Deane Brothers homebuilders of Newport Beach, has been named to the key post of program chairman for the 12th annual Pacific Coast Builders' Conference, PCBC President Robert M. Holmes announced.

The event will be held June 3, 4 and 5 at San Francisco's Fairmont Hotel.

Young, 55, has long been involved with PCBC, and played a personal role in guiding the event to its current stature while serving as its president in 1966.

He is the immediate past president of the Building Industry Association of California, the nation's largest regional contractors association.

YOUNG takes his industry leadership to the national and state levels as well. He is a member of the board of directors of the 50,000-member National Association of Home Builders, and an active delegate to the California Builders Council, legislative arm of 13 builder associations in the state.

He is also a past president of the BIA's Orange County Chapter, and a former vice president of the Building Contractors Association of California, a group which once named Young its "Builder of the Year."

In naming Young the architect of the 1970 PCBC program, President Holmes said:

"There is no one more familiar with the problems and trends facing the

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Royal Executive Inns of America will open its newest and largest motor hotel with 250 guest units here this summer, company officials have announced. President Glen Gardner said the new facility, now under construction near the Stardust Hotel on Convention Center Drive, would open about July 1. Royal Inns currently operates resorts throughout Utah and California and in Omaha.

EL PASO (UPI) — A suit demanding $1 billion in damages caused by air pollution to residents of El Paso and Juarez, Mexico, was filed in a Texas court against American Smelting & Refining Co. Five citizens filed the class action, suit, claiming air pollution from Asarco's El Paso plant endangers the health of 750,000 nearby residents.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The head of the Association of Supplemental Airlines, Edward J. Driscoll, accused the major airlines of deception in the recent international rate structure proclaimed by the International Air Transport Association. Driscoll said in an address to the International Aviation Club that in presenting 31 different types of fares over the Atlantic, the IATA was showing itself to be oblivious to "the most significant event of the 1970s — the consumer movement."

COLLEGE POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — Edo Corp. said it has obtained $3 million contract from General Dynamics Corp. to supply electronic equipment for Navy submarines.

CLEVELAND (UPI) — White Motors Corp. has obtained an order for 165 large diesel powered highway tractors from Hall's Motor Transport of Harrisburg, Pa.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Freeport Sulphur Co. says it has obtained commitments from American insurance companies and banks for the final $58 million of the $120 million financing required to develop the Ertzberg copper de-

Virginia Vista Models Open

Sixteen spacious homes are rising on the last available parcel of land adjoining the Virginia Country Club golf course. The partnership of Stanley Fedderly and Paul Albert, longtime Compton businessmen, announced this week construction of the 16 homes near completion on the 6½-acre plot to be known as Virginia Vista.

Each home, with 2,600

square feet of liveable area, has a view across four fairways.

All have identical floor plans, three bedrooms and three baths. All are air conditioned and have interior atriums.

FOR PRIVACY, none of the homes has side windows.

Fedderly said half of the homes have been sold before completion. Prices range from $84,500 to $89,500.

He said Virginia Vista will offer fee title to the home square footage. All other areas are private and commonly owned.

To reach the two models open today, take Long Beach Boulevard to San Antonio, proceed west on San Antonio to Del Mar, north on Del Mar to the entrance at 4200 Del Mar.

CAR STOPPERS

More than 650-million of these metal safety studs went into new winter tires sold this year, according to Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company. About 100 of the studs are used in this Polyglas Pathfinder tire, designed by Goodyear as the first winter tire for front-wheel mounting on automobiles.

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Westinghouse Electric Corp. has obtained a $12 million order for a turbine-generator for a new power plant being built by South Carolina Electric & Gas Co. on the Cooper River 15 miles from Charleston. The turbine will be built at Lester, Pa., and the generator at Pittsburgh.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — International Utilities Corp. has bought Turner & Gee, Inc., an institutional food wholesaler at Jacksonville, Fla., for cash.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The huge Chase Manhattan Bank's holding corporation had earnings of $2.93 a share in 1969 compared with $3.12 a share in 1968 because of losses on securities transactions. Earnings totaled $93.359 million as against $99.6 million a year earlier. The 1968 per share earnings were restated to reflect a 50 per cent stock dividend paid in May 1968. If the 1969 earnings had been reported strictly on banking operations, as in the past, they would have amounted to $122.5 million compared with $119.48 million the previous year. In addition to losses on securities transactions, the new basis requires a provision for loan losses in operating expenses.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Brun International Recotape Corp. of Maspeth, Long Island, a subsidiary of Sam Goody, Inc., has been appointed a distributor of RCA phonograph records by reason of the purchase of the record and tape division of Bruno-New York, Inc., for cash and Sam Goody common stock.

Mrs. Helen Delich Bentley, former maritime editor of the Baltimore Sun and recently appointed by President Nixon as chairman of the Federal Maritime Commission, will be the guest of honor at a dinner sponsored by the Pacific Maritime Association.

Mrs. Bentley will speak during the Accident Prevention Awards dinner to be held at the Ports O' Call Restaurant on Feb. 27.

Shipping companies and individual dockworkers will receive safety awards from C. J. Bourke, coast director, Accident Prevention Department, of the PMA.

THE FRESH OFF THE PRESS 1968-69 Annual Report of the Port of Los Angeles takes an over-the-shoulder look at the sixties and crystal-gazing look into the seventies.

Copies are available from the Public Relations Section of the harbor department, Pacific Trade Center Building, 255 W. Fifth St., San Pedro.

IN-PORT-ANT PEOPLE: S. T. Lashbrook, vice president of Overseas Shipping Co., was selected by Port of Los Angeles officials at a luncheon at the Ports O' Call Restaurant. He was honored upon his retirement after 45 years in the shipping industry.

Port officials also honored recently E. L. Barges, president of Transpacific Transportation Co. at a dinner in Los Angeles marking his retirement after spending a half century in the industry.

THE FIRST SHIPLOAD of Toyota cars and trucks to be off loaded in the Port of Long Beach arrived on Thursday.

The arrival marked the first time the imported car company made use of its new facilities on Pier J.

Approximately 1,300 units were unloaded from the drive-on, drive-off type vessel.

Vons Grocery Promotes Several Key Executives

T. A. Von der Ahe, president of Vons Grocery Company, announced the promotion of several executives and management men to new positions within the company.

Appointed to the position of vice president were Kenneth O. Olsen, Lawrence A. Del Santo and Kenneth L. Doyle.

Olsen also assumed the position of general manager for the company following the retirement of W. A. Christensen. His former position was that of director of store operations.

Del Santo will continue as director of sales and merchandising and Doyle will serve as director of personnel and industrial relations.

VOI DER AHE also announced that W. J. Birney has been named secretary of the company, and Pual Vinson, controller.

Olsen began his career with Vons in 1945, starting in the meat division. He moved up through the ranks to department manager, supervisor, and assistant division manager.

In 1959 he became manager for the meat division. In 1965 he assumed the responsibilities of sales and merchandising manager for the company, and two years later was appointed manager of store operations.

Del Santo began his career with Vons in 1957. His initial position was that of layout artist and research media in the advertising department.

He was promoted to assistant advertising manager in 1958 and assumed the reins of advertising manager in 1961.

The Broadway Appoints Three New Managers

The Broadway's president, Philip M. Hawley, has announced the appointment of three new store managers for the retailing firm's Los Angeles units and the transfer of three store managers to new posts.

Effective Monday, the following executives will assume new positions:

Stanley Hewitt, store manager of Century City, is appointed store manager at Downey, replacing Edwin Barnes, new Los Angeles regional manager.

Howard Schlesinger, store manager of Wilshire, is appointed store manager at Century City.

Philip Philippides, formerly a general manager with Rhodes and The Bon Marche, is appointed store manager of Wilshire.

Jack Mills, store manager of Westchester, is appointed store manager of Ventura. Mills replaces Charles Pipkin, appointed regional manager, San Diego.

Kenneth Wortley, operations manager of Christown, is appointed store manager of Westchester.

Charles Zahka, acting store manager of Los Angeles, is appointed store manager of that store.

Torrance Oil Producers Form New Association

Independent oil producers in the Torrance area have organized Petroleum Producers Association, a non-profit California corporation with headquarters at 2225 Sepulveda Blvd., Torrance.

D. B. Grable was elected president and director; George J. Peckham Jr., vice president and director; H. M. Fish, secretary and director; J. B. Graner, treasurer and director; W. Melvin Killingsworth, Norm P. Miller and E. Robert Burns, directors.

The purpose of the organization is to aid and work with city authorities on mechanical and political problems that arise when housing projects move into areas that have been producing oil without restrictions for many years.

The organization will have legal council available to advise and protect the rights of the oil producers when problems develop.

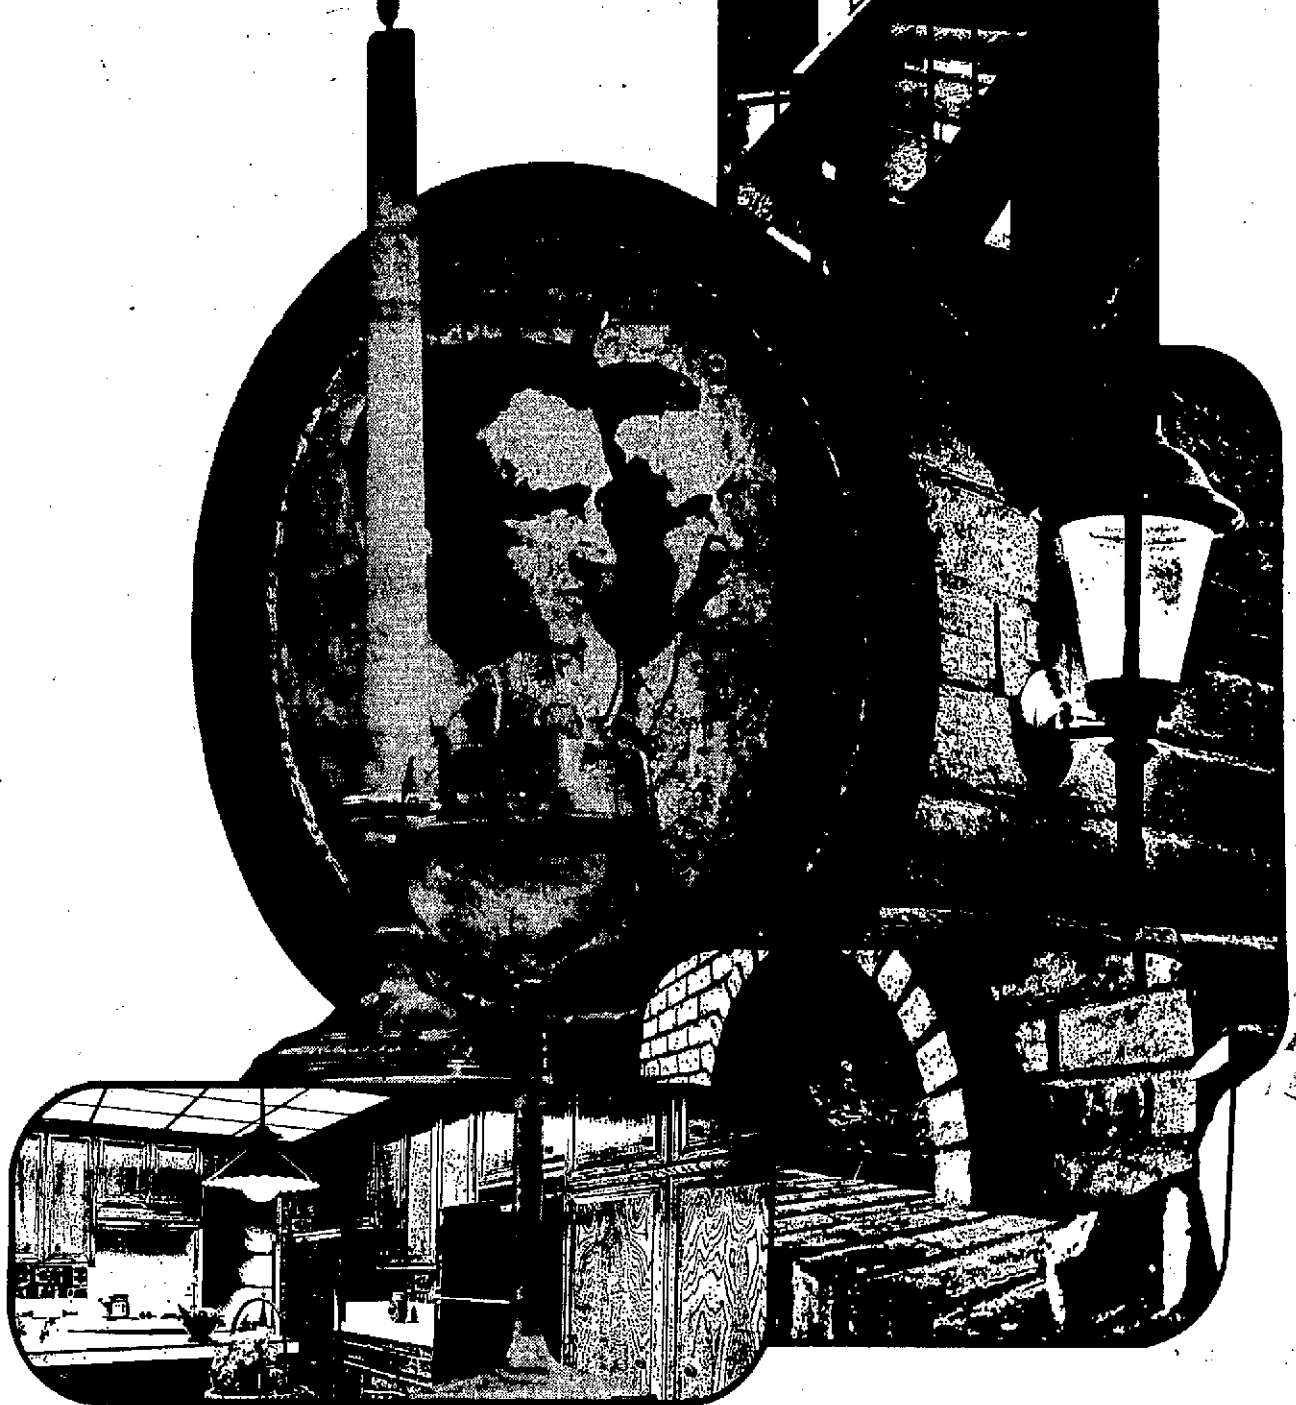

Meetings will be held on the first Monday of each month at 7 p.m.

Country-Diamond Bar Exhibits Bicentennial Home

The California Bicentennial Home, commemorating the 200th anniversary of the settlement of California and one of the most remarkable exhibit houses ever built in the United States, is open to the public this weekend at The Country in Diamond Bar.

The Country in Diamond Bar is a multi-million dollar exclusive recreation-residential community being developed by Transamerica Development Company in the foothills of the eastern San Gabriel Valley.

Entrance to the community is at Diamond Bar Boulevard and Shadow Canyon Road, south of the Pomona Freeway.

Designed by Raul Garduno, the home will be open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to dusk. There is no admission charge and visitors may obtain passes to tour the home at The Country in Diamond Bar's information center.

The house will be open to the public for about six months and is expected to attract half-a-million visitors.

CONSTRUCTED on a four-acre hilltop view site, the California Bicentennial Home brilliantly reflects two centuries of progress and refinements in elegant Spanish-California architecture, according to Ralph Wenger, president of Transamerica Development Company.

For this reason, the California Bicentennial Celebration Commission authorized the designation of the house as "California Bicentennial Home."

The period 1969-70 has been proclaimed California's 200th anniversary — "Two centuries of faith, freedom and fulfillment" since the Spanish settlement.

"In addition to commemorating the settlement of California, this home is a tribute to the California designers, architects and home builders who have made many significant contributions to the national 'good way of life,'" said Wenger.

CALIFORNIA'S eminence in such fields as aviation, aerospace and motion pictures is well known and traditional.

"California's pioneering leadership in setting new styles for the nation in living, environment and home beauty and convenience are not so well known."

"We thought the California Bicentennial Home would be an excellent and appropriate opportunity to dramatize these contributions," Wenger added.

The home has seven levels of interior elevation with three distinct and connecting "pueblo pavilions" for living area that draw their stately inspiration from the adobe pueblo hacienda of the old Southwest frontier.

This was the period when grandes and cattle barons ruled vast ranches — including those in the San Gabriel Valley — from large, rambling homes that served interchangeably as family headquarters, social center, and "main office" for widespread ranching and cattle-and-horse operations.

Wenger emphasized that family groups are welcome to tour the house without charge.

Driving instructions from Los Angeles, take the Pomona Freeway east to its end at Fullerton Road. Turn right and drive south one mile to Fifth Avenue, turn left and proceed to Grand Avenue. Turn right and go to Diamond Bar Boulevard. Turn right to the entrance at Shadow Canyon Road. From Orange County, drive north on Harbor Boulevard to Brea Canyon Road. Continue northeast on Brea Canyon to Diamond Bar Boulevard and turn right to the entrance.

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Electric utilities are keeping coal in the black.

According to Joy Manufacturing Company, producer of coal mining machinery, utilities will burn approximately 407 million tons of coal in 1972 to generate the amount of electricity required to meet U.S. needs alone. In 1964 the power companies consumed 229 million tons of coal and an estimated 315 million tons was used in 1969 to meet electricity demands.

MARKETS ON B-4 & B-5

Twelve candidates will be on the ballot in the April 7 special municipal election to fill the City Council vacancy in the Sixth District.

City Clerk Margaret L. Moore said Friday that four would-be candidates failed to qualify because they did not get the required 50 valid signatures on their nomination petitions.

Mrs. Moore said she will certify to the City Council the following 12 candidates Tuesday:

William F. Alexander, 1818 Pasadena Ave.
John B. Emmons, 2348 Atlantic Ave.

Edith S. (Pinkie) Gaylord, 1836 Atlantic Ave.

Vance A. Hardy, 2465-A Atlantic Ave.

Charles E. Haynes, 1339 Lemon Ave.

Ben Lett, 1164 Salt Lake St., Apt. 1.

John E. McClung, 1076 E. 17th.

James P. McGuinness Sr., 2052 Cedar Ave.

Harry Ratliff, 2213 Myrtle Ave.

P. B. Simmons, 1726 Gundry Ave.

Richard Tate, 1885 Corinne Ave.

James Wilson, 1867 Myrtle Ave.

Also on Tuesday, the council is expected to give first reading to the ordinance formally calling the special election on April 7. Adoption of the ordinance would come the following Tuesday.

Although councilmen informally agreed on Jan. 19 to hold the election April 7, they must take the formal action of adopting the ordinance.

The four whose petitions failed to have the required 50 valid signatures were Stephen D. Kokinas, 325 W. 17th St.; Robert H. Cash, 2289½ Lewis Ave.; Arne R. Tite, 2191 Chestnut Ave., and A. L. Gault, 1867 Atlantic Ave.

The city charter requires that the nomination petitions carry the signatures of not less than 50 registered voters within the district. No one can sign more than one nomination petition.

Arena Suffers $129,193 Loss: Bookings Cited

Revenues from Long Beach Arena dropped $129,193 in fiscal 1968-69.

Long Beach Auditorium showed an $8,804 increase in revenue, while Veterans Memorial Stadium decreased by $9,137, the annual audit said Friday.

The 35 per cent drop in arena revenues, to $234,701 last fiscal year, was caused primarily by the loss of ice-hockey events and one 10-day trade show, according to City Auditor Murray T. Courson.

AUDITORIUM revenues for the year ending last June 30 totaled $120,570, while Veterans Stadium produced $91,978 during the same period. Courson said activity at the auditorium was up slightly, while the stadium was slightly less active.

Parking-lot revenue, also showing the result of the fall-off in activity, amounted to $112,054, a decrease of $26,123 from the prior fiscal year, while food-concession revenue was $42,848, a drop of $30,484.

For Pacific Terrace Center, which includes the auditorium-arena complex, total revenues for the year were $467,326, which was $112,673 under the budgeted figure.

Expenditures totaled

$552,302, of $61,350 under the budget, to give a total of $84,975 excess of expenditures over revenue.

Stadium revenues were $91,978, or $3,521 under the budget, while expenditures totaled $47,906, or $4,321 under the budget. This gave $43,982 excess of revenues over expenditures.

Courson warned that the figures for both Pacific Terrace Center and stadium cannot be considered true operating gain or loss, however, because they do not include some costs incurred and budgeted by other city departments.

Treadmill Tests 'Safe' for Aged

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Writer

The widely publicized treadmill stress test, which can frequently detect unsuspected heart disease, can safely be administered to older persons, a heart specialist said Friday.

Dr. Edgar R. Palarea, chairman of the research committee of the Long Beach Heart Association, made the disclosure at the kickoff luncheon for the 1970 Heart Fund drive.

In a report on activities of Long Beach heart researchers, Dr. Palarea, speaking at Long Beach Elks Club, said persons as old as 87 have safely undergone the treadmill evaluation in a doctor's office.

IT IS NOT even necessary to perform the test in a hospital, Dr. Palarea related.

He cited a study of 240 persons aged 60 to 87 who took the test, disclosing that half of the group was able to complete the stressful examination.

"None of the 240 persons had complications as a result," he reported. "Emergency equipment was available but never had to be used."

Dr. Palarea said some of the best pioneering work in treadmill testing has been done in Long Beach, evoking interest even from national magazines of mass circulation.

OTHER Long Beach studies have shown that the electrocardiograph, an instrument customarily used to detect heart abnormalities, can also give clues to presence of certain lung disease, he said.

He also cited Long Beach research involving devices that analyze heart sounds, resuscitative "crash" carts for heart victims in hospitals, diagnostic carts for shock victims (those suffering from circulatory collapse), X ray movies of heart action and coronary artery function, and rehabilitation of the stroke patient.

Woman Rescues Flipped Guard

By DICK EMERY

Brawny, 200-pound Lifeguard Joe Reinisch, 27, of San Pedro, candidate for Olympic kayak racing competition and veteran of many a surf-rescue thriller, was rescued from drowning Friday.

"And that's not the worst of it," he said ruefully. "I had to get rescued by a woman!"

The near-drowning happened while Reinisch was paddling a 15-foot fiberglass kayak in the outer harbor a half-mile off Cabrillo Beach. The boat overturned, and Reinisch, upside down under water, was unable to right the boat quickly, or to free himself from fastenings of a splash apron in the kayak's cockpit.

ABOARD THE NEARBY YACHT Black Magic, Gail Clove, 20, saw the kayak flip over. When Reinisch failed to appear, Mrs. Clove dove into the harbor fully clothed and swam to his rescue.

James Clove, owner of the yacht, heard his wife's shout, came to the deck and threw lines to the pair in the water.

"I've been training for the Olympic kayak events," Reinisch said later after drying out. "I was using an Olympic paddle instead of a white-water paddle, and the seating set-up was for Olympic flat-water racing, not for white water."

"So I couldn't do the Eskimo roll. I had to come out of the boat, upside down there in the water where I was trapped, and it took a while! She rescued me."

Among witnesses of the rescue were four of Reinisch's fellow lifeguards of the Cabrillo Beach station, John Lorentzen, Bill Hinkle, George Whitehead and Buddy Reynolds.

CNP Backs McClung for Council

A veteran Long Beach postal worker Friday night won endorsement from the Community for New Politics in his bid for the 6th District council seat vacated by the resignation of Emmet Sullivan.

John McClung, who has worked 12 years for the Long Beach Post Office, won endorsement by the CNP after "an exhaustive examination of the 12 candidates, including some in person discussions," according to Saul Stolzberg, chairman of the group.

About 140 citizens turned out for Friday's endorsement session. The CNP said it would involve itself in the campaign on behalf of McClung, and invited other citizens to join CNP in its project.

"This man has given years of dedicated service to his district," Stolzberg said. "He has been community-oriented as well as black-oriented. He is committed to a resolution of the problems of the entire district, not just the problems of the black people of that district."

Stolzberg predicted other black organizations would shortly announce their support of McClung, and said the candidate would "say the things that have to be said about this campaign."

An electric calculator and two other office machines valued at $1,300, were taken from Barney's Hole Digging Service, 3252 Cherry Ave., by burglars who broke a front window to gain entry, Long Beach police said Friday.

A young squad leader from El Segundo is with his company on an ambush mission when the men encounter a large enemy force moving toward their support base.

The men race through fires left by recent air strikes to a new location providing better cover.

Then S. Sgt. David Goetz notices a badly burned comrade stranded in the firing zone.

Goetz moves out into the holocaust to aid the man. Then he faces the firing a second time to retrieve a number of lost weapons and a radio.

THOUGH WOUNDED he returns to his men, reorganizes the platoon and leads them to a defensive perimeter. In so doing he helps to thwart the attack on the support base.

Goetz was awarded the Silver Star Medal during a ceremony attended by about 50 persons at Ft. MacArthur Friday.

He was one of nine receiving various awards and commendations.

Col. Norvel Barnhart, comptroller at the Army base, received the Legion of Merit for outstanding services and initiating weaponry improvements while stationed at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas.

Retired Lt. Col. James Fiser also was given the Legion of Merit for his services in his two years as Post Chaplain at Ft. MacArthur.

FOR MERITORIOUS service in Vietnam, Bronze Star Medals were awarded to Lt. Col. Oswald Glaze and Spec. 4 Geoffrey Witcher, while Spec. Alejandro Avafos received the Army Commendation Medal.

Also honored on their retirements were CW2 Chauncey Simpson; Lt. Col. Elsie Hard, a WAC-reservist; and 1st Sgt. Leon Hollie, also a reservist.

As part of the ceremony Frank Duquette, president of the Los Angeles Chapter of the Association of the U.S. Army presented a check of more than $500 to the Army Emergency Relief Fund.

Ft. MacArthur Commander Col. Salvo Rizza made the awards.

TESTS MAY FIND VICTIMS

Emphysema Linked to Blood Defect

A Long Beach medical researcher reported Friday on a test that may identify certain persons with a hereditary susceptibility to emphysema, a crippling lung disease.

Dr. Jack Lieberman, described the test at a meeting of the Western Society for Clinical Research in Carmel. The group's annual meeting is regarded as one of the outstanding scientific meetings in the nation.

DR. LIEBERMAN, a Long Beach resident who is associate director of the respiratory diseases department of City of Hope Medical Center in Duarte, said development of an effective screening test would be highly valuable to medical science.

Emphysema deaths in the U.S. have increased by more than 200 per cent in the last 10 years.

He said that preliminary studies suggest that a synthetic hormonal substance called diethylstilbestrol may help identify persons who are genetically susceptible to emphysema.

IN EARLIER research, some of it done at Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital, Dr. Lieberman showed that persons born with a certain deficiency of a blood protein are especially vulnerable to disorders such as emphysema if their lungs are challenged by smoking, air pollution or other irritants. The blood protein is called alpha-1-antitrypsin (AAT).

When the AAT defect is inherited from both parents, AAT levels in the blood are far below normal. However, as many as one of every 20 persons is estimated to have inherited the AAT defect from only one parent. Here, it is sometimes difficult to identify such persons when infection stimulates their AAT level to normal ranges.

When the hormone diethylstilbestrol is administered to AAT-deficient persons, there is little or no effect on AAT levels, Dr. Lieberman related. In normal persons, however, the procedure raises AAT levels sharply.

Consequently, the hormonal test may serve to augment other procedures as a screening test for AAT-deficiency inherited from one parent.

DR. LIEBERMAN said that development of an effective screening test could help to prevent emphysema by alerting high-risk persons to the dangers of smoking or other lung irritants.

Emphysema is marked by overinflation of certain air spaces in the lungs, resulting in shortness of breath because of difficulty in expelling air.

YOUNG L.B. MUSICIANS TO AUDITION

Young Long Beach musicians will get a chance to earn scholarships to Brigham Young University during auditions being held in the city today.

Eligible high school juniors, seniors and college transfers studying music education will perform for three prominent members of the university's Artists Bureau and music department.

Staging the auditions are baritone Robert Downs, trumpet soloist Newell Dayley and pianist Reid Nibley.

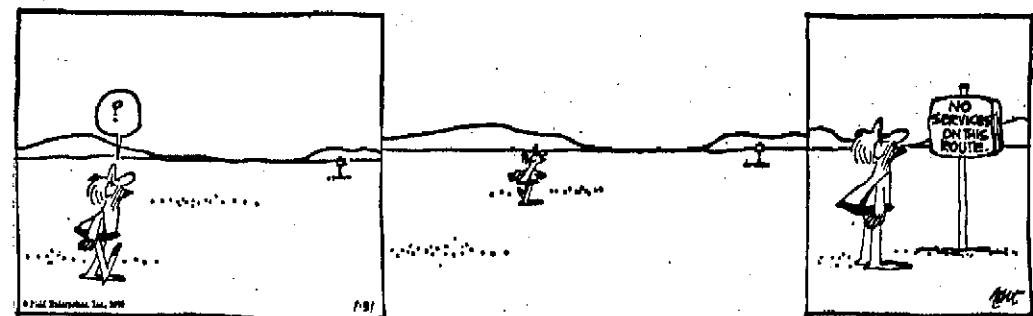

Auditions got under way at 1140 Ximeno Ave. at 10 a.m.

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: A year opens of rather smooth, consistent progress. Your skill of negotiation is tested and improves with practice. People not inclined in your esteem pose a challenge, bring much to support your ventures once you meet their problems.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): The pursuit of novelty, a fresh path in a strange place should appeal to you now. Put together any financial arrangements early in the day.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Let your partner do most of the deciding this Sunday morning. If possible, outdoor activity is most preferable.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Make sure you miss nothing of the news and details of your community's doings this Sunday morning. If possible, outdoor activity is most preferable.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Sitting at home would be the least helpful thing to do today. Express faith in yourself and your future by active participation in the affairs of the community.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 21): Keep your activities light and simple; concentrate mostly on social activities, entertainment, games, the evening pleasant and serene. Reflect on your blessings and progress achieved.

VIRGO (Aug. 22-Sept. 21): There ought to be several rather enjoyable reunions this Sunday, so make the rounds early.

LIBRA (Sept. 22-Oct. 21): Your ingenuity and initiative are tested today. There is something to discover in places and relationships you haven't given much attention lately.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22-Nov. 21): Changing situations tax your resources and patience as the day progresses. Take the time and trouble to clear up confused details for others so they waste no time or effort.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): This Sunday is not to bring out the more extravagant qualities in you, make the most of it) share your hobbies and favorite pastimes with others of like interests. The action of the day continues well into the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Check to be sure your friends know what you are planning, then put new schemes into motion. Get an early start if you must make an unaccustomed journey. The action of the day continues well into the evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Faraway places and people attract your attention and among them possibly some serious and very profitable business can begin. Close observation of other people brings much improvement and wisdom.

PISCUS (Feb. 19-March 20): Good news and invitations are socially enjoyable and hold potential for future business. Ambitious projects come to your attention. Keep moving; you have a great deal of territory to cover this Sunday.

$552,302, of $61,350 under the budget, to give a total of $84,975 excess of expenditures over revenue.

Stadium revenues were $91,978, or $3,521 under the budget, while expenditures totaled $47,996, or $4,321 under the budget. This gave $43,982 excess of revenues over expenditures.

Courson warned that the figures for both Pacific Terrace Center and stadium cannot be considered true operating gain or loss, however, because they do not include some costs incurred and budgeted by other city departments.

Treadmill Tests 'Safe' for Aged

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Writer

The widely publicized treadmill stress test, which can frequently detect unsuspected heart disease, can safely be administered to older persons, a heart specialist said Friday.

Dr. Edgar R. Palarea, chairman of the research committee of the Long Beach Heart Association, made the disclosure at the kickoff luncheon for the 1970 Heart Fund drive.

In a report on activities of Long Beach heart researchers, Dr. Palarea, speaking at Long Beach Elks Club, said persons as old as 87 have safely undergone the treadmill evaluation in a doctor's office.

IT IS NOT even necessary to perform the test in a hospital, Dr. Palarea related.

He cited a study of 240 persons aged 60 to 87 who took the test, disclosing that half of the group was able to complete the stressful examination.

"None of the 240 persons had complications as a result," he reported. "Emergency equipment was available but never had to be used."

Dr. Palarea said some of the best pioneering work in treadmill testing has been done in Long Beach, evoking interest even from national magazines of mass circulation.

OTHER Long Beach studies have shown that the electrocardiograph, an instrument customarily used to detect heart abnormalities, can also give clues to presence of certain lung disease, he said.

He also cited Long Beach research involving devices that analyze heart sounds, resuscitative "crash" carts for heart victims in hospitals, diagnostic carts for shock victims (those suffering from circulatory collapse), X ray movies of heart action and coronary artery function, and rehabilitation of the stroke patient.

Dr. Palarea said the Long Beach Heart Association allocated $130,000 to medical research last year — more money than provided by some states for heart research and more than any local heart association in Texas.

Woman Rescues Flipped Guard

By DICK EMERY

Brawny, 200-pound lifeguard Joe Reinisch, 27, of San Pedro, candidate for Olympic kayak racing competition and veteran of many a surf-rescue thriller, was rescued from drowning Friday.

"And that's not the worst of it," he said ruefully. "I had to get rescued by a woman!"

The near-drowning happened while Reinisch was paddling a 15-foot fiberglass kayak in the outer harbor a half-mile off Cabrillo Beach. The boat overturned, and Reinisch, upside down under water, was unable to right the boat quickly, or to free himself from fastenings of a splash apron in the kayak's cockpit.

ABOARD THE NEARBY YACHT Black Magic, Gail Clove, 20, saw the kayak flip over. When Reinisch failed to appear, Mrs. Clove dove into the harbor fully clothed and swam to his rescue.

James Clove, owner of the yacht, heard his wife's shout, came to the deck and threw lines to the pair in the water.

"I've been training for the Olympic kayak events," Reinisch said later after drying out. "I was using an Olympic paddle instead of a white-water paddle, and the seating set-up was for Olympic flat-water racing, not for white water."

"So I couldn't do the Eskimo roll. I had to come out of the boat, upside down there in the water where I was trapped, and it took a while! She rescued me."

Among witnesses of the rescue were four of Reinisch's fellow lifeguards of the Cabrillo Beach station, John Lorentzen, Bill Hinkle, George Whitehead and Buddy Reynolds.

The scene is Vietnam. The time, May 1968.

A young squad leader from El Segundo is with his company on an ambush mission when the men encounter a large enemy force moving toward their support base.

The men race through fires left by recent air strikes to a new location providing better cover.

Then S. Sgt. David Goetz notices a badly burned comrade stranded in the firing zone.

Goetz moves out into the holocaust to aid the man. Then he faces the firing a second time to retrieve a number of lost weapons and a radio.

THOUGH WOUNDED he returns to his men, reorganizes the platoon and leads them to a defensive perimeter. In so doing he helps to thwart the attack on the support base.

Goetz was awarded the Silver Star Medal during a ceremony attended by about 50 persons at Ft. MacArthur Friday. He was one of nine receiving various awards and commendations.

Col. Norvel Barnhart, comptroller at the Army base, received the Legion of Merit for outstanding services and initiating weaponry improvements while stationed at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas.

Retired Lt. Col. James Fiser also was given the Legion of Merit for his services in his two years as Post Chaplain at Ft. MacArthur.

FOR MERITORIOUS service in Vietnam, Bronze Star Medals were awarded to Lt. Col. Oswald Glaze and Spec. 4 Geoffrey Witcher, while Spec. Alejandro Avalos received the Army Commendation Medal.

Also honored on their retirements were CW2 Chauncey Simpson; Lt. Col. Elsie Hard, a WAC-reservist; and 1st Sgt. Leon Hollie, also a reservist.

As part of the ceremony Frank Duquette, president of the Los Angeles Chapter of the Association of the U.S. Army presented a check of more than $500 to the Army Emergency Relief Fund.

Ft. MacArthur Commander Col. Salvo Rizza made the awards.

TESTS MAY FIND VICTIMS

Emphysema Linked to Blood Defect

A Long Beach medical researcher reported Friday on a test that may identify certain persons with a hereditary susceptibility to emphysema, a crippling lung disease.

Dr. Jack Lieberman, described the test at a meeting of the Western Society for Clinical Research in Carmel. The group's annual meeting is regarded as one of the outstanding scientific meetings in the nation.

DR. LIEBERMAN, a Long Beach resident who is associate director of the respiratory diseases department of City of Hope Medical Center in Duarte, said development of an effective screening test would be highly valuable to medical science.

Emphysema, deaths in the U.S. have increased by more than 200 per cent in the last 10 years.

He said that preliminary studies suggest that a synthetic hormonal substance called diethylstilbestrol may help identify persons who are genetically susceptible to emphysema.

IN EARLIER research, some of it done at Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital, Dr. Lieberman showed that persons born with a certain deficiency of a blood protein are especially vulnerable to disorders such as emphysema if their lungs are challenged by smoking, air pollution or other irritants. The blood protein is called alpha-1-antitrypsin (AAT).

When the AAT defect is inherited from both parents, AAT levels in the blood are far below normal. However, as many as one of every 20 persons is estimated to have inherited the AAT defect from only one parent. Here, it is sometimes difficult to identify such persons when infection stimulates their AAT level to normal ranges.

When the hormone diethylstilbestrol is administered to AAT-deficient persons, there is little or no effect on AAT levels, Dr. Lieberman related. In normal persons, however, the procedure raises AAT levels sharply.

Consequently, the hormonal test may serve to augment other procedures as a screening test for AAT-deficiency inherited from one parent.

DR. LIEBERMAN said that development of an effective screening test could help to prevent emphysema by alerting high-risk persons to the dangers of smoking or other lung irritants.

Emphysema is marked by overinflation of certain air spaces in the lungs, resulting in shortness of breath because of difficulty in expelling air.

YOUNG L.B. MUSICIANS TO AUDITION

Young Long Beach musicians will get a chance to earn scholarships to Brigham Young University during auditions being held in the city today.

Eligible high school juniors, seniors and college transfers studying music education will perform for three prominent members of the university's Artists Bureau and music department.

Staging the auditions are baritone Robert Downs, trumpet soloist Newell Dayley and pianist Reid Nibley.

Auditions get under way at 1140 Ximeno Ave. at 10 a.m.

An electric calculator and two other office machines valued at $1,300, were taken from Barney's Hole Digging Service, 3252 Cherry Ave., by burglars who broke a front window to gain entry, Long Beach police said Friday.

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: A year opens of rather smooth, consistent progress. Your skill at prediction is tested and improves with practice. People not included in your program pose a challenge, bring much to support your ventures once you meet their problems.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): The pursuit of novelty, fresh bath in a strange place should appeal to you now. Pursue together any financial arrangements early in the day.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Let your partner do most of the deciding this Sunday. However, be a bit choosy; think, where it leads before you plunge into local strife.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Make sure you miss nothing of the news and details of your community's doings this Sunday morning, if possible, outdoor activity is most preferable.

CANCER (June 21-July 20): Sitting at home would be the least helpful thing to do today. Express faith in yourself and your future by active participation in the affairs of the community.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 20): Keep your activities light and simple, concentrate mostly on social activities, entertain the guest. Keep the evening pleasant and serene. Reflect on your blessings and progress achieved.

VIRGO (Aug. 21-Sept. 20): There ought to be several rather enjoyable reunions this Sunday, so make the rounds early.

LIBRA (Sept. 21-Oct. 20): Your ingenuity and initiative are tested today. There is something to discover in places and relationships you haven't given much attention lately.

SCORPIO (Oct. 21-Nov. 20): Changing situations tax your resources and patience as the day progresses. Take the time and trouble to clear up confusing details for others so they waste no time or effort.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 21-Dec. 20): Check to be sure your friends know what you are planning, then put new schemes into motion. Get an early start if you must make an unannounced journey. The action of the day continues well into the evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 18): Faraway places and people attract your attention and among them possibly some serious and very profitable business can begin. Close observation of other people brings much improvement and wisdom.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Good news and invitations are socially enjoyable and hold potential for future business. Ambitious projects come to your attention. Keep moving; you have a great deal of territory to cover this Sunday.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Beautiful pinkwinter-blooming Heathers aren't as popular as they were years ago because improper planting and poorly drained soil are common. Plants should be set out in a mixture of half premoistened sphagnum peat and half soil. Heathers have a mass of hair-like roots and need the peaty soil to develop a good root system. Once well started the roots eventually grow into the garden soil and plants continue to grow normally.

There are three varieties of heathers with dainty bell-like flowers that literally smother fine masses of tiny green leaves. One is the Pink Scotch Heather, with rosy-pink blooms from October to February. The Red Scotch Heather flowers are rose-red color. The dwarf Heather blooms are lavender-pink. John McLaren Heather has pink lantern-like flowers in the spring. There is a newer variety in Northern California, the Heather Ventricosa with semi oval, tubular, clear-pink flowers that we hope eventually will become available in Southern California.

HEATHERS can be pruned annually when they have finished blooming. First pruning should cut back the young plant branches one-third of their total length. From then on only one-third of the current season growth should be cut back annually.

Yes, we're still planting annuals and perennials for late spring flowers. Some even bloom sooner than late spring, such as calendulas, and Iceland poppies. Be sure you have enough for garden color and for cut flowers of snapdragons, stocks, larkspur, Pacific hybrid delphiniums. Don't expect to get five or six feet tall flower spikes as you would if you had planted them out last October. Also plant pansies and violas. All of these annuals are for sunny garden areas. If planted early last fall snaps are showing spots on the leaves. This could mean possible rust infestation. Look on the underside of the foliage. Rust appears as small pimple-like clusters of dark brown powdery substance. It is a minute parasitic fungus. If such is the case, pull up the infested snaps, and pick up any loose leaves off the ground. Replant with young new ones. We had such an experience with snaps in the past, and replaced them with new ones. They didn't grow as tall but all of them bloomed beautifully, and had no rust.

YOU'LL HAVE a splashy display of color in the shade garden if you plant primulas malacoides and obconica, also cinerarias. This should be done as soon as possible.

Scatter the snail-slug bait to control those damaging pests in the shade garden. In the sunny flower bed, along the lawn edges and of dichondra, under trees, and in ground covers particularly.

There's more pruning to be done. Prune the upright (bush) type fuchsias growing in the ground, any in containers as well the basket (cascade) type. Fuchsias continue to flower for months once they begin to bloom. This means the gardener should cut the branches back in the secondary branch wood. At least one-third of the outer growth should be pruned back. Some gardeners prune them back to the framework branches which makes the plants look like skeletons.

Fuchsias, like the roses after they are pruned, should have any remainder mulch removed, soil soaked well, the dormant-sprayed thoroughly, also the ground. Scatter a cupful of bone meal and soil sulphur. Lightly fluff it into the soil. Spread a thin layer of organic mulch material. Water well.

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Q. — My about five-foot-tall five-year-old dwarf lemon tree bears well on limbs along the ground but the tip limbs have no lemons. Should I cut the bottom limbs off. If so when? W.C.

A. — Cut them off anytime. When the lemons have ripened enough to pick, harvest them and cut off the limbs.

Q. — All of my 12 African violets have healthy green foliage, but for months there has been no sign of blooms. They are in windows with eastern exposure, are adequately watered once a week. For the past three months they have been fed with "Bloom Boost" every two weeks. Why won't they bloom? What am I doing wrong?—A.L.

A. — "Once a week" may not be the best watering schedule. Finger the soil to test it. If some grains of the soil cling to your finger, don't water yet. Water when no soil clings to the finger, and water well. Keep the plants out of drafts. The room temperature should be no lower than 60 degrees and no higher than 75 degrees. South exposure window with gauze-like curtain to break direct sun rays would be ideal, because African violets love lots of indirect light.

Q. — My four year old Concord grape had one tiny bunch that fell off. Last year there wasn't any. How much water and what kind of fertilizer should I use? How much sun should yellow callas have? They didn't bloom last summer and they could have been over watered. How deep should they be planted? How much water should Hibiscus have? It stays full of buds but has few blooms. Give me watering and feeding directions for Lavender Lady Lilac.—Mrs. C.M.

A. — Have you sandy porous soil, good garden soil, or a heavy clay soil? A gardener waters plants more frequently during the summer, but perhaps only four or five times during the winter season. All I can do is guess, but in sandy soil water every five days or so depending upon the weather, garden (medium texture) soil at about a week to 10 day intervals, and clay soil (heavy) possibly not often than once every three to five weeks if thoroughly and slowly soaked.

Apply half inch layer of manure around the pre-moistened soil of the grape right away and soak well. (There's a new product on the market, 0-10-10 in a pellet form. The formulation is 0: (meaning no nitrogen at all) 10 — superphosphate, 10 — potash, plus some calcium and sulphur. The combination of superphosphate and potash is a flower-fruit fertilizer.) Yellow callas should be grown in half day of sun if you want them to bloom. Set the bulb tops about two inches below the soil surface. Now, give the Lavender Lady Lilac the same manure — superphosphate or better yet the 0-10-10 application. Use as you did for the grape. Feed the lilac with an all-purpose plant food twice during the summer season. Follow the watering directions given for the grape, calla, hibiscus, and lilac.

Q. — Is there any safe product I can spray on, or scatter around my strawberries while they have fruit to kill slugs and snails? If I use the commoner snail baits how far from the plant should they be scattered so the poison isn't drawn up into the fruit when watered? — Mrs. L.C.M.

A. — Scatter metaldehyde, not arsenate type pellets at a distance of not less than 18 inches away from the plants. The enticing smell draws the pests to the bait. Scatter about every 10 days, applied three times only. Best apply after a rain or a watering. The bait usually stands about three waterings. Later if new ones appear, scatter the bait again.

JOB TO DO NOW

Dichondra lawn should be fed now to give it a booster for quicker growth into the spring. The smart time-and-energy saving turf fertilizer is one that contains not only balanced plant food, but a herbicide to destroy various kinds of grasses and small broad-leaf type weed seeds, as well as an insecticide to control soil pests. It does three jobs in one application. Dichondra, unlike grass lawn, needs more than just a nitrogen fertilizer, because it flowers, seeds, and develops more dichondra to keep replenishing the foliage. It needs a fertilizer that also contains phosphoric acid and potash.

Geraldton wax plant, a dependable winter-blooming shrub provides dainty cup-shape pink blossoms that last several weeks as cutflowers. The shrub grows well if kept on the dry side, and watered only when it really thirsts. It eventually dies if kept moist. Prune individual branches as you cut the flowers. Finish pruning it when it is through blooming. Decide where you think it helps the over-all shape of the shrub, and simply cut!

CLUB NOTES

The Long Beach Amateur Orchid Society will hold its regular meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the Wardlow Park clubhouse, Stanbridge and Wardlow Road.

The Belmont Heights Garden Club will meet Tuesday at 1 p.m. in Wesley Hall at Termino and Third Street.

Visitors are welcome. Joe Littlefield will speak at the Los Altos Garden Club meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend the lecture at St. John's Community Church, 2345 Kimeno Ave.

Easy Bromeliads—the dramatic Aechmeas—will be the subject of a talk and demonstration at the bimonthly meeting of South Bay Bromeliad Associates at 1 p.m. Sunday at South Coast Botanic Garden, 26701 Rolling Hills Road, Palos Verdes Peninsula.

There will be a plant table and an exhibition of different species of Aechmeas, demonstrating planting methods for special decorative effect.

The public is invited. Pancakes and royalty, is the program planned for February 8th at the Paramount Recreation Center, 14410 Paramount Blvd., Paramount, by the budget and finance committee of the California National Fuchsia Society.

This is an annual event sponsored by the society.

First on the agenda is the pancake brunch. A breakfast of pancakes, smokies, juice and coffee will be served from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.—adults $1.25—children under 12—$.75.

Candidates selected by the various branches will compete for the honor of being selected king and queen for the California National Fuchsia Society. The winners will be presented with a trophy and will represent the society at functions. One of the main events at which the king and queen will preside 16th annual shade and plant show to be held in the month of June at the Orange County Fair Grounds in Costa Mesa.

Latest developments in orchid growing will be outlined at a conference on Feb. 28 at the University of California, Riverside.

The university extension program is for both orchid hobbyists and professional growers, and is cosponsored by the American Orchid Society and Orchid Digest Corp.

Ample time will be allowed for individual questions following lectures by these guest speakers:

ERNEST HETHERINGTON, president of Fred A. Stewart Orchid Co. of San Gabriel, who will discuss a ten-year breeder's project. Hetherington will make some predictions about improvements on the horizon in his talk on what Cattleyas will look like in the next decade.

Frank Fordyce, Rod McLellan Co., commercial orchid growers in South San Francisco, who will talk about meristem tissue propagation.

Dr. Paul Cheo, virologist with the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum in Arcadia, whose topic is virus disease.

Frank Morishita, Department of Entomology, University of California, Riverside, on practical pest control.

Other speakers will discuss ten guides to orchid health, orchid mixes and a fertilizer program. After the conference, participants are invited to tour the laboratory of Toshio Murashige, associate professor of horticultural science at UCR and develop-

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Q. — My about five-foot-tall five-year-old dwarf lemon tree bears well on limbs along the ground but the tip limbs have no lemons. Should I cut the bottom limbs off. If so when? W.C.

A. — Cut them off anytime. When the lemons have ripened enough to pick, harvest them and cut off the limbs.

Q. — All of my 12 African violets have healthy green foliage, but for months there has been no sign of blooms. They are in windows with eastern exposure, are adequately watered once a week. For the past three months they have been fed with "Bloom Boost" every two weeks. Why won't they bloom? What am I doing wrong?—A.L.

A. — "Once a week" may not be the best watering schedule. Finger the soil to test it. If some grains of the soil cling to your finger, don't water yet. Water when no soil clings to the finger, and water well. Keep the plants out of drafts. The room temperature should be no lower than 60 degrees and no higher than 75 degrees. South exposure window with gauze-like curtain to break direct sun rays would be ideal, because African violets love lots of indirect light.

Q. — My four-year old Concord grape had one tiny bunch that fell off. Last year there wasn't any. How much water and what kind of fertilizer should I use? How much sun should yellow callas have? They didn't bloom last summer and they could have been over watered. How deep should they be planted? How much water should Hibiscus have? It stays full of buds but has few blooms. Give me watering and feeding directions for Lavender Lady Lilac.—Mrs. C.M.

A. — Have you sandy porous soil, good garden soil, or a heavy clay soil? A gardener waters plants more frequently during the summer, but perhaps only four or five times during the winter season. All I can do is guess, but in sandy soil water every five days or so depending upon the weather, garden (medium texture) soil at about a week to 10 day intervals, and clay soil (heavy) possibly not often than once every three to five weeks if thoroughly and slowly soaked.

Apply half inch layer of manure around the pre-moistened soil of the grape right away and soak well. (There's a new product on the market, 0-10-10 in a pellet form. The formulation is 0 (meaning no nitrogen at all) 10 — superphosphate, 10 — potash, plus some calcium and sulphur. The combination of superphosphate and potash is a flower-fruit fertilizer.) Yellow callas should be grown in half day of sun if you want them to bloom. Set the bulb tops about two inches below the soil surface. Now, give the Lavender Lady Lilac the same manure — superphosphate or better yet the 0-10-10 application. Use as you did for the grape. Feed the lilac with an all-purpose plant food twice during the summer season. Follow the watering directions given for the grape, calla, hibiscus, and lilac.

Q. — Is there any safe product I can spray on, or scatter around my strawberries while they have fruit to kill slugs and snails? If I use the commoner snail baits how far from the plant should they be scattered so the poison isn't drawn up into the fruit when watered? — Mrs. L.C.M.

A. — Scatter metaldehyde, not arsenate type pellets at a distance of not less than 18 inches away from the plants. The enticing smell draws the pests to the bait. Scatter about every 10 days, applied three times only. Best apply after a rain or a watering. The bait usually stands about three waterings. Later if new ones appear, scatter the bait again.

YOU'LL HAVE a splashy display of color in the shade garden if you plant primulas malacoides and obconica, also cinerarias. This should be done as soon as possible.

Scatter the snail-slug bait to control those damaging pests in the shade garden, in the sunny flower bed, along the lawn edges and of dichondra, under trees, and in ground covers particularly.

There's more pruning to be done. Prune the upright (bush) type fuchsias growing in the ground, any in containers as well the basket (cascade) type. Fuchsias continue to flower for months once they begin to bloom. This means the gardener should cut the branches back in the secondary branch wood. At least one-third of the outer growth should be pruned back. Some gardeners prune them back to the framework branches which makes the plants look like skeletons.

Fuchsias, like the roses after they are pruned, should have any remaining mulch removed, soil soaked well, the be dormant-sprayed thoroughly, also the ground. Scatter a cupful of bone meal and soil sulphur. Lightly fluff it into the soil. Spread a thin layer of organic mulch material. Water well.

CLUB NOTES

The Long Beach Amateur Orchid Society will hold its regular meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the Wardlow Park clubhouse, Stanbridge and Wardlow Road.

The Belmont Heights Garden Club will meet Tuesday at 1 p.m., in Wesley Hall at Termino and Third Street.

Visitors are welcome. Joe Littlefield will speak at the Los Altos Garden Club meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend the lecture at St. John's Community Church, 2345 Ximeno Ave.

Easy Bromeliads—the dramatic Aechmeas—will be the subject of a talk and demonstration at the bimonthly meeting of South Bay Bromeliad Associates at 1 p.m. Sunday at South Coast Botanic Garden, 26701 Rolling Hills Road, Palos Verdes Peninsula.

There will be a plant table and an exhibition of different species of Aechmeas, demonstrating planting methods for special decorative effect.

The public is invited. Pancakes and royalty, is the program planned for February 8th at the Paramount Recreation Center, 14410 Paramount Blvd., Paramount, by the budget and finance committee of the California National Fuchsia Society.

This is an annual event sponsored by the society.

First on the agenda is the pancake brunch. A breakfast of pancakes, smokies, juice and coffee will be served from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.—adults $1.25—children under 12—$.75.

Candidates selected by the various branches will compete for the honor of being selected king and queen for the California National Fuchsia Society. The winners will be presented with a trophy and will represent the society at functions. One of the main events at which the king and queen will preside 16th annual shade and plant show to be held in the month of June at the Orange County Fair Grounds in Costa Mesa.

Latest developments in orchid growing will be outlined at a conference on Feb. 28 at the University of California, Riverside.

The university extension program is for both orchid hobbyists and professional growers, and is cosponsored by the American Orchid Society and Orchid Digest Corp.

Ample time will be allowed for individual questions following lectures by these guest speakers:

ERNEST HETHERINGTON, president of Fred A. Stewart Orchid Co. of San Gabriel, who will discuss a ten-year breeder's project. Hetherington will make some predictions about improvements on the horizon in his talk on what Cattleyas will look like in the next decade.

Frank Fordyce, Rod McLellan Co., commercial orchid growers in South San Francisco, who will talk about meristem tissue propagation.

De. Paul Chico, virologist with the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum in Arcadia, whose topic is virus disease.

Frank Morishita, Department of Entomology, University of California, Riverside, on practical pest control.

Other speakers will discuss ten guides to orchid health, orchid mixes and a fertilizer program. After the conference, participants are invited to tour the laboratory of Toshio Murashige, associate professor of horticultural science at UCR and develop-

Irvine's Land Deal Criticized

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

Six taxpayers Friday challenged the Irvine Co. was "not entirely honest" in its reply to demands to scrap its Upper Newport Bay land swap with Orange County.

They are interveners in a Superior Court test of legality of the proposed exchange of 457 Irvine acres, mostly submerged, for 150 acres of county-held tidelands. Irvine president William R. Mason branded them "a small self-interest group."

Thus identified, Frank and Frances Robinson, Wesley and Judy Marx, and Harold and Joan Coverdale, proceeded with a point-by-point rebuttal:

"WE OPPONENTS are criticized for having an inadequate plan, or no plan, for the bay development."

"This is curious, since the proponents have no plan, or even supporting engineering studies. What the Irvine Co. has is a proposal for exchange of land. This exchange would put so much of the bay shoreline in Irvine ownership that it would cripple any future effort to develop a beautiful plan in the public interest."

They then called for a re-examination of the land swap offer.

"The Irvine Co. admits the exchange proposal originated 10 years ago. The last 10 years have seen an explosive increase in the awareness of the value and proper use of public lands. What some officials may have thought beneficial 10 years ago may not be considered to be beneficial now."

As spokesman for the interveners, Robinson charged that the state's grant of tidelands to the County of Orange prohibits the proposed trade.

MASON HAD noted in his statement that "I am certain the supervisors are aware that Orange County is charged by the tidelands grant with the responsibility of developing the Upper Bay into a harbor."

HEADED FOR SCRAPYARD

Princeton Drops The Flag

Decommissioning came to the aircraft carrier USS Princeton for the second time Friday — this one without prospect that the 25-year-old ship will survive as she did from an earlier deactivation.

"Haul down colors and commissioning pennant, and secure all watches," ordered the commanding officer, Capt. Franklin T. Stephens, in flight deck ceremonies that took the 39,000-ton carrier out of the fleet and on a course to the scrapyard.

The Princeton's next scheduled move is to be towed from her Pier E decommissioning berth across the basin at U.S. Navy Base, Los Angeles-Long Beach, to moor at the mole beside the carrier Valley Forge, also recently decommissioned.

Fifth Navy ship to bear the name, Princeton was decommissioned in 1949, but recalled a year later as the first capital ship reactivated from the reserve fleet for the Korean War. In Korean waters, her catapults launched jet fighters with bomb loads for the first time in naval history.

In recent years she was assigned to Vietnam operations, was recovery ship for the Apollo 10 lunar orbital mission last May and, in her final mission, participated in last fall's underground nuclear test in the Aleutian Islands.

In Friday's ceremony, before about 50 guests and her remaining crew of about 150 officers and men, Capt. Stephens noted that in her last year of service Princeton won her latest competitive E award for battle efficiency.

After colors were struck for the last time, Capt. Stephens turned the ship over to Lt. Cmdr. Frank Hutchinson, representing the Navy's Inactivation Ship Maintenance Facility, San Diego.

The ceremonies closed with presentation to Capt. Stephens of the Princeton's commissioning pennant by Cmdr. Robert Carius, executive officer.

COMPTON CENTER PLAN UNDER WAY

From Our L. A. Bureau

Architectural plans are being prepared for three projects in the Compton Civic Center, with an eventual cost estimated at more than $25 million.

The Board of Supervisors awarded contracts last week for the drawings. A public authority established jointly by the city and county will sell bonds and collect taxes in the area to pay for a courthouse, garage and probation building.

Architects are William Allen of Beverly Hills, and Kinsey, Meeds & Williams, and John Williams of Los Angeles.

Burglars Get Clubs

Burglars smashed a padlock to gain entry to a garage at the home of Duane Woolpert, at 5259 Aprian Way, and stole golf clubs and a movie camera valued at $320, Long Beach police said Friday.

Lakewood Shoppers to Be Quizzed

Lakewood women will learn more about the shopping habits of other Lakewood women in a third and final survey session being conducted today in Lakewood Center.

Members of the Women's Division of the Greater Lakewood Chamber of Commerce will question shoppers at several different stores in the center during the day long session.

The eight-item survey includes questions about what items women buy most other than groceries, how they arrive at the Center (bus, auto or cab), and why they like or don't like shopping in a big shopping center. Two previous sessions were held early in January.

Final tabulation of the anticipated 1,000 interviews will be announced in February, according to Mrs. Dale Bennett, Chairman of the Women's Division.

Bruins' Height, Hustle Earn 78-53 Victory Over Lakewood

All Bill Fraser could do was shake his head when he saw how his Wilson High team had lost any games at all this season, following a 25-point win over Lakewood Friday night.

The Bruins overwhelmed the Lancers in their own gym, running away with a 78-53 decision that kept the team in a second place deadlock with Poly in the Moore League race.

"It was a win we needed," felt Fraser. "I wish we could do something like this all the time. You have to give the kids credit, coming back the way they did following a tough loss against Jordan Wednesday."

The Bruins used their height to good advantage, hustled at both ends of the floor and never slowed until late over in the second half.

Wilson led by 11 points at the end of the first quarter, increased the margin to 21 at halftime and 24 after three quarters.

Twenty-five players saw action for the teams and 23 scored. This accounted in part for a staggering 32 fouls — 32 by the frustrated Lancers, now 2-3 in league play.

Three Bruins wound up in double figures, with Mark Beauchamp leading the way with 21. Beauchamp could do no wrong in the first half, scoring 19 points on short jump shots.

Rick Squire returned to the starting lineup and added 14. John Sagehorn chipped in with 12.

Mike Stevens was the only Lakewood starter to hit with consistency. He tallied 12 points. The other four starters could score but nine points between them, and Lancer coach Fred Engles went to his bench early without much success.

Wilson Sweeps Swim

By STEVE TAYLOR

Lakewood High sophomore Dan Green set a meet record in the 100 breaststroke, but Wilson swept to team victories in the varsity, Bee and Cee divisions during the 15th Moore League Invitational swimming championships Friday at Wilson High.

Green clocked a fast 1:02.9 to eclipse the record of 1:04.0, set by Mike Broussard of Wilson last year. Wilson became the first school in the meet's history to capture all three team victories.

WILLIAMS' LIFE STORY ON FILM?

BOSTON (UPI) — Two movie studios and a national television network are negotiating for the right to film the life story of baseball Hall of Famer Ted Williams, his manager disclosed Thursday.

Fred Corcoran said the former Red Sox star, who now manages the Washington Senators, would play himself in one arrangement under consideration. He did not identify the firms involved.

Williams' best-selling biography, "My Turn At Bat," is in its fourth printing.

Carlos' Kick Earns Millrose Games Win

Middle distance runner Ralph Doubell retained his perfect indoor record, sprinter John Carlos finally won a major race in his hometown and hurdler Willie Davenport gained revenge Friday night as the three Olympians captured titles before 17,079 fans in the 63rd Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden in New York.

Doubell, a 24-year-old Australian, notched his 13th consecutive board track triumph over the past 2 1/2 years by easily winning the half mile in 1:49.2.

Carlos, the controversial super sprinter from New York who did most of his running for San Jose State, pulled away from a tight field in the last 10 yards to win the 60-yard dash in 6.1 seconds.

Marathon Net Win to Ruffels

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (U) — Ray Ruffels of Australia advanced to the semifinals of the Benson and Hedges Open Tennis Tournament Friday with a 6-4, 0-6, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4 victory over Niki Pilić of Yugoslavia.

Advancing along with Ruffels were Tom Okker of the Netherlands and Roger Taylor of Britain. Okker eliminated John Alexander of Australia 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 while Taylor defeated Phil Dent of Australia 1-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-4.

In a women's doubles semifinal, Mrs. Ann Jones of Britain and Mrs. Margaret Court of Australia blasted their way past Robyn Legge of New Zealand and Mrs. Stephanie Bardeley of Canada 6-0, 6-1.

Rangers Rally, Trim Seals, 2-1

OAKLAND (UPI) — Ron Stewart's short-handed goal in the third period lifted the New York Rangers to a comeback 2-1 victory over the Oakland Seals in the only National Hockey League game Friday night.

Terry Sawchuk, appearing in only his fourth game of the season, allowed a second period goal by Howie Menard for Oakland's lone score. Ranger defenseman Arnie Brown tied it two minutes later on a power play goal.

3 PERFECT GAMES -- IN PRACTICE

SPARTA, Wis. (U) — Gib Herold of Sparta shot a fantastic six-game bowling practice series Thursday, which included three 300 games, and averaged 275.8 per game.

In addition to the three perfect lines, Herold had games of 207, 279 and 289.

Because the 300s were rolled in unsanctioned competition, however, they will not be officially recognized by the American Bowling Congress.

barely missing an 18-foot eagle putt.

After making the putt, Tony, whose game is just beginning to jell after the long layoff, birdied four more holes — blasting out of the trap to within two feet of the cup on No. 1; dropping in a 15-foot putt on No. 4; almost getting a hole-in-one on the par-three 6th when he hit his tee shot just six inches from the cup, and barely missed an eagle three on the 9th.

Jacklin, who eagled the 8th Thursday, put his approach just seven feet from the cup on the par-five hole, but missed the putt, but then made the next for his bird.

Detroit's Fortunes Change

Nicklaus had two birdies on the front nine, one on the strength of a 20-foot putt and offset two bogeys on the back nine with four more birdies.

Jack missed a 2 1/2-foot putt for his first bogey on the 10th and slipped again on the 13th when he made a bad pitch.

He promptly sank a 25-foot putt to get back in the thick of it, and lipped the cup with a four-foot putt on the 18th which would have enabled him to maintain his stroke advantage. "I played a break that wasn't there," he explained. Jack picked up the bird, though, to tie Jacklin.

Friday night the Pistons finally knocked off Baltimore, 129-117, ending a string of 15 consecutive losses to the Bulls. The last time Detroit managed to whip Baltimore was more than a year ago, on Jan. 2, 1968.

Dave Bing and Jimmy Walker sparked the Pistons' snapper by scoring 28 and 25 points, respectively, to offset Kevin Loughery's 35 for the Bulls.

In other NBA action, Milwaukee spilled Chicago, 121-105. Boston trimmed Cincinnati, 108-103. New York topped Philadelphia, 104-100. San Francisco whipped Phoenix, 125-116, and San Diego edged Seattle in overtime, 119-117.

Bears' Sinking Ship Launched Pro Swaps

New York Times Service

NEW YORK — The chain reaction really started last week when the Chicago Bears made a move that totally surprised the professional football folks. The experts had figured out the upcoming draft of collegians with their usual unerring accuracy. The Pittsburgh Steelers would exercise their first choice by picking Terry Bradshaw, the Louisiana Tech quarterbacking marvel. The Bears, selecting second, were a cinch to go for Mike Phipps, the Purdue quarterback, to solve their manifold problems in that position.

What caused the experts to fumble the ball, though, was their forgetting that Chicago's once proud and watertight ship of state had sprung more holes than a leaky rowboat. To the rescue came the Green Bay Packers. They offered the Bears three solid hole-pluggers in Elijah Pitts, running back; Leroy Caffey, linebacker, and Dick Hyland, offensive lineman.

All they asked in exchange was that prized second pick in the draft. George Halas, the Papa Bear, considered the proposition and came to the conclusion that Phipps would not necessarily be an improvement over Bobby Douglass, the rookie left-hander of high promise. The trade was made and wheels began to spin in the fertile mind of Art Modell, the owner of the Cleveland Browns.

He knew instinctively that the Packers had no interest in a quarterback. They would reach out immediately for Mike McCoy, the tackle mastodon from Notre Dame. This meant that Phipps would still be in circulation when the Miami Dolphins made the third pick. And Modell desperately wanted the Purdue passer as insurance against the eventual collapse of Bill Nelsen's gimpy knees.

THE BROWNS WERE so far down the draft list that Phipps would be gone before Cleveland's turn came. Modell would have to pry the No. 3 spot from the Dolphins. He phoned Joe Thomas in Miami and sounded them out. Then he put in a phone call to his close friend, Wellington Mara, president of the Giants.

"I have an idea but I first want your advice," said artful Art, ignoring the fact that advice was the one commodity he wasn't after.

"Go ahead," said Well, always ready to help a pal.

"I have a chance to trade with Miami for their first draft choice," said Modell cheerfully. "That means we can protect ourselves for the future with Phipps. To get him, though, I'll have to trade Paul Warfield to the Dolphins and I hesitate to let him go."

"It still might be worth it," said Well, "but what will you do for a deep receiver?"

"That's where my idea enters the conversation," said Modell. "What would you want in a trade for Homer Jones?"

The shrewd Modell was fully aware of the fact that the often spectacular Homer had lost his status as the favorite pin-up boy of the Giant coaching staff. But Homer could take the curse off the Warfield departure and a happy Homer, catching those long bombs, could even light up the lake front. Modell knew the price would be high but he was willing to pay it as part of his long-range restructuring of his team.

THE PRICE WAS HIGH. The Browns gave up three men who will be Giant regulars and a lot of New York problems were erased by that one package. In it were Jim Kanicki, a 270-pound defensive tackle with a reputation of solid worth; Ron Johnson, a rookie running back who once shattered the immortal Tommy Harmon's collegiate yardage record at Michigan; and Wayne Meyland, a linebacker of considerable promise.

The pre-draft wheeling and dealing that involved so many teams in both conferences altered thinking and objectives in many respects. The Giants were able to concentrate on Jim Fyles, an Oklahoma linebacker, and the Jets were lucky enough to grab the one man they most wanted, Steve Tanneau, a cornerback from Florida.

In the middle of the draft Mara received a phone call from Norm Van Brocklin, coach of the Atlanta Falcons.

"I want your fifth draft choice," said Van. "For it I'll give you Jerry Shay, defensive tackle, four years experience, 6-3 and 245 pounds and — well, you know all that."

"It's a deal," said Well. "I always prefer a body to a name."

The one name that astounded most football fans was Bradshaw; the Steelers first choice. Not too many had even heard of him.

"He's a bigger Sammy Baugh," said Jim Lee Howell, chief Giant talent surveyor.

"He's the best passer since Joe Namath," said someone else. "But he has two things Namath doesn't have, good knees and good habits."

SEVENTEEN TEAMS TRIED to trade with the Steelers for Bradshaw and there was considerable top level debate over the offers until owner Art Rooney stepped in.

"Don't you guys ever learn anything?" he asked. "We'll keep him." So they kept him.

Glenn Top Qualifier at Winternationals

POMONA (Special) — Gerry Glenn of Panorama City, in the saddle of a Chrysler-powered AA-Fuel dragster, led qualifiers Friday in the 10th National Hot Rod Assn. Winternationals at the L.A. County Fairgrounds.

Glenn gunned his sleek, full-bodied 426-cubic inch creation to a top elapsed time of 6.740 seconds over the quarter-mile strip and had a top speed of 217.91 mph.

Close behind was Don Prudhomme, the runner-up in last year's Winternationals. Prudhomme, Granada Hills, had an ET of 6.832 and top speed of 217.39 mph.

Top speeds of the day were recorded by John Wiebe, Newton, Kan., and Kelly Brown, Fountain Valley, Calif. Wiebe was clocked in 223.32 mph, Brown in 222.22 mph.

Brown's elapsed time was 6.583 seconds, placing him third with Wiebe next at 6.864.

Arnie Behling of Long Beach, driving one of Mickey Thompson's four entries, led the qualifying in the Funny Car bracket.

Qualifying continues today for Sunday's championship eliminations. The top 32 fuel qualifiers advance into the finals.

Top Fuel — Gerry Glenn, Panorama City, Calif., 6.740 seconds; Don Prudhomme, Granada Hills, Calif., 6.832; Kelly Brown, Fountain Valley, Calif., 6.864; John Wiebe, Newton, Kan., 6.884; Gary Cochran, Fontana, Calif., 6.914; Bill Tidwell, Long Beach, Calif., 6.924; Bruce Adams, Bakersfield, Calif., 6.934; Steve Carbone, San Diego, Calif., 6.954; Earl Blinn, Winter, Idaho, 7.004; Larry Dixon, Gardena, Calif., 7.024.

Millikan Flattens Poly, Runs Win Streak to 10

By KEN PIVERNETZ Staff Writer

There weren't many ways any high school team could have beaten Moore League-leading Millikan Friday.

The Rams turned back their nearest challenger, Poly 67-56, with a strong second half performance that left the afternoon crowd at Long Beach City College wondering what it will take to slow them down.

Millikan, winning its 10th game in a row, closes out the first round of league combat with a 5-0 record and a two-game advantage over its nearest challengers.

Ahead at halftime only,

26-26, the Rams ran off a 21-5 blitz in the third quarter that saw the Jackrabbits go without a field goal in six attempts.

Dave Frost did most of the damage in that span, scoring 12 of his game-high 22 points in eight minutes.

If Frost is still feeling the after effects of a sprained wrist that is taped up, it certainly didn't show Friday.

All the 6-foot-5 center did was haul down 11 rebounds, block two shots, hit on eight of nine field goals and have a perfect 6-for-6 effort from the free throw line.

"The doctor told us it'll be another three weeks before he's completely recovered," said coach Howard Lyon. "But it was good to see him playing so well today."

Combined with the hot shooting of Richard Plante (19 points) and Tony Martineck (10 points), the trio was mainly responsible for Millikan hitting 56 per cent from the field and 23-out-of-25 free throws.

Frost was particularly tough in close to the basket, while Plante's seven buckets came in the 15-20 foot range.

Poly kept close the first half, but never could penetrate the Rams' zone defense. When its outside shooting fell off in the third quarter, the roof fell in.

The Jackrabbits closed

an 18-point deficit to 11 (37-46) with 2:28 left in the game. Millikan called time, then responded with five quick points to put the game out of reach.

League-leading scorer Steve Dallas of Poly was held to 12 points, but took only six shots. Mike Bott and Tim Simkins had 13 each to pace Poly.

Dodgers' Kiddie Corps Eyes Sunday's Medical Benefit Tilt

By GORDON VERRELL Staff Writer

Manager Walter Alston was talking about the super crop of kids in the Dodgers' organization.

He was talking about them at the tail end of the 1969 season and he was still talking about them Friday at Dodger Stadium during a quickie visit to the Southland.

"I'm always enthusiastic this time of the year," Alston smiled, "but I'm even more enthusiastic this year because of the fine bunch of kids we'll have at spring training."

Some of the kids Walter is talking about — among them, Billy Grabarkewitz, Bill Buckner and Bobby Valentine — will be on display Sunday afternoon in Long Beach in the 18th Medical Benefit game of the Southern California Baseball Assn. at Blair Field. Game time is 1 p.m.

"I'm really anxious to see what these kids can do," beamed the manager, well-tanned despite a typical Darrtown, Ohio, winter "which was six below when I left."

In particular, Alston wants a close-up look at Buckner, the hard-hitting first baseman.

"I saw him at the Arizona Instructional League," Alston said, "and the way he swings a bat you can't help but like him. We'll look at him at first base and in the outfield. I don't know yet just where he'll play but if he hits like we think he can we'll find someplace for him."

For Sunday's game with the Major League All-Stars Buckner will be in leftfield.

Grabarkewitz and Valentine will be in the starting lineup Sunday, too, along with two of last season's regulars, Ted Sizemore, the National League rookie of the year, and Bill Sudakis, the third basemen-turned-catcher.

"It's asking a lot of Sudakis to switch from third to catcher but we're going to give it a try anyway," Alston said in the Dodgers' dugout while watching the club go through a workout under sunny skies.

"The more guys we have who can play more than one position the better off we are. We've been fortunate in the past to have lots of maneuverability and that's the way I like it."

Opposing the Dodgers Sunday will be an impressive lineup that includes Don Buford and Andy Etchebarren from the American League champion Baltimore Orioles, Tom Hall of Minnesota, former Angel favorite Leon Wagner, and Jim Merritt and Bobby Tolan from Cincinnati.

Proceeds from the game go to the medical fund of the SCBA to cover expenses of players injured during its year-round program.

Blair Field's box office at 10th and Park Ave. will be open today from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Gates will open Sunday at 11 a.m. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for youngsters under 12.

FROST COOLS RABBITS

Dave Frost of Millikan leaps over Poly's ducking Steve Dallas and Mike Bott to haul away rebound Friday. Frost contributed 22 points to Ram's 10th win in row.

Frenn's Weight Toss World Mark

George Frenn, competing in Pacific Coast Club colors, smashed his own world record for the 35-pound weight throw Friday in an all-comers track meet at Cal State Long Beach.

The former Cal State athlete pushed the global standard to 71-3, far above his record 68-7½-throw in Berkeley three years ago. His second best effort Friday was 70-10½.

Cal State's Joe Bradley high jumped 6-10 for a Frosh record but was injured attempting 7-0. The 49ers' Clarence Palmer (48.1), Danny Moore (48.2) and Charles Evans (49.2) swept the 440.

35-weight throw—Frenn (PCC) 71-3 (world record, old mark by Frenn, 68-7½, Berkeley, 1967; Connolly (SRI) 70-24, Lockwood (CSLB) 62-34 (Fresh record); Welch (CSLB) 41-10 (Varsity record).
Long jump—Laurelle (Unat) 21-94; Orasco (CSLB) 21-72; Sarrill (Unat) 20-10.
High jump—Bradley (CSLB) 6-10 (Fresh record); Jones (Corritus) 6-4; Weber (Corritus) 6-4.

LONG HAIR—SHORT CAREER

Boxers Must 'Spruce Up'

SACRAMENTO (U) — The State Athletic Commission ordered boxers to spruce up Friday after a fight official complained of one long-haired fighter: "It was like refereeing a mop."

The rule tightens up what Robert L. Turley, commission executive officer, said was a vague regulation that generally ordered boxers to step into the ring with a "clean and tidy appearance."

The amended version makes it the sole discretion of the commission representative at the ring to determine whether the length of a boxer's hair, mustache, beard or sideburns presents a hazard to safety or interferes with the contest.

Although ring and commission officials have complained about hairy boxers during the past few years, it may have been featherweight Bobby (Hulak) Diamond and his shoulder length tresses that pressed the commission to action.

Last August, Diamond was stopped in the sixth round of a 10-round preliminary fight in Stockton. It was then that referee Bob Mitchell likened the 20-year-old to a mop. Mitchell told the commission that Diamond "could have suffered head cuts, but with that hair, who could tell?" "Furthermore," Mitchell added, "flopping hair could be a distraction to the other boxer."

Turley said Diamond was warned to trim the hair.

He refused, and was suspended.

Today he is out of the ring—and his long hair is "out of this world."

Krake's Thumb Takes Fight Out of Kings for Wings Tonight

A guy with his hand in a cast isn't going to help anybody win a hockey game, is he?

"It's a physical game," says the Kings' Skip Krake, "and you can't back down or you'd be backing down all the time."

That's why Krake will

"I'd just as soon forget about it," says Krake. "I'd rather score goals."

But there's a firm conviction in the sport that if a team fails to establish itself physically, there won't be many goals scored.

"We're still not winning," King coach John Wilson concedes, "but we're not getting killed 8-1, either. Nobody is pushing us around. If we can just get over that goal or two difference a game."

A day before Krake's injury, Wilson told this newspaper that he planned to rest his pocket-sized forward "because he's had seven fights in four or five games and it takes a lot out of you."

Friendship Gone When Net Stars Battle for $10,000

DETROIT (UPI) — John Newcombe really didn't mean it.

"Heckle him, would you?" he asked a fan. "Get right behind Pancho and call him a bum. Call him a washed up old man."

Then he laughed. "Actually, Pancho and I are good friends off the court," said Newcombe. But they won't be sharing any pleasures tonight.

You wouldn't be either if you were playing someone a best-of-five-sets tennis match for $10,000.

That's the way it'll be, because, as Gonzales put it: "The winner gets $10,000. The loser gets to help him pick it up."

It's the second stop on the 10-city tour the $200,000 Tennis Champions Classic is making. Roy Emerson, who is playing Rod Laver in a preliminary match, takes on the winner next week for another $10,000. Laver lost to Gonzales last week in five sets.

Newcombe was kidding

when he told the fan to heckle his 41-year-old opponent. The 25-year-old doesn't play his foes any place but on the tennis court.

If Pancho should become irate because of the way the match is going, as he has been known to do on occasion, then that's another matter.

"There's not much you can do," Newcombe said seriously. "I just look down at my shoes."

There are some who suspect Gonzales of displaying his temper to intimidate the officials. Only Pancho knows about that.

Newcombe, who won more than $60,000 last year on the pro tour to finish runnerup to Laver in the money standings, has beaten Gonzales two of the three times they've met on a court.

But the man whom many experts figure as most likely to be the next No. 1 tennis player in the world when Laver hangs up his racquet dropped a straight set verdict the last time they met, in October in Las Vegas.

Newcombe does a little writing on the side for a paper in his home town of Sydney, Australia. He says he does his best writing after he's won.

You could tell he meant that.

ward "because he's had seven fights in four or five games and it takes a lot out of you."

"Especially if you're doing a lot of wrestling with the guy," Krake says, adding with a smile: "Of course, you usually get five minutes to rest."

"It's just a spontaneous thing. You're trying to outdo the other guy and he doesn't want to be outdone, either. It's just part of the game. I don't think there's a coach in hockey that would put a damper on it. Oh, they don't want you taking stupid penalties, but they want you to be aggressive."

Pilots Won't Sell Club Until Feb. 6 Hearing

SEATTLE (U) — Representatives for the Seattle Pilots said in King County Superior Court Friday they will make no effort to sell the Pilots franchise prior to a show-cause hearing rescheduled for Feb. 6.

The American League has given a local group trying to buy the baseball franchise until Feb. 6 to come up with the money to buy the club. The hearing, first scheduled for Thursday then delayed until Friday, was delayed again in hopes that a financial solution could be reached before a court fight became necessary.

HOW TO PICK THE RIGHT TEAM

By BUD GOODE

In the pro football draft this week several teams tried to fill weaknesses in their passing attack. The Sports Computer has found that "average yards per pass" is an excellent predictor of a team's total offense. Some teams must improve on this statistic as much as 100 per cent. Here is the Univac analysis of the 1969 AFL-NFL season on this important average yards per pass statistic:

NFL	Av. Yds/Pass	AFL	Av. Yds/Pass
Dallas	8.01	Washington	4.15
Green Bay	7.45	San Francisco	4.15
Baltimore	7.36	Philadelphia	4.07
Cleveland	6.98	Atlanta	3.97
New Orleans	6.34	Rams	3.87
Minnesota	6.28	Pittsburgh	3.82
New York	6.20	Denver	3.80
St. Louis	6.19	Chicago	3.58
		NFL Average	6.37
		AFL Average	4.29

The weakest passing teams in the NFL are Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburgh and the Rams (although the Rams are a special case). Roman Gabriel's league-leading interception rate (a low 1.8 per cent vs. 4.9 per cent league average) more than made up for this team's modest average yards per pass.

In the AFL the teams who should have filled their hands around the common draft table are Miami, Buffalo, Boston and Houston.

Last year an outstanding crop of new quarterbacks was seen in both the AFL and NFL. Craig Morton of Dallas, Greg Cook of Cincinnati, Green Bay's Don Horn, and Mike Livingston at Kansas City are league leaders or near the top on average yards per pass.

By comparison, tag-ends such as Chicago and Miami must improve as much as 100 per cent to catch the leaders. Morton, for example, passed for an 8.67 yard average. Chicago's Jack Concannon finished the year with a 4.89 average. The gap between the two is big enough to stuff with pillows.

But is the quarterback at fault? His bullet accurate passes can knock the excelsior out of his receiver's head. If the receiver can't hold the ball, the passer shouldn't be blamed! The Sports Computer moves that receivers be given an "error" for dropping a pass which hits them on the numbers. Like a baseball fielding average, the pass receiver should be rated. Sure, it's a judgment call. But fans deserve to know how often passes hit their mark — and how often they are held.

French Skiers Top World Cup

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany (U) — Francoise Macchi led the French girls on another victorious ski run in the Kandahar World Cup downhill Friday, but they didn't tarnish the glimmer of the best United States' showing of the season.

Karen Budge of Jackson, Wyo., gave the U.S. girls their best finish of the season in the downhill, sixth place, with Judy Nagel of Enumclaw, Wash., seventh, and Marilyn Cochran of Richmond, Vt., 10th.

Miss Macchi, skiing under ideal conditions, sped down the 1,200-meter course in 1 minute, 8.62 seconds to lead a rush of four French girls in the first five places. Only Austria's Wiltrud Drexel kept the powerful French from another 1-2-3 sweep by finishing a surprising second in 1:08.5.

Behind her were Michele Jacot, the World Cup leader with 151 points, in 1:09.48; Isabelle Mir, winner of the other two downhills this season, in 1:09.79, and Annie Famosa in 1:10.5, all of France.

At Madonna di Campiglio, Italy, Gustavo Thoeni, Italy's 18-year-old wonder boy of Alpine skiing, closed in on World Cup leader Patrick Russell by winning the giant slalom for his second consecutive victory.

Thoeni, who captured another giant slalom Thursday, picked up 25 points for a total of 131, nine behind France's Russel, who did not compete here.

Spider Sabich of Kyburz, Calif., gave the United States its best finish, ninth.

'Pistol Pete's' Night to Smash Oscar's Mark

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — When your son is perhaps only one game away from becoming the highest scorer in college basketball history, you can't help but be proud, especially if you're the coach.

For Press Maravich and his son "Pistol Pete" Maravich, the big moment could come tonight when Louisiana State hosts rival Ole Miss in a Southeastern Conference game.

Pete, who's averaging 46.3 points a game, is only 40 points away from erasing Oscar Robertson's career scoring record of 2,973 points. If he's up to par, the record could come late in the second half.

Tickets to the game are non-existent. In addition to the normal crowd of 10,000, more than 50 sports-writers and photographers are expected for the game. To take care of the overflow, a special closed circuit television room has been set up.

To make sure Pete will be ready, LSU declared him off limits to newsmen for the past two weeks.

Despite the pressure on Pete, his father believes he won't disappoint the fans.

"I feel that after the game starts, hell loosen up," said Maravich. "It's just like when Maris hit his 61st home run, you can just imagine how the hell he felt. But he'll come through."

When Pete does come through, they plan to stop the game and give him the game ball.

All that pressure didn't seem to affect Pete in practice this week, said his father, but it might just before the game.

"This constant reminder in the paper and the fans and all — it puts a little pressure on him," said Press. "And then he's going to be the first collegian too to hit that 3,000 mark. That's never been done before."

National League rookie-of-the-year Ted Sizemore of the Dodgers will be among the many speakers featured at the Long Beach Unified School District's Ninth Baseball Coaches Clinic.

The affair, to be held all day today in the men's gym at Long Beach City College, will also include manager Preston Gomez of the San Diego Padres; his first-base coach, Dave Garcia; scout Harry Minor of the New York Mets; Jim Lefebvre's all-American Baseball School; pitcher Paul Doyle of the Angels, and Dodger trainer Bill Buhler.

Covering the colleges will be Paul Deese of Chapman College (1968 NCAA college division champ) and Ben Hines, whose La Verne College club finished second in the 1969 college division playoffs. Rounding out the instructional staff will be a jump-rope exhibition featuring the Lakewood High Kamikaze conditioning class under the direction of John Ford.

The clinic is free and is open to all baseball coaches at all levels.

Newcombe was kidding

when he told the fan to heckle his 41-year-old opponent. The 25-year-old doesn't play his foes anyplace but on the tennis court.

If Pancho should become irate because of the way the match is going, as he has been known to do on occasion, then that's another matter.

"There's not much you can do," Newcombe said seriously. "I just look down at my shoes."

There are some who suspect Gonzales of displaying his temper to intimidate the officials. Only Pancho knows about that.

Newcombe, who won more than $60,000 last year on the pro tour to finish runnerup to Laver in the money standings, has beaten Gonzales two of the three times they've met on a court.

But the man whom many experts figure as most likely to be the next No. 1 tennis player in the world when Laver hangs up his racquet dropped a straight set verdict the last time they met, in October in Las Vegas.

Newcombe does a little writing on the side for a paper in his home town of Sydney, Australia. He says he does his best writing after he's won.

You could tell he meant that.

Pilots Won't Sell Club Until Feb. 6 Hearing

SEATTLE (U) — Representatives for the Seattle Pilots said in King County Superior Court Friday they will make no effort to sell the Pilots franchise prior to a show-cause hearing rescheduled for Feb. 6.

The American League has given a local group trying to buy the baseball franchise until Feb. 6 to come up with the money to buy the club. The hearing, first scheduled for Thursday then delayed until Friday, was delayed again in hopes that a financial solution could be reached before a court fight became necessary.

COMPUTER FOR NFL

By BUD GOODE

In the pro football draft this week several teams tried to fill weaknesses in their passing attack. The Sports Computer has found that "average yards per pass" is an excellent predictor of a team's total offense. Some teams must improve on this statistic as much as 100 per cent. Here is the Univac analysis of the 1969 AFL-NFL season on this important average yards per pass statistic:

NFL	AV. Yds/Pass	AFL	AV. Yds/Pass
Dallas	6.93	Washington	6.27
Green Bay	6.88	San Francisco	6.15
Baltimore	7.48	Philadelphia	6.07
Denver	7.48	Atlanta	6.15
New Orleans	6.36	Pittsburgh	5.97
Minnesota	6.24	New York	5.94
St. Louis	6.23	Chicago	5.86

The weakest passing teams in the NFL are Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburgh and the Rams (although the Rams are a special case). Roman Gabriel's league-leading interception rate (a low 1.8 per cent vs. 4.9 per cent league average) more than made up for this team's modest average yards per pass.

In the AFL, the teams who should have filled their hands around the common draft table are Miami, Buffalo, Boston and Houston.

Last year an outstanding crop of new quarterbacks was seen in both the AFL and NFL. Craig Morton of Dallas, Greg Cook of Cincinnati, Green Bay's Don Horn, and Mike Livingston at Kansas City are league leaders or near the top on average yards per pass.

By comparison, tag-ends such as Chicago and Miami must improve as much as 100 per cent to catch the leaders. Morton, for example, passed for an 8.67 yard average. Chicago's Jack Cannon finished the year with a 4.89 average. The gap between the two is big enough to stuff with pillows.

But is the quarterback at fault? His bullet accurate passes can knock the excelsior out of his receiver's head. If the receiver can't hold the ball, the passer shouldn't be blamed. The Sports Computer moves that receivers be given an "error" for dropping a pass which hits them on the numbers. Like a baseball fielding average, the pass receiver should be rated. Sure, it's a judgment call. But fans deserve to know how often passes hit their mark — and how often they are held.

'Pistol Pete's' Night to Smash Oscar's Mark

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — When your son is perhaps only one game away from becoming the highest scorer in college basketball history, you can't help but be proud, especially if you're the coach.

For Press Maravich and his son "Pistol Pete" Maravich, the big moment could come tonight when Louisiana State hosts rival Ole Miss in a Southeastern Conference game.

Pete, who's averaging 46.3 points a game, is only 40 points away from erasing Oscar Robertson's career scoring record of 2,973 points. If he's up to par, the record could come late in the second half.

Tickets to the game are non-existent. In addition to the normal crowd of 10,000, more than 50 sports-writers and photographers are expected for the game. To take care of the overflow, a special closed circuit television room has been set up.

To make sure Pete will be ready, LSU declared him off limits to newsmen for the past two weeks.

Despite the pressure on Pete, his father believes he won't disappoint the fans.

"I feel that after the game starts, hell loosen up," said Maravich. "It's just like when Maris hit his 61st home run, you can just imagine how the hell he felt. But he'll come through."

When Pete does come through, they plan to stop the game and give him the game ball.

All that pressure didn't seem to affect Pete in practice this week, said his father, but it might just before the game.

"This constant reminder in the paper and the fans and all — it puts a little pressure on him," said Press. "And then he's going to be the first collegian too to hit that 3,000 mark. That's never been done before."

CLERKS VOTE SUNDAY; S'ANTA MAY RE-OPEN

The membership of the Parimutuel Employees Guild, Local 280, will vote on Sunday by secret ballot on a compromise proposal which, if accepted, would likely bring a resumption of racing in California Tuesday after a five-week blackout.

The proposal which involves two different plans will be put before clerks at separate meetings Sunday, in Northern and Southern California.

It is understood that the guild plans to present the two plans without making a recommendation to the membership. Both plans provide for a 2½-year contract which would expire in April, 1972.

Plan "A" calls for the two major tracks, Hollywood Park and Santa Anita, to pay higher wages than smaller tracks in the state. Under this plan Santa Anita

Fort Marcy Missing from Hialeah Feature

The $25,000-added Palm Beach Handicap at Hialeah lost some of its luster Friday when Fort Marcy was not entered in one of the two major features on today's racing program.

High Hat and Vent Du Nord will carry top weight of 118 pounds with Fort Marcy on the sidelines in the 1-16-mile event for 3-year-olds and up. Ten have been entered.

A field of 11 is in the $25,000-added Quaker Handicap, closing day feature at Liberty Bell Park.

Crack Ruler will carry a top post of 121. Balustrade, an entry with Magic Powder, gets in with 118 for the 1-16-mile event for 4-year-olds and up.

At Bowie, Rollicking, with 124 pounds, has been labeled the class of a small field of six for the Francis Scott Key Stakes. The $30,000-added event will be run at six furlongs.

The New York division of the U.S. Trotting Assn. voted to oppose efforts by New York mayor John Lindsay to legalize off-track betting in New York.

Oliva Signs with Twins - $60,000

Combined News Services
Two of the American League's big guns signed contracts with the Western Division champion Minnesota Twins Friday.

Both hard-hitting outfielder Tony Oliva and batting champion Rod Carew received raises.

Oliva, who batted .309 with 24 home runs and 101 runs batted in last season, drew an estimated $50,000 a year and will get an estimated $60,000 for the 1970 campaign.

Carew, who batted .322 to win his first batting title, was paid $25,000 in 1969 and asked for $50,000 this year. He may have come to terms for about $40,000.

The Twins also signed two rookies, righthanded pitcher Dave Goltz and shortstop Danny Thompson, former Oklahoma State University all-American.

Baltimore, which defeated the Twins for the American League pennant, also announced a group of signings. Heading the list were ace relief pitchers Pete Richert and Eddie Watt.

Others were pitchers Mike Adamson, Frank Bertina and John Montague, infielders Bob Floyd, Chico Salmon and Stan Martin and catcher Johnny Oates.

Mario Top Qualifier at Daytona

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Mario Andretti, driving a bright red Ferrari, sought today to muscle in on Porsche's recent domination of international sports car racing, leading a powerful field in the grueling 24 hours of Daytona endurance race.

Andretti, the 1969 Indianapolis 500 winner, held the pole position for the race — first in the 1970 international season. The little Pennsylvania grabbed the top spot with a record qualifying speed of 122.903 mph in his five-liter 512S Ferrari. The race will start at 3 p.m. today.

Four of the five new 5-liter Italian cars started among the first 10 in the field of 65 racers — but they were not the favorites. Andretti barely broke the old qualifying record on a wet Daytona Speedway track and road course Friday.

Right behind Andretti were the baby blue and orange Porsche 917s of Joe Siffert-Brian Redman, Pedro Rodriguez-Leo Kinnunen and Kurt Ahrens-Vic Elford.

Co-driving with Andretti in the race will be thin young Italian Arturo Merzario. Merzario will start the race but said that he will depend on Merzario to spell him at regular two-hour intervals.

BRIEFLY... Cozier Church Trend; No Mormon Doctrine Change

By LES RODNEY

"When a congregation is scattered about over magnificent distances, possibly with some isolated in a balcony, the individual is encouraged to think his own thoughts without emerging from his private world," says Dr. John R. Scotford in a Protestant journal "Your Church."

The same people brought together "so that elbow touches elbow" he continues, "find it difficult not to lift their voices in song and their hearts in prayer while their resistance to the gospel diminishes."

Scotford is not only speaking about situations where the house is half full, in which any entertainer or public speaker knows it's best to have the folks "fill in down front."

Today's preachers, he believes, are finding it hard to communicate effectively in many of the large churches inherited from the past. (This is, hopefully, the age of more personal communication.)

"The day of the large church is over," he says. "The desire for intimacy is also affecting the shape of our churches. The long narrow shoe box place of worship is visually impressive but encourages the people to keep a safe distance from the pulpit by making the front seats unduly conspicuous. We are going back to the wide, shallow arrangement, which was popular during the early years of this century simply because it promotes a sense of togetherness between the pulpit and the pew."

The effective impact of a personality, he says, "penetrates for a lesser distance than does the sound of a voice. After 15 pews or about 50 feet from the personal involvement of the congregation in what is going on declines rapidly. Worshipers become mere onlookers."

Most folks would agree there is some truth to this, and that the shallower, more circular arrangement certainly, in itself, encourages more of a feeling of participation than the deep and narrow old church.

However, just to keep the record straight, it ought to be added that the truly great preacher reaches and involves everyone right up to and including the last row, in any shape or size church.

LUTHERAN World Action, an annual financial appeal for the past 30 years to support a global program of spiritual and material aid, raised $3,789,735 in 1969.

THE JOURNALISTIC fur is still flying in the California Southern Baptist over the editor's criticism of Vice President Agnew's speech on the mass media. In the latest issue's mailbox, a letter says:

"I do not approve of any Christian paper opposing any of our government leaders and therefore wish to cancel my California Southern Baptist paper. Please do not mail me another copy."

Responds the bloody but unbowed editor under the letter:

"You will probably want to give away your Bible also. There is hardly a book in the Bible from Genesis to Revelation that does not speak words of condemnation for governments and government leaders. Our Pilgrim forefathers who came to America were not content to confine their criticism of the English government and King. They started a revolution. Better turn in your history books too."

For the record, Southern Baptists writing to their state paper about the anti-Agnew editorial overwhelmingly backed the vice president and rapped the editor, maybe by as much as 10-1. The old Mailbag really became lively reading.

THERE WILL be no change of policy under the new leadership of the Mormon Church on the controversial exclusion of Negroes from the priesthood. It is considered a matter of doctrine, the leaders made clear in an interview last week, and while church programs are ever changing to keep pace with society, doctrine must remain steadfast as the revealed word of God.

President Joseph F. Smith and his two chief counselors, Harold B. Lee and N. Eldon Tanner, fielded some questions submitted in writing in advance of the press conference. No questions were permitted on the Negro policy, but one question noted that liberal members have hegerdard Smith as the church's most conservative theologian. Asked if his views have changed in recent years, Smith replied:

"I don't think my position has ever been altered."

'CHURCH OF YEAR' HONORED

FOR YOUTH PROGRAMS Pensacola Church Winner of 'Guideposts' Award

First Baptist Church of Pensacola, Florida, has been honored as winner of Guideposts magazine's annual Church Award. In an evening ceremony before 1800 church members and guests, Dr. Norman Vincent Peale cited the "conspicuous initiative in the congregation's handling of its youth programs," and presented a bronze plaque to Rev. Dr. James L. Pleitz, the pastor.

Inscribed on the plaque were the words:

Honoring the congregation of The First Baptist Church of Pensacola for the scope and strength of its youth programs.

To the adults for their initiative, to the young people for their response — together they proved that "Christianity is something you do."

Within the past year the youth of the church helped rebuild a church devastated by Hurricane Camille and then went on to repair and paint another church. The young people performed a highly successful folk-rock religious musical called "Tell It Like It Is," and participated in a highly original series of meetings called "The Underground Church of Pensacola" — the church's effective efforts to recreate for its teen-agers the emotional impact of the meetings of First-Century Christians.

"Our programs," said Helen May, youth editor, "are based on three concepts: (1) youth wants and needs to be active; (2) where the boys are, the girls are going to be there too; (3) when there is 'action,' the teen-agers don't want to miss out on it."

NEW 'CAREER' FROM WHEELCHAIR
Churchwoman Sibyl Smith at Work

A Rather Unusual Artist's 1st Exhibit

The doctors consider it some kind of miracle that she is still alive.

Stricken several years ago by cancer of the spine, Mrs. Sibyl Smith, an active churchwoman and community leader, turned her energies in a new direction — from her wheelchair.

She began to paint. Which isn't as easy as it might sound. There is pain. A braced limitation of movement. (Little things an artist takes for granted like stepping quickly backward and sideways from the easel and tilting the head for a different perspective). . . . And when she paints, Sibyl Smith has to use her left hand to support her right hand, the painting hand.

She had a few things going for her. Determination. When her children were pretty well grown some years back, she went back to college to complete her own education, and became a popular junior high counselor. She had a faith-centered serenity of spirit. And then, as you could probably surmise just by looking at the above picture, her life of active interest in the world and concern for its people mark her as woman hardly likely to waste time on useless brooding over misfortune.

This Sunday, at her church, Bixby Knolls Christian, Disciples of Christ, 1240 E. Carson St., 25 of Mrs. Smith's oil paintings will be informally exhibited during the coffee hour following the 10:45 a.m. service.

You might find it interesting to say hello to this rather unusual artist and to view her work. . . . L. R.

Dutch Catholic Group Backs Priest Celibacy

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — A group of conservative Dutch Roman Catholics rejected a recommendation made by the Dutch pastoral council to make celibacy for priests optional.

The group, called the Michael Legion, telegraphed their support to Pope Paul VI, saying it "vehemently" protested against an alleged suggestion by Cardinal Bernardus J. Alfrink, primate of the Netherlands, that the pastoral conference represented all Dutch Catholics.

Ultimately, the Dutch bishops themselves are responsible for recommendations of the council, the legion said in its telegram. These recommendations are "making many faithful Catholics lose confidence in their bishops completely," the legion added.

'REPARATIONS' HIT BY NAACP LEADER

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

As nearly everyone must know by now, the "Black Manifesto" is a document which threatens white churches with disruption unless they pay "reparations" for the wrongs inflicted on Negroes throughout U.S. history.

It specifies that the "reparations" be paid to the Black Economic Development Conference (BEDC), a new organization headed by a group of Negro militants including James Forman, author of the manifesto.

The demand has generated a great deal of controversy in religious bodies during the past year. Unfortunately, most of the debate thus far has consisted of white men giving white reasons why churches should or should not give money to the BEDC.

Now a respected leader of the black community has joined the debate — as an opponent of the manifesto. Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), expressed his views in a letter to the Philadelphia Yearly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends, a Quaker group.

"As the most experienced civil rights organization — and the only one commanding the loyalties of a mass membership — the NAACP's stand on this issue should be of some relevance," Wilkins said. "In the terms in which the reparations idea has been proclaimed, it is a snare and a delusion whose inevitable failure could have disastrous consequences."

He agreed with James Forman that American institutions, including churches, are still deeply stained with racism.

"In rejecting reparations, therefore, we do not absolve the churches of their moral obligation to effect sweeping change within and to give sacrificially of their substance to advance the goal of equality."

"We assert, however, that these obligations cannot be met by yielding to intimidation or by guilt-ridden suspension of the critical faculties. To give money to black claimants who are without credentials or competence for their professed aims is to show contempt for black Americans generally, because it says that, where Negroes are concerned, incompetence and mediocrity are acceptable standards."

Wilkins went on to cite the NAACP's own record of accomplishment in the area of black economic development. "Using our own meager resources," he said, the NAACP has organized a national consortium of Negro contractors to bid on large construction contracts.

"Nearly $100 million in new contracts have been won by Negroes as a result of this NAACP effort within the past two years, and much more is on the way. There is no single area of investment where the payoff in black economic strength is more certain . . . for success here not only builds Negro entrepreneurship: The Negro contractor hires the Negro plumber, the Negro electrician, the Negro sheet-metalworker; and he hires them at the prevailing wage rates and in spite of union exclusion."

Wilkins said the NAACP "urgently needs $100,000 to put the contractor program on a sure footing in 1970."

Here is an opportunity for white churchmen to put their money where their mouth is when they say they want to help Negro economic development but don't approve the extortion approach of the Black Manifesto.

LUTHERANS FAVOR TWO BIG CHANGES

NEW YORK (AP) — Cross-country studies indicate that Lutherans generally favor a break with long-standing Protestant tradition by admitting children to the Lord's Supper before they're confirmed into full church membership.

There also was predominant support for delaying the time of confirmation until midteens at the start of high school, when young people can make a more responsible decision about accepting Christian obligations.

Both changes would represent a departure from customs prevailing in most major Protestant churches since their 16th century split from Roman Catholicism.

The considered changes also would erase one of the differences in practice.

Results of the year-long consideration of the matter in local Lutheran congregations across the nation were made public by a joint commission of the three major American branches of Lutheranism.

The commission's proposals for permitting participation in the Lord's Supper prior to confirmation, and postponing confirmation until a more mature age, produced "much more agreement" than disagreement, the commission reported.

Legislative action on the subject is expected at conventions of two of the Lutheran denominations this year, and of the other in 1971.

COUNCIL'S AWARD BANQUET FRIDAY What Four Will Get Church Council 'Spotlight' for '69?

Who is the Long Beach area's minister of 1969? Who is the leading layman, leading churchwoman, leading church youth?

The answers will be forthcoming next Friday, Feb. 6 at the annual Spotlight Award Banquet, a social highlight of the Long Beach season, held this year in Los Altos United Methodist Church, 5950 E. Willow St.

The awards will be combined with installation of the new officers of the Long Beach Area Council of Churches, headed by incoming president Dr. H.

David Burcham, pastor of Covenant United Presbyterian Church.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Speed B. Leas, executive director of COMMIT, Southern California ecumenical agency credited with being one of the nation's most successful church missions to inner-city problems, through activating self-help projects and stimulating business to play a larger role.

Master of ceremonies will be George Robeson, Independent Press-Telegram columnist whose daily columns probe beneath the surface in wide-ranging areas of Long Beach life.

The youth choir of the host church will present a program of both modern and traditional music of celebration.

Theme of Rev. Leas' address will be the role of the church in creating an attitude of hope in times of change.

CLERKS VOTE SUNDAY; S'ANTA MAY RE-OPEN

The membership of the Pari-mutuel Employees Guild, Local 280, will vote on Sunday by secret ballot on a compromise proposal which, if accepted, would likely bring a resumption of racing in California Tuesday after a five-week blackout.

The proposal which involves two different plans will be put before clerks at separate meetings Sunday, in Northern and Southern California.

It is understood that the guild plans to present the two plans without making a recommendation to the membership. Both plans provide for a 2½-year contract which would expire in April, 1972.

Plan "A" calls for the two major tracks, Hollywood Park and Santa Anita, to pay higher wages than smaller tracks in the state. Under this plan Santa Anita and Hollywood Park would give a $3 per day increase the first year, an additional $3 per day the second year of the contract, with an additional $2 per day hike the last six months of the contract. The smaller tracks would pay a $2 per day increase for the first year of the contract, an additional $2 per day for the second year of the contract, with an additional $2 per day of the last six months of the contract.

Plan "B" provides that all tracks in the state give a $3 per day increase the first year of the contract, an additional $2 per day increase the second year of the contract, and an additional $2 per day increase for the last six months of the contract.

Oliva Signs with Twins — $60,000

Combined News Services

Two of the American League's big guns signed contracts with the Western Division champion Minnesota Twins Friday.

Both hard-hitting outfielder Tony Oliva and batting champion Rod Carew received raises.

Oliva, who batted .309 with 24 home runs and 101 runs batted in last season, drew an estimated $60,000 a year ago and will get an estimated $60,000 for the 1970 campaign.

Carew, who batted .322 to win his first batting title, was paid $25,000 in 1969 and asked for $50,000 this year. He may have come to terms for about $40,000.

The Twins also signed two rookies, righthanded pitcher Dave Goltz and shortstop Danny Thompson, former Oklahoma State University all-American.

Baltimore, which defeated the Twins for the American League pennant, also announced a group of signings. Heading the list were ace relief pitchers Pete Richert and Eddie Watt.

Others were pitchers Mike Adamson, Frank Bertina and John Montague, infielders Bob Floyd, Chico Salmon and Stan Martin and catcher Johnny Oates.

Mario Top Qualifier at Daytona

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Mario Andretti, driving a bright red Ferrari, sought today to muscle in on Porsche's recent domination of international sports car racing, leading a powerful field in the grueling 24 hours of Daytona endurance race.

Andretti, the 1969 Indianapolis 500 winner, held the pole position for the race — first in the 1970 international season. The little Pennsylvania grabbed the top spot with a record qualifying speed of 122.903 mph in his five-liter 512S Ferrari. The race will start at 3 p.m. today.

Four of the five new 5-liter Italian cars started among the first 10 in the field of 65 racers—but they were not the favorites. Andretti barely broke the old qualifying record on a wet Daytona Speedway track and road course Friday.

Right behind Andretti were the baby blue and orange Porsche 917s of Joe Siffert-Brian Redman, Pedro Rodriguez-Leo Kimmen and Kurt Ahrens-Vic Elford.

Co-driving with Andretti in the race will be the young Italian Arturo Merzario. Andretti will start the race but said that he will depend on Merzario to spell him at regular two-hour intervals.

BRIEFLY . . .

Cozier Church Trend; No Mormon Doctrine Change

By LES RODNEY

"When a congregation is scattered about over magnificent distances, possibly with some isolated in a balcony, the individual is encouraged to think his own thoughts without emerging from his private world," says Dr. John R. Scofield in a Protestant journal "Your Church."

The same people brought together "so that elbow touches elbow" he continues, "find it difficult not to lift their voices in song and their hearts in prayer while their resistance to the gospel diminishes."

Scofield is not only speaking about situations where the house is half full, in which any entertainer or public speaker knows it's best to have the folks "fill in down front."

Today's preachers, he believes, are finding it hard to communicate effectively in many of the large churches inherited from the past. (This is, hopefully, the age of more personal communication.)

"The day of the large church is over," he says. "The desire for intimacy is also affecting the shape of our churches. The long narrow shoe box place of worship is visually impressive but encourages the people to keep a safe distance from the pulpit by making the front seats unduly conspicuous. We are going back to the wide, shallow arrangement, which was popular during the early years of this century simply because it promotes a sense of togetherness between the pulpit and the pew."

The effective impact of a personality, he says, "penetrates for a lesser distance than does the sound of a voice. After 15 pews or about 50 feet from the personal involvement of the congregation in what is going on declines rapidly. Worshippers become mere onlookers."

Most folks would agree there is some truth to this, and that the shallower, more circular arrangement certainly, in itself, encourages more of a feeling of participation than the deep and narrow old church.

However, just to keep the record straight, it ought to be added that the truly great preacher reaches and involves everyone right up to and including the last row, in any shape or size church.

LUTHERAN World Action, an annual financial appeal for the past 30 years to support a global program of spiritual and material aid, raised $3,799,735 in 1969.

THE JOURNALISTIC fur is still flying in the California Southern Baptistist over the editor's criticism of Vice President Agnew's speech on the mass media. In the latest issue's mailbag, a letter says:

"I do not approve of any Christian paper opposing any of our government leaders and therefore wish

NEWS OF RELIGION

INDEPENDENT, PRESS-TELEGRAM—C-5
Long Beach, Calif., Sat., Jan. 31, 1970

to cancel my California Southern Baptist paper. Please do not mail me another copy."

Responds the bloody but unbowed editor under the letter:

"You will probably want to give away your Bible also. There is hardly a book in the Bible from Genesis to Revelation that does not speak words of condemnation for governments and government leaders. Our Pilgrim forefathers who came to America were not content to confine their criticism of the English government and King. They started a revolution. Better turn in your history books too."

For the record, Southern Baptists writing to their state paper about the anti-Agnew editorial overwhelmingly backed the vice president and rapped the editor, maybe by as much as 10-1. The old Mailbag really became lively reading.

THERE WILL be no change of policy under the new leadership of the Mormon Church on the controversial exclusion of Negroes from the priesthood. It is considered a matter of doctrine, the leaders made clear in an interview last week, and while church programs are ever changing to keep pace with society, doctrine must remain steadfast as the revealed word of God.

President Joseph F. Smith and his two chief counselors, Harold B. Lee and N. Eldon Tanner, fielded some questions submitted in writing in advance of the press conference. No questions were permitted on the Negro policy, but one question noted that liberal members have regarded Smith as the church's most conservative theologian. Asked if his views have changed in recent years, Smith replied:

"I don't think my position has ever been altered."

In another question with the same overtones, on the church's role in society, Tanner said: "The church tries to keep in step and apply its programs to a changing world." But, he added, "the gospel is unchanging."

1ST METHODIST DRIVE LEADER

Rev. Morris Fisher, director of Finance and Field Service for the Southland United Methodist Board of Missions, will be pulpit guest for the next two Sundays at First Methodist, Fifth and Pacific, and will work with the church in planning for its projected new sanctuary. Planned to replace the present 1908 structure, which is termed too expensive to maintain and inadequate for the future, the sanctuary is seen as a vote of confidence in downtown Long Beach and the future role of the church. 'CHURCH OF YEAR' HONORED

FOR YOUTH PROGRAMS Pensacola Church Winner of 'Guideposts' Award

First Baptist Church of Pensacola, Florida, has been honored as winner of Guideposts magazine's annual Church Award. In an evening ceremony before 1800 church members and guests, Dr. Norman Vincent Peale cited the "conspicuous initiative in the congregation's handling of its youth programs," and presented a bronze plaque to Rev. Dr. James L. Pleitz, the pastor.

Inscribed on the plaque were the words:

Honoring the congregation of The First Baptist Church of Pensacola for the scope and strength of its youth programs.

called "Tell It Like It Is," and participated in a highly original series of meetings called "The Underground Church of Pensacola" — the church's effective efforts to recreate for its teen-agers the emotional impact of the meetings of First-Century Christians.

"Our programs," said Helen May, youth editor, "are based on three concepts: (1) youth wants and needs to be active; (2) where the boys are, the girls are going to be there too; (3) when there is 'action,' the teen-agers don't want to miss out on it."

Fort Marcy Missing from Hialeah Feature

Associated Press

The $25,000-added Palm Beach Handicap at Hialeah lost some of its luster Friday when Fort Marcy was not entered in one of the two major features on today's racing program.

High Hat and Vent Du Nord will carry top weight of 118 pounds with Fort Marcy on the sidelines in the 1 1/16-mile event for 3-year-olds and up. Ten have been entered.

A field of 11 is in the $25,000-added Quaker Handicap, closing day feature at Liberty Bell Park.

Crack Ruler will carry a top post of 121. Balustrade, an entry with Magic Power, gets in with 118 for the 1 1/16-mile event for 4-year-olds and up.

At Bowie, Rollicking, with 124 pounds, has been labeled the class of a small field of six for the Francis Scott Key Stakes. The $20,000-added event will be run at six furlongs.

The New York division of the U.S. Trotting Assn. voted to oppose efforts by New York mayor John Lindsey to legalize off-track betting in New York.

NEW 'CAREER' FROM WHEELCHAIR
Churchwoman Sibil Smith at Work

A Rather Unusual Artist's 1st Exhibit

The doctors consider it some kind of miracle that she is still alive.

Stricken several years ago by cancer of the spine, Mrs. Sibil Smith, an active churchwoman and community leader, turned her energies in a new direction — from her wheelchair.

She began to paint. Which isn't as easy as it might sound. There is pain. A braced limitation of movement. (Little things an artist takes for granted like stepping quickly backward and sideways from the easel and tilting the head for a different perspective) . . . And when she paints, Sibil Smith has to use her left hand to support her right hand, the painting hand.

She had a few things going for her. Determination. When her children were pretty well grown some years back, she went back to college to complete her own education, and became a popular junior high counselor. She had a faith-centered serenity of spirit. And then, as you could probably surmise just by looking at the above picture, her life of active interest in the world and concern for its people mark her as woman hardly likely to waste time on useless brooding over misfortune.

This Sunday, at her church, Bixby Knolls Christian, Disciples of Christ, 1240 E. Carson St., 25 of Mrs. Smith's oil paintings will be informally exhibited during the coffee hour following the 10:45 a.m. service.

You might find it interesting to say hello to this rather unusual artist and to view her work . . . L. R.

AMSTERDAM (UPI) —

A group of conservative Dutch Roman Catholics rejected a recommendation made by the Dutch pastoral council to make celibacy for priests optional.

The group, called the Michael Legion, telegraphed their support to Pope Paul VI, saying it "vehemently" protested against an alleged suggestion by Cardinal Bernardus J. Alfrink, primate of the Netherlands, that the pastoral conference represented all Dutch Catholics.

Ultimately, the Dutch bishops themselves are responsible for recommendations of the council, the legion said in its telegram. These recommendations are "making many faithful Catholics lose confidence in their bishops completely," the legion added.

'REPARATIONS' HIT BY NAACP LEADER

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

As nearly everyone must know by now, the "Black Manifesto" is a document which threatens white churches with disruption unless they pay "reparations" for the wrongs inflicted on Negroes throughout U.S. history.

It specifies that the "reparations" be paid to the Black Economic Development Conference (BEDC), a new organization headed by a group of Negro militants including James Forman, author of the manifesto.

The demand has generated a great deal of controversy in religious bodies during the past year. Unfortunately, most of the debate thus far has consisted of white men giving white reasons why churches should or should not give money to the BEDC.

Now a respected leader of the black community has joined the debate — as an opponent of the manifesto. Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), expressed his views in a letter to the Philadelphia Yearly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends, a Quaker group.

"As the most experienced civil rights organization — and the only one commanding the loyalties of a mass membership — the NAACP's stand on this issue should be of some relevance," Wilkins said. "In the terms in which the reparations idea has been proclaimed, it is a snare and a delusion whose inevitable failure could have disastrous consequences."

He agreed with James Forman that American institutions, including churches, are still deeply stained with racism.

"In rejecting reparations, therefore, we do not absolve the churches of their moral obligation to effect sweeping change within and to give sacrificially of their substance to advance the goal of equality.

"We assert, however, that these obligations cannot be met by yielding to intimidation or by guilt-ridden suspension of the critical faculties. To give money to black claimants who are without credentials or competence for their professed aims is to show contempt for black Americans generally, because it says that, where Negroes are concerned, incompetence and mediocrity are acceptable standards."

Wilkins went on to cite the NAACP's own record of accomplishment in the area of black economic development. "Using our own meager resources," he said, the NAACP has organized a national consortium of Negro contractors to bid on large construction contracts.

"Nearly $100 million in new contracts have been won by Negroes as a result of this NAACP effort within the past two years, and much more is on the way. There is no single area of investment where the payoff in black economic strength is more certain . . . for success here not only builds Negro entrepreneurship: The Negro contractor hires the Negro plumber, the Negro electrician, the Negro sheet-metalworker; and he hires them at the prevailing wage rates and, in spite of union exclusion."

Wilkins said the NAACP "urgently needs $100,000 to put the contractor program on a sure footing in 1970."

Here is an opportunity for white churchmen to put their money where their mouth is when they say they want to help Negro economic development but don't approve the extortion approach of the Black Manifesto.

LUTHERANS FAVOR TWO BIG CHANGES

NEW YORK — Cross-country studies indicate that Lutherans generally favor a break with long-standing Protestant tradition by admitting children to the Lord's Supper before they're confirmed into full church membership.

There also was predominant support for delaying the time of confirmation until midteens at the start of high school, when young people can make a more responsible decision about accepting Christian obligations.

Both changes would represent a departure from customs prevailing in most major Protestant churches since their 16th century split from Roman Catholicism.

The considered changes also would erase one of the differences in practice. Results of the year-long consideration of the matter in local Lutheran congregations across the nation were made public by a joint commission of the three major American branches of Lutheranism.

The commission's proposals for permitting participation in the Lord's Supper prior to confirmation, and postponing confirmation until a more mature age, produced "much more agreement" than disagreement, the commission reported.

Legislative action on the subject is expected at conventions of two of the Lutheran denominations this year, and of the other in 1971.

Dr. Van Impe, having memorized more than 8,000 verses of the New Testament, is called "A Walking Bible." He also plays an accorgan, a modern musical invention that combines accordion, organ, vibratone, harp-

COUNCIL'S AWARD BANQUET FRIDAY

What Four Will Get Church Council 'Spotlight' for '69?

Who is the Long Beach area's minister of 1969? Who is the leading layman, leading churchwoman, leading church youth?

The answers will be forthcoming next Friday, Feb. 6 at the annual Spotlight Award Banquet, a social highlight of the Long Beach season, held this year in Los Altos United Methodist Church, 5950 E. Willow St.

The awards will be combined with installation of the new officers of the Long Beach Area Council of Churches, headed by incoming president Dr. H.

David Burcham, pastor of Covenant United Presbyterian Church.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Speed B. Leas, executive director of COMMIT, Southern and ecumenical agency credited with being one of the nation's most successful church missions to inner-city problems, through activating self-help projects and stimulating business to play a larger role.

Master of ceremonies will be George Robeson, Independent, Press-Telegram columnist whose daily columns probe beneath the surface in wide-ranging areas of Long Beach life.

The youth choir of the host church will present a program of both modern and traditional music of celebration.

Theme of Rev. Leas' address will be the role of the church in creating an attitude of hope in times of change.

Faith Can Cancel Out Enemy-Fear

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE

One of the most crippling afflictions of our modern age is fear. And it is not fear itself, but the painful symptoms it can produce: anxiety, depression and in some cases, actual physical illness.

Of course fear is not a new problem. A century ago the famous English author, Thomas Carlyle wrote, "The first duty of a man is still that of subduing fear." It remains our chief duty today.

The first thing all of us have to realize about fear is that most of the things we are afraid of will probably never happen. Most of us will not die of cancer, be lost in a plane crash, lose our jobs. If we let such fears take hold of us, if we begin to take them seriously, they can cripple our lives.

FEAR CAN'T be evaded. And it can't be avoided. It has to be met head on. If you're willing to go to the very heart of what it is you are afraid of, that fear will haunt you constantly. And in the process it will create feelings of anxiety and worry that can be crippling. Theodore Roosevelt once said, "I have often been afraid, but I wouldn't give in to it. I made myself act as though I was not afraid, and gradually my fear disappeared."

Action is the only answer. Fear of trying something new, after all, is very normal. When a child enters a new school or when a man starts a new job, he is bound to be fearful. But if he acts with confidence and faith his fears vanish. And he has that glowing sense of accomplishment that comes with trying something new and succeeding. I dare say that many great men have shared Teddy Roosevelt's thoughts on fear. I'm sure, for example, that no one can sit atop a rocket and run through a countdown without some feelings of uncertainty. But if one accepts these feelings as normal, they can be dealt with.

The most important first step in conquering fear is to find out what it is you are really afraid of. This requires real honesty with yourself. When you do this you are then ready to set yourself on a course of action that will meet that fear head on. If you're afraid of some illness, for instance, make an appointment for a complete physical examination. Find out if there is any foundation at all for your fear. Then forget it. If you're afraid of your boss, try to analyze exactly what it is about him that upsets you. If may very well be his problem not yours. Once you understand in your own mind why he becomes upset or angry or impatient, you'll know how to handle these difficulties without fear.

The second step in conquering fear is to remember that you are not alone. You have friends, a family to support you in your efforts. And you have God who is always there to help you overcome your fear.

I REMEMBER once talking with a young airline hostess who had just been through a terrible and fearful experience. Eleven minutes after her plane took off it went into a nose dive. It dropped 19,000 feet in 40 seconds. When the captain finally pulled the big jet out of that dive he was only 5,000 feet above the ground. Eight more seconds and it would have crashed.

Church Humor

"Will you stop saying 'Holy Smoke!'"

I asked her what had gone through her mind in those terrible moments. "First of all," she said, "I felt very close to God. And when I accepted His presence, I felt no fear. I thought about my life, the things I had done. I thought about my religion. And I knew that whatever happened, God would stay with me."

That's for sure. God will stay with all of us always if we open our hearts and minds and accept His presence and help. Fear is an awesome and painful thing. But it can be overcome. It can be conquered. Try to understand what it is you are afraid of and get to work on it. Trust in the good Lord and yourself and you can turn fear into a stunning and satisfying victory. Faith can cancel our fear.

Nigerian Project by World Council

The World Council of Churches reported that the Christian Council of Nigeria began its first rehabilitation project in the town of Asaba on the River Niger. The project includes provision for supplying those families returning to the area around Asaba with immediate cash for resettlement, seeds and tools for work on their small holdings, and medical supplies for clinics in the two towns concerned.

FATHER FILAS
Family Life Counselor

Noted Priest to Lecture on Sex Education

Rev. Francis L. Filas, S. J., professor of theology at Loyola University in Chicago, author and nationally known crusader for wholesome family life, will lecture Sunday, 8 p.m. in St. Maria Goretti Church, 3954 Palo Verde Ave. His topic will be "Sex Education of Children for Parents." A 50 cent donation will be asked.

Father Filas, who has recorded six LP albums on sex education and other aspects of family life, has addressed more than 400,000 husbands and wives, engaged couples and teen-agers of all religious affiliations. He was awarded the "Terra Sancta" and "Shalom" recognition by the state of Israel.

His most popular book, "The Family for Families," has gone through 11 printings in paperback.

BOOKS

The 'Irregulars'

THE NORTH AVENUE IRREGULARS. By The Rev. Albert Fay Hill. Pocket Books. 75 cents.

A Presbyterian minister (who was raised in Fullerton) tells the true story of his "gang" of lady vigilantes who helped battle organized crime in New Rochelle, N.Y.

They called themselves the North Avenue Irregulars in jest, but their purpose was serious: a campaign against the Mafia or whatever one wants to call the mob.

Their efforts at crime-busting have bagged a sackful of crooks. This book about their adventures was originally published by Cowles in 1968 and is now available in the Pocket Book edition.

Fete New Pastor

Societies of the Holy Innocents will tender a reception for Rev. Edward J. Sexton Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. to celebrate his recent official elevation to pastor of Holy Innocents Church, 425 E. 20th St.

SELLS PRAYER UNLIMITED

Reg Goff, former head of the Conference Board of Evangelism of the Methodist Church, now assigned to travel at large as missionary for "Prayer Unlimited," deepening of spiritual life through prayer will be at Wesley United Methodist Church, 1100 Freeman Ave., Sunday 11 a.m., 6 p.m. for a youth meeting, and 7:30 p.m., then Monday Through Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

School Prayer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of Project Prayer said this week the 3.5-million member organization is launching a nationwide campaign to return voluntary prayer to the public schools as a living memorial to the late Sen. Everett M. Dirksen. Dirksen was the author of a proposed constitutional amendment to reverse a Supreme Court decision that prohibits prayers by children in the public schools.

Oil Slick Survey Putin Perspective

By GEORGE ERES
 TV-Radio Editor

The other night, on KNBC (Ch. 4), during the 6:30 p.m. newscast, Tom Brokaw reported the results of a survey commissioned by the station to determine public interest in the Santa Barbara oil pollution problem.

The interesting thing about this poll is the reason it was taken.

Brokaw reported, that the poll was taken in response to some criticism that the oil pollution problem at Santa Barbara was not all as important or interesting to the people there as to warrant the fuss TV was making of it. The charge implied that the TV station was in effect manufacturing a problem.

IN THE case of the poll reported by KNBC, the results showed that people in the area were vitally interested in the problem of oil pollution.

But, assume for a moment, the poll had not shown this. Suppose the poll reflected a complete indifference to the oil pollution on the beach by people surveyed? Would that have made the story any less significant or that KNBC was irresponsible in carrying the news and the protests?

If you are not impressed with the results of the poll, you have a perfect argument against it. "Sure," you can say, "after all that publicity on TV and in the newspapers, what do you expect? Naturally, the poll shows an interest in the subject. What we're saying is if you hadn't of beefed this thing up out of all proportion to public interest, the poll would show the opposite."

IN FACT the poll proves nothing as far as the basic question is concerned: does a newspaper or a broadcasting station require the justification of public opinion poll before it reports on an issue?

If that's the case why hire reporters to dig up facts and editors to make news judgements? Why not just use the handouts from the paid publicity agents or press representatives of government bureaus?

Then no one will be disturbed by the news.

IF YOU'RE from Wilson High School in Long Beach, or know people there, you might tune in on "Groovey" at 8 p.m., Sunday, Ch. 9. A group from the school will be on the show.

"Eyewitness News," Ch. 7, begins Sunday night reports at 11:15 p.m., expanding the report to seven nights a week.

RADIO NOTES: KGER (1390) repeats as a special three separately aired broadcasts on "Illegal Drug Use," at 3 p.m., today.

KMET-FM (94.7) premieres "World of Watts" at 8:30 a.m., Sunday. The half-hour discussion programs will be hosted by Edmund Pace Jr., executive director of the Westminster Neighborhood Association.

CONFIDENT LIVING

Faith Can Cancel Out Enemy-Fear

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE

One of the most crippling afflictions of our modern age is fear. And it is not fear itself, but the painful symptoms it can produce: anxiety, depression and in some cases, actual physical illness.

Of course fear is not a new problem. A century ago the famous English author, Thomas Carlyle wrote, "The first duty for a man is still that of subduing fear." It remains our chief duty today.

The first thing all of us have to realize about fear is that most of the things we are afraid of will probably never happen. Most of us will not die of cancer, be lost in a plane crash, lose our jobs. If we let such fears take hold of us, if we begin to take them seriously, they can cripple our lives.

FEAR CAN'T be evaded. And it can't be avoided. It has to be met head on. If you're willing to go to the very heart of what it is you are afraid of, that fear will haunt you constantly. And in the process it will create feelings of anxiety and worry that can be crippling. Theodore Roosevelt once said, "I have often been afraid, but I wouldn't give in to it. I made myself act as though I was not afraid, and gradually my fear disappeared."

Action is the only answer. Fear of trying something new, after all, is very normal. When a child enters a new school or when a man starts a new job, he is bound to be fearful. But if he acts with confidence and faith his fears vanish. And he has that glowing sense of accomplishment that comes with trying something new and succeeding. I dare say that many great men have shared Teddy Roosevelt's thoughts on fear. I'm sure, for example, that no one can sit atop a rocket and run through a countdown without some feelings of uncertainty. But if one accepts these feelings as normal, they can be dealt with.

The most important first step in conquering fear is to find out what it is you are really afraid of. This requires real honesty with yourself. When you do this you are then ready to set yourself on a course of action that will meet that fear head on. If you're afraid of some illness, for instance, make an appointment for a complete physical examination. Find out if there is any foundation at all for your fear. Then forget it. If you're afraid of your boss, try to analyze exactly what it is about him that upsets you. If may very well be his problem not yours. Once you understand in your own mind why he becomes upset or angry or impatient, you'll know how to handle these difficulties without fear.

The second step in conquering fear is to remember that you are not alone. You have friends, a family to support you in your efforts. And you have God who is always there to help you overcome your fear.

I REMEMBER once talking with a young airline hostess who had just been through a terrible and fearful experience. Eleven minutes after her plane took off it went into a nose dive. It dropped 19,000 feet in 40 seconds. When the captain finally pulled the big jet out of that dive he was only 5,000 feet above the ground. Eight more seconds and it would have crashed.

I asked her what had gone through her mind in those terrible moments. "First of all," she said, "I felt very close to God. And when I accepted His presence, I felt no fear. I thought about my life, the things I had done. I thought about my religion. And I knew that whatever happened, God would stay with me."

That's for sure. God will stay with all of us always if we open our hearts and minds and accept His presence and help. Fear is an awesome and painful thing. But it can be overcome. It can be conquered. Try to understand what it is you are afraid of and get to work on it. Trust in the good Lord and yourself and you can turn fear into a stunning and satisfying victory. Faith can cancel our fear.

Nigerian Project by World Council

The World Council of Churches reported that the Christian Council of Nigeria began its first rehabilitation project in the town of Asaba on the River Niger. The project includes provision for supplying those families returning to the area around Asaba with immediate cash for resettlement, seeds and tools for work on their small holdings, and medical supplies for clinics in the two towns concerned.

FATHER FILAS

Noted Priest to Lecture on Sex Education

Rev. Francis L. Filas, S. J., professor of theology at Loyola University in Chicago, author and nationally known crusader for wholesome family life, will lecture Sunday, 8 p.m. in St. Maria Goretti Church, 3934 Palo Verde Ave. His topic will be "Sex Education of Children for Parents." A 50 cent donation will be asked.

Father Filas, who has recorded six LP albums on sex education and other aspects of family life, has addressed more than 400,000 husbands and wives, engaged couples and teen-agers of all religious affiliations. He was awarded the "Terra Sancta" and "Shalom" recognition by the state of Israel.

His most popular book, "The Family for Families," has gone through 11 printings in paperback.

GOINGS ON

Greenlee, president of California State College at Los Angeles, will speak at the swinging Youth Service of Holy Cross Lutheran, 4321 Cerritos Ave., Los Alamitos, Sunday at 7 p.m. He is chairman of the Los Angeles Goals Project, a planning group. "China in Change" will be the topic of Dr. Gerald B. Harvey Sunday following an appropriately Chinese dinner 5:30 p.m. at Los Altos Methodist, 5950 E. Willow St., part of the school of missions. Dr. Harvey has traveled extensively in Asia for the denomination, conducting seminars for national leaders. Dr. Marion de Velder, general secretary of the Reformed Church in America, will speak Sunday, 7:15 p.m. in Bethel Reformed of Bellflower, 10012 Ramona St. He is on a national fact finding mission, visiting churches of the denomination.

Rev. James Farrell, Redemptorist missionary, will be speaking on family living today through Tuesday, 3:30 and 7:30 p.m. in St. Peter & St. Paul Catholic Church, 515 W. Opp St., Wilmington. An open discussion regarding the new year for Church Women United, and preparation for the ecumenical World Day of Prayer Mar. 6 will be held Friday, 10 a.m. in First United Presbyterian, 600 E. Fifth St. "Narcotics: Pit of Despair" will be the theme of a film and spoken presentation by Rev. Eugene McDowell of Narcotic Education Foundation of America Sunday 7 p.m. in Trinity Lutheran of Norwalk, 11507 Studebaker Road. Evangelist Jim Cox will lead a revival tonight at 7:30 and Sunday 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. in Door of Faith Revival Center, 34 E. Market St. Films and slides on Southeast Asia by E. Pearce Hayes, former missionary, and a book review of "China Today" by Seales Bates will be on the agenda at the third mission seminar on the topic Sunday, 12:30 p.m., with luncheon, at Belmont Heights Methodist, 317 Termino Ave.

BOOKS

The 'Irregulars'

THE NORTH AVENUE IRREGULARS. By The Rev. Albert Fay Hill. Pocket Books. 75 cents.

A Presbyterian minister (who was raised in Fullerton) tells the true story of his "gang" of lady vigilantes who helped battle organized crime in New Rochelle, N.Y.

They called themselves the North Avenue Irregulars in jest, but their purpose was serious: a campaign against the Mafia or whatever one wants to call the mob.

Their efforts at crime-busting have bagged a sackful of crooks. This book about their adventures was originally published by Cowles in 1968 and is now available in the Pocket Book edition.

School Prayer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of Project Prayer said this week the 3.5-million member organization is launching a nationwide campaign to return voluntary prayer to the public schools as a living memorial to the late Sen. Everett M. Dirksen. Dirksen was the author of a proposed constitutional amendment to reverse a Supreme Court decision that prohibits prayers by children in the public schools.

Oil Slick Survey

Put in Perspective

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

The other night, on KNBC (Ch. 4), during the 6:30 p.m. newscast, Tom Brokaw reported the results of a survey commissioned by the station to determine public interest in the Santa Barbara oil pollution problem.

The interesting thing about this poll is the reason it was taken.

Brokaw reported, that the poll was taken in response to some criticism that the oil pollution problem at Santa Barbara was not all as important or interesting to the people there as to warrant the fuss TV was making of it. The charge implied that the TV station was in effect manufacturing a problem.

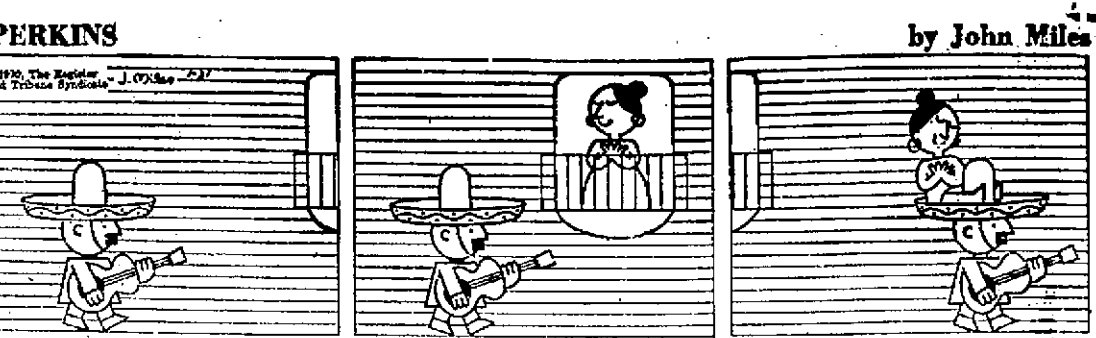

IN THE case of the poll reported by KNBC, the results showed that people in the area were vitally interested in the problem of oil pollution.

But, assume for a moment, the poll had not shown this. Suppose the poll reflected a complete indifference to the oil pollution on the beach by people surveyed? Would that have made the story any less significant or that KNBC was irresponsible in carrying the news and the protests?

If you are not impressed with the results of the poll, you have a perfect argument against it. "Sure," you can say, "after all that publicity on TV and in the newspapers, what do you expect? Naturally, the poll shows an interest in the subject. What we're saying is if you hadn't beefed this thing up out of all proportion to public interest, the poll would show the opposite."

IN FACT the poll proves nothing as far as the basic question is concerned: does a newspaper or a broadcasting station require the justification of public opinion poll before it reports on an issue?

If that's the case why hire reporters to dig up facts and editors to make news judgements? Why not just use the handouts from the paid publicity agents or press representatives of government bureaus?

Then no one will be disturbed by the news.

IF YOU'RE from Wilson High School in Long Beach, or know people there, you might tune in on "Gronvey" at 6 p.m., Sunday, Ch. 9. A group from the school will be on the show.

"Eyewitness News," Ch. 7, begins Sunday night reports at 11:15 p.m., expanding the report to seven nights a week.

RADIO NOTES: KGER (1390) repeats as a special three separately aired broadcasts on "Illegal Drug Use," at 3 p.m., today.

KMET-FM (94.7) premieres "World of Watts" at 8:30 a.m., Sunday. The half-hour discussion programs will be hosted by Edmund Pace Jr., executive director of the Westminster Neighborhood Association.

Leave It To Larry

By LARRY MEDER
HARBOR CHEVROLET

A young man of 18 was rushed to a hospital in critical condition. He was entirely blameless in an accident and a team of surgeons worked desperately to save his life.

Upon being moved to intensive care, he regained consciousness and although under an oxygen tent with a 50-50 chance of recovery, high hopes were held for his survival.

Because of badly swollen lips, he could not speak, so he motioned for a paper and pencil and requested they summon Father Kelly — a lifetime friend of the family. The good priest arrived and stood beside the bed and as Tom opened his eyes, they seemed to widen with recognition — so he hastily scrawled a message and thrust the piece of paper toward the Padre. Then, with a desperate gasp — that proved to be his last, Tom expired.

Picking up the note that had fluttered to the floor before he could snatch it, Father Kelly put it in his pocket and sadly administered the Last Sacrament to his young friend.

Upon returning to his parish, the fine Father remembered the note and opened the crumpled message, which read, "Father — you're standing on my oxygen-tube!!!"

Prostitute Roles Trouble to Sylvia

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Life has changed for actress Sylvia Miles since her celebrated scene as a prostitute with Jon Voight in "Midnight Cowboy," and not altogether comfortably.

Sylvia is a well-endowed blonde accustomed to attracting male attention on the streets of Manhattan where she lives.

Now in addition to turning heads, she is also stopped by amorous natives and tourists alike. It is a mixed blessing.

"I AM HAPPY I was so convincing in the picture," Sylvia said. "But I think men should realize that I'm an actress and not the kind of girl I played in the picture."

Among the men overwhelmed by the authenticity of Sylvia's performance are motion picture producers. She has had no fewer than six propositions to repeat the role in new movies.

"What kind of girl do they think I am?" Sylvia asked.

The question did not appear to require an answer. "I mean, I don't want to get stuck playing prosti-tutes for the rest of my life," she said.

Unhappily, it was just such a role that won her the part in "Midnight Cowboy." Years ago Miss Miles played a soiled dove in a little-known, spectacularly bad picture titled "Psychomania."

IT HAS BEEN running on the late, late, late television shows.

"John Schlesinger happened to be sitting in front of his TV set at 3 a.m. one day and saw the old movie," Sylvia said. "That inspired him to cast me in 'Cowboy.'"

"I agreed to do the picture. But on the day when I had to do the nude scene with Jon Voight, we both took off all our clothes. I wasn't self-conscious because I'd gone around and told the crew members not to pay any attention.

"They were very good about not staring. So things went very well."

For a time, at least, Sylvia's pristine condition in the scene was not enhanced when the set was flooded by sightseers.

The sight they saw was Sylvia — twice a divorcee — bare naked.

THEY WERE, however, as shocked as she. The visitors were 23 Japanese film students from Tokyo learning the intricacies of the American motion picture as an art form.

"Lord knows what they told their friends and families when they got back to Japan," Sylvia said.

Rather than accept another role as a fallen maid, our heroine held out for something less than the drama of virtue squandered. She leaves this week for Peru and the role of a script girl in "The Last Movie."

Script girls are not notoriously chaste. But neither are they accosted in the streets.

OUT ON HER OWN

Carol Cole, daughter of the late Nat "King" Cole, gestures as she talks about her experience trying to achieve success as a black actress. She is in Paris for what she says is a good part in a good picture: she plays an American nurse in "Promise at Dawn," a film directed by Jules Dassin which stars Melina Mercouri.

Schmidt-Isserstedt Presents Music of Henze in Southland

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

Symphonic music by Hans Werner Henze, Mozart, and Dvorak, in that order, brought variety to a weekend otherwise devoted to ballet and chamber music, Thursday night, when guest conductor Hans Schmidt-Isserstedt returned to the podium of the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

Strange bedfellows? Perhaps, but the experience of hearing Henze's Second Symphony (1948), followed by Mozart's A Major Piano Concerto, K. 488, followed by the Seventh Symphony of Dvorak, was not unsettling. It was illuminating.

IT MAY BE ironic that Schmidt-Isserstedt (born 1900) should be the one to introduce the music of Henze (born 1926) to audiences of an orchestra led regularly by Zubin Mehta

JAKOB GIMPEL
'Plays With East'

(born 1936), but the irony is by now too familiar to cause anything happier than a sneer. Mehta does not champion composers of his own generation, and we are all the losers thereby.

Fortunately, such thoughts did not occupy us Thursday; we were too caught up in rediscovering the visceral experience that is the Second Symphony. It is German music, all right; it makes the listener sit up, pay attention, and work, but it repays the effort.

Our ears told us what William Mann's well wrought program notes later confirmed, that the piece is preserial. That description, with the added comment that Henze's multiple compositional gifts include an unfailing sense of continuity, plus an articulate use of orchestral devices, should imply the scope of this early work. That we on this coast have not been given live hearings of the succeeding three symphonies — so far as I can find out, Henze has not yet written a sixth — ought to be cause for some resentment, I should think.

COMPLETING the symmetry begun by the surprising placement of the Henze Symphony first on his program, conductor Schmidt-Isserstedt closed that program with a broadly-paced yet completely engaging account of Dvorak's Seventh.

After a month's second honeymoon with Mehta, the Philharmonic seemed ripe for a little dalliance with an older lover. The analogy is apt, I think, considering the musical results. There are some things that come only with age; this kind of expansiveness, this manner of almost restrained propulsion, are among them. The orchestra played magnificently. Among many other of its soloists, one must single out the beautiful clarinet playing of Michele Bloch Zukovsky.

Jakob Gimpel was the soloist in the Concerto, playing with that ease and articulation we have admired so much in the past, but surprising us with a tone that was too often steely, and no discernible attempt at collaboration with his accompanists.

SCHMIDT-ISSERSTEDT made no apparent effort in this direction, either, and the results were ragged, as well as humorless. Gimpel projected the elegant self-communion of the Adagio, but the outside movements were, sorry to say, pedestrian. Something must have been amiss between the protagonists; separately, this kind of Mozart is anathema to both of them.

Good news belated: No thanks to normal channels, we found out this week that the Philharmonic's only new member in this 51st season is bass trombonist Jeffrey Reynolds. Reynolds, a 1967 graduate of Cal State, Long Beach, joined the orchestra last Oct. 30. Sometimes, it seems, news travels slowly between The Music Center and the hinterlands.

PARLAY

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A schoolgirl, writing to the Chamber of Commerce for information about this gambling city, said, "I would like to know your population, and please send me some poker chips."

Film Not Obscene

SAN FRANCISCO (U) — The motion picture "Man and Wife" is not educational, but neither is it legally obscene, a Municipal Court judge has ruled.

Judge Harry W. Low on Thursday also ordered police to return prints of the film that they had seized last August at the Paris and North Beach theaters.

Prostitute Roles Trouble to Sylvia

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Life has changed for actress Sylvia Miles since her celebrated scene as a prostitute with Jon Voight in "Midnight Cowboy," and not altogether comfortably.

Sylvia is a well-endowed blonde accustomed to attracting male attention on the streets of Manhattan where she lives.

Now in addition to turning heads, she is also stopped by anxious natives and tourists alike. It is a mixed blessing.

"I AM HAPPY I was so convincing in the picture," Sylvia said. "But I think men should realize that I'm an actress and not the kind of girl I played in the picture."

Among the men overwhelmed by the authenticity of Sylvia's performance are motion picture producers. She has had no fewer than six propositions to repeat the role in new movies.

"What kind of girl do they think I am?" Sylvia asked.

The question did not appear to require an answer. "I mean, I don't want to get stuck playing prosti-tutes for the rest of my life," she said.

Unhappily, it was just such a role that won her the part in "Midnight Cowboy." Years ago Miss Miles played a soiled dove in a little-known, spectacularly bad picture titled "Psychomania."

IT HAS BEEN running on the late, late, late television shows.

"John Schlesinger happened to be sitting in front of his TV set at 3 a.m. one day and saw the old movie," Sylvia said. "That inspired him to cast me in 'Cowboy.'"

"I agreed to do the picture. But on the day when I had to do the nude scene with Jon Voight, we both took off all our clothes. I wasn't self-conscious because I'd gone around and told the crew members not to pay any attention.

"They were very good about not staring. So things went very well."

For a time, at least, Sylvia's pristine condition in the scene was not enhanced when the set was flooded by sightseers.

The sight they saw was Sylvia — twice a divorcee — bare naked.

THEY WERE, however, as shocked as she. The visitors were 23 Japanese film students from Tokyo learning the intricacies of the American motion picture as an art form.

"Lord knows what they told their friends and families when they got back to Japan," Sylvia said.

Rather than accept another role as a fallen maid, our heroine held out for something less than the drama of virtue squandered. She leaves this week for Peru and the role of a script girl in "The Last Movie."

Script girls are not notoriously chaste. But neither are they accosted in the streets.

OUT ON HER OWN

Carol Cole, daughter of the late Nat "King" Cole, gestures as she talks about her experience trying to achieve success as a black actress. She is in Paris for what she says is a good part in a good picture; she plays an American nurse in "Promise at Dawn," a film directed by Jules Dassin which stars Melina Mercouri.

Schmidt-Isserstedt Presents Music of Henze in Southland

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

Symphonic music by Hans Werner Henze, Mozart, and Dvorak, in that order, brought variety to a weekend otherwise devoted to ballet and chamber music, Thursday night, when guest conductor Hans Schmidt-Isserstedt returned to the podium of the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

Strange bedfellows? Perhaps, but the experience of hearing Henze's Second Symphony (1948), followed by Mozart's A Major Piano Concerto, K. 408, followed by the Seventh Symphony of Dvorak, was not unsettling. It was illuminating.

IT MAY BE ironic that Schmidt-Isserstedt (born 1900) should be the one to introduce the music of Henze (born 1926) to audiences of an orchestra led regularly by Zubin Mehta

JAKOB GIMPEL
"Plays With Ease"

(born 1936), but the irony is by now too familiar to cause anything happier than a sneer. Mehta does not champion composers of his own generation, and we are all the losers thereby.

Fortunately, such thoughts did not occupy us Thursday; we were too caught up in rediscovering the visceral experience that is the Second Symphony. It is German music, all right; it makes the listener sit up, pay attention, and work, but it repays the effort.

Our ears told us what William Mann's well wrought program notes later confirmed, that the piece is prescient. That description, with the added comment that Henze's multiple compositional gifts include an unflinching sense of continuity, plus an articulate use of orchestral devices, should imply the scope of this early work. That we on this coast have not been given live hearings of the succeeding three symphonies — so far as I can find out, Henze has not yet written a sixth — ought to be cause for some resentment, I should think.

COMPLETING the symmetry begun by the surprising placement of the Henze Symphony first on his program, conductor Schmidt-Isserstedt closed that program with a broadly-paced yet completely engaging account of Dvorak's Seventh.

After a month's second honeymoon with Mehta, the Philharmonic seemed ripe for a little dalliance with an older lover. The analogy is apt, I think, considering the musical results. There are some things that come only with age; this kind of expansiveness, this manner of almost restrained propulsion, are among them. The orchestra played magnificently. Among many other of its soloists, one must single out the beautiful clarinet playing of Michele Bloch Zukovsky.

Jakob Gimpel was the soloist in the Concerto, playing with that ease and articulation we have admired so much in the past, but surprising us with a tone that was too often steely, and no discernible attempt at collaboration with his accompanists.

SCHMIDT-ISSERSTEDT made no apparent effort in this direction, either, and the results were ragged, as well as humorless. Gimpel projected the elegant self-communion of the Adagio, but the outside movements were, sorry to say, pedestrian. Something must have been amiss between the protagonists; separately, this kind of Mozart is anathema to both of them.

Good news belated: No thanks to normal channels, we found out this week that the Philharmonic's only new member in this 51st season is bass trombonist Jeffrey Reynolds. Reynolds, a 1967 graduate of Cal State, Long Beach, joined the orchestra last Oct. 30. Sometimes, it seems, news travels slowly between "The Music Center and the hinterlands."

PARLAY

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A schoolgirl, writing to the Chamber of Commerce for information about this gambling city, said, "I would like to know your population, and please send me some poker chips."

Film Not Obscene

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The motion picture "Man and Wife" is not educational, but neither is it legally obscene, a Municipal Court judge has ruled.

Judge Harry W. Low on Thursday also ordered police to return prints of the film that they had seized last August at the Paris and North Beach theaters.

CLASSIFIED ADS DELIVER!

Funny how most things have a way of turning out right. When you are young and still in college, money for "extracurricular" items like a guitar is often hard to come by. But this would-be musician lucked out! Just when it seemed he would never own a guitar, a Classified Ad delivered an almost-new one at an affordable price. It's happy days ahead for the new guitarist and the former owner is whistling a happy tune too. He's pleased because Classified Ads delivered a cash buyer for the guitar he no longer plays. It's another example of things turning out right... when people turn to the Classified Ads.
